2 Admit Mansfield Area School Robberies

Looting Wave Solved

Ex-Convict, Youth Held

A wave of Ohio high school robberies in the past three weeks, including no less than six in the Mansfield area, was believed solved yesterday with the arrest of two Mount Vernon men.

The two, Dwight Cherry, 51, and Robert J. Kennedy, 21, confessed looting at least eight high school buildings in Ohio and Indiana after they were arrested at Zanesville yesterday.

Of the eight they admitted looting, one was at Big Prairie, Holmes county, another at Shreve, Wayne county, and the third at Hayesville, Ashland county. The Big Prairie and Shreve robberies were both on the night of Feb. 16. The loss at Big Prairie was only eight dollars, but at Shreve the looters took over $500.

Ashland County Sheriff M. F. Rickenbrod told The News-Journal last night that in another school robbery on Feb. 10, at Perrysville, tactics used by the thieves were similar to those used at Hayesville.

Sheriff Rickenbrod stated that he and Sheriff Glenn A. Rike of Wayne county will go to Zanesville today to question the two men held there.

Sheriff Wayne D. Starner of Holmes county reported last night that in addition to the Big Prairie robbery, the high schools at Killbuck and Lakeville have been looted recently.

In all of the robbery cases, the thieves gained entrance by breaking windows. Each time they left several doors open, apparently to provide a quick means of escape.

Loss at Perrysville was between $35 and $40, but no money was found at Hayesville, Rickenbrod reported.

According to Detectives Lawrence Heischman and Paul Fulton of Columbus, Cherry had served a 10-year prison term for armed robbery in Mount Vernon.

Cherry, according to the Zanesville News, admitted taking part in more than 100 safe burglaries in schools in the past five years. It was just five years ago that he was released from the Ohio State penitentiary. He specialized in nothing but high school burglaries, he told police.

Kennedy, the ex-convict's alleged accomplice, has taken part in only the eight robberies the two admitted to Columbus detectives, according to investigators, and has never been involved in trouble before.

Due to the large number of burglaries in which Cherry has taken part and the area in which he operated, officials are investigating the possibility he was responsible for the theft of nearly $400 from Madison High school on the night of Feb. 12, 1947. In that robbery, the thieves used nitro-glycerine to open the safe, and apparently were "professional" safe crackers.

Identify Four Killed In Fire

PETERSBURG, Va. — (AP) — Authorities last night identified four persons who died in a fire that razed a double cabin at the Blue Tartane tourist camp south of here.

Police said the victims were:

Paul Lucas, 25, and John P. Jones, 25, both sailors attached to the merchant ship, SS Marine Trader, now tied up to the Solvay Process company's wharf in Hopewell, Va.

Ann Newton Townsend, about 28, and Louise Glass Glushko, also about 28, both of Hopewell.

Woman Decapitated

XENIA—(AP)—Sylvia G. Miller, 48, was killed yesterday when struck by a New York Central train at nearby Osborn, and decapitated. Green county Coroner H. C. Shick returned a verdict of accidental death.

Taylor Funeral Tuesday

Funeral services for police Lt. William J. Taylor, fatally wounded in a gun battle with a crazed man Feb. 18, will be held Tuesday at 3 p. m. at the First Lutheran church. The Rev. C. P. Mitchell will officiate.

Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery. The lieutenant's body will be at the Wappner funeral home until Tuesday morning. He died yesterday at 11:30 a. m.

All Mansfield watched the officer's valiant fight for life after he had been wounded twice by crazed war veteran Robert Dilgard.

Testimony of his popularity came today as several city officials commented on his death.

Service-Safety Director Earl T. Garrison said, "Taylor was one of the finest fellows I've known in a long, long time.

"The multitude of inquiries made upon his condition before he died clearly illustrates his popularity."

Chief of Police Jesse J. Schwab said, "Lt. Taylor was one of my most efficient officers; a great loss for the department and a greater loss to his many friends.

"Men of his high caliber are hard to replace."

The officer leaves a wife, the former Esther Kaylor, whom he married in 1933, and one daughter, Patricia Lee, 7, and his father Joseph R. Taylor.

AWARDED PENSION

Mrs. Taylor will receive a $60 monthly pension herself for the rest of her life and a $30 monthly pension for Patricia Lee until the child reaches 18. This pension is part of the fund toward which all city policemen pay four per cent of their pay.

According to police, Taylor is the first Mansfield officer killed in the line of duty during the department's recorded history.

Lt. Taylor was born Oct. 4, 1910, in Crestline and came to Mansfield at an early age. He was a member of the First Lutheran church, Venus Lodge No. 152, F. and A. M., a member of the Scottish Rites, Columbus, and a member of the Fraternal Order of Police. He also belonged to the Junior Order and the Amvets.

He enlisted in the Navy in December, 1943, saw action in several Pacific invasions and was discharged in December of 1945. He was promoted to lieutenancy Feb. 20, 1948, and had been with the police force six and one-half years.

Robert Dilgard, who shot Lt. Taylor, was killed in the battle by Patrolman Carl F. Berry.

Harsh Words In Balkans

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia —(AP)—The government controlled press here said yesterday that small, but tough talking, Albania "really wants to bring relations with Yugoslavia to an extreme tension.

Accusations were leveled in some of the sharpest language thus far used in the growing feud between the two Balkan neighbors. They were splashed in all three of Belgrade's morning newspapers, which bluntly labeled Albania's actions "hostile."

It was all part of the potentially explosive row between Yugoslavia and cominform countries, of which Albania is one.

The newspapers said a number of Yugoslav citizens and diplomatic officials were arrested by Albania police at Tirana without provocation. The newspapers also said Albania had requested recall of the Yugoslav press attache and two other legation officials in Tirana accusing them of engaging in hostile activities against Albania.

ASUNCION, Paraguay —(AP)—The National radio said last night Gen. Raimundo Rolon, installed only a month ago as president of Paraguay by a revolutionary coup, was ousted in another coup.

COUPLE SAY BABY NOT THEIRS, SUE FOR $100,000—Superintendent Carl Westhoff of Riverside hospital, Toledo, O., declares "there is no doubt" that Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Colvin have their own baby. The Colvins filed a $100,000 damage suit in Lucas County Common Pleas court charging they were given the "wrong baby" following Mrs. Colvin's confinement in the hospital last April 12. The Colvins and their daughter Linda, 2½ years, are pictured with Diane whom they claim is not theirs. International Soundphoto).

Seeks Route 545 Change

Council Will Study Proposal

A proposal to change State Route 545 through Mansfield will be offered to city council Wednesday night.

Offered by Fred Miller, Fifth ward councilman, the ordinance calls for the route to enter the city on Wayne street, proceed south to the intersection of Orange street, then west on Orange street to Sixth street, west on Sixth to North Main street, then south on Main to North Park street, then continuing over its present established route.

The route now follows Wayne street to East Fourth street, then westward on Fourth to Diamond and south to the park.

Miller said the route now passes through a congested industrial area.

If the ordinance is passed the state director of public highways will be petitioned to alter the route.

Other matters ready for council attention are proposals to boost Service-Safety Director Earl T. Garrison's pay $300 a year to $4,300, to purchase four new motor vehicles for city purposes, to instruct the city engineer to prepare an estimate and plans for a storm sewer on South Walnut street, and to clarify the directions of Sunset boulevard by identifying sections with the words west and south.

An ordinance to survey city jobs and another to add a police lieutenant to the traffic force are due for second readings Wednesday.

Officials Indict Slaying Suspect

FREMONT — (AP) — Arthur F. Benner jr., 21, of Detroit, was indicted yesterday for first-degree murder in connection with the death of rookie Patrolman George Biggs, 24, last November.

Benner is charged with throwing Biggs against a truck from the running board of a stolen automobile. Police said the car was used in a getaway after a robbery.

Volunteers Prepare for Action

Hundreds Will Aid In Red Cross Drive

Flags will fly on Main street and a huge Red Cross in Central park will herald for Mansfield and Richland county the opening of the annual Red Cross campaign here Tuesday morning, March 1.

Hundreds of volunteer workers, under the direction of Glenn L. Bierly, chairman and A. B. Grafton, vice chairman, will contact Mansfield's residential, business and industrial areas and Richland county townships, during the succeeding month. The goal for the annual drive has been set at $48,835, about $10,000 less than last year's quota.

At the same time that Mansfield and Richland county residents are being enrolled in the Red Cross, scores of volunteers in Shelby will be out making contacts for their share of the drive, set at $6,500.

In addition to the flag display and the big red cross, which will remain in Central park all during the drive, there will be window displays in downtown business windows.

These special publicity displays are under the direction of Al Preyer, chairman of the publicity committee, assisted by Frank Burton, park superintendent, in charge of the cross; William J. Locke, who is working with the Junior Red Cross in installing the flags, and Harold McCuen, window display sub-chairman.

Besides these usual publicity angles, hundreds of pieces of literature have been sent out by Vincent Lodde and his aids, telling how Mansfield and Richland county residents may serve their community through the Red Cross chapter.

Services of the Red Cross are many and touch almost every angle of human endeavor. They include disaster preparedness, water safety, first aid, home service to veterans, Junior Red Cross, production for veterans hospitals, and the blood donor project.

MARINES COME HOME

SAN DIEGO, Calif. —(AP)— Approximately 1,000 marines arrived here yesterday aboard the transport Renville — the second such arrival in the last 48 hours from Tsingtao, China.

Issue Writs After Riot

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. —(AP)— A few batch of warrants were issued yesterday in the Feb. 10 battle of two CIO labor unions.

Based upon information supplied by the CIO United Automobile Workers' union, the new charges name eight officials of the CIO Farm Equipment Workers' union, including Grant Oakes of Chicago, International president.

The writs were issued by Judge Edward Turnbaugh of the Rock Island county court who fixed $500 bond for each charge. The warrants have not been served. Informations asking for them were filed in court by Bernard J. Maran, the state's attorney.

Some 400 complaints were filed earlier by both sides in the struggle which occurred at the gate of International Harvester's East Moline works as UAW members passed out handbills urging FE members to support a proposed merger of the two unions. Twenty men were injured in the clash.

Jail Hard to Get Into and Out of BURLINGTON, Ia.—(AP)— The Des Moines county jail is going to be a mighty hard place to get into — or out of — the next two weeks.

It was quarantined yesterday because one of its three inmates came down with mumps.

What Jailer Hal Geren can't figure out is how come.

The inmate with the swollen jaws has been in since November.

Blasts Bingo 'Refunds'

Lausche Irked By Petitions

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Gov. Frank J. Lausche said yesterday he is "vigorously opposed" to the state paying $238,799 in claims to former bingo and lotto game operators.

The governor said operators claimed the money was mistakenly paid to the state several years ago as admission taxes.

The state Sundry Claims board has approved the petitions and sent them to the governor. Lausche said he is expected to ask the legislature to appropriate money to pay the claims of club operators in Akron, Canton, Hudson and Cincinnati.

"If those claims are paid," Lausche said, "just watch the rest jump in for money." He said former club operators in each town and city in Ohio would file claims for more than $1,000,000.

In a letter to Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy, the governor asked an opinion on two legal questions which could be used to defeat the claims. The questions were:

(1) "Is it mandatory that I include in the final appropriation bill a request for moneys that would be needed to pay the claims?

(2) "If it is mandatory and the legislature grants the request, do I have the legal power to veto the grant of the legislature?"

WILL VETO

If the legislature passes the measure, and if the governor has the power to veto the appropriation, Lausche said he "definitely" would veto the measure.

"I am vigorously opposed," Lausche said, "to the payment of the claims made by these bingo and lotto operators on admission taxes paid eight or nine years ago.

"If these moneys are returned to the operators, the benefit of them will never be enjoyed by the players whose moneys were taken out of the price paid for the bingo card to pay the admission taxes.

Of course, the players could not be identified and it is folly to think that eventually any of them would receive any of the benefits of the refund."

3 Killed In Gang Raids

CALCUTTA, India — (AP) — Armed gangs yesterday killed at least three persons and injured six others in a raid on the city's main airport and a British workshop.

The raid on Jessop's workshop, which dismissed more than 100 employes recently, lasted for 15 minutes. Four European officials were missing. When police arrived, two bodies were found in the furnace, burned beyond recognition.

At the airport a gang raided an armory, shooting a sentry dead and chasing away his companion. After collecting arms the raiders drove off. Other gangs attacked the plane hangar.

Raids on both places, which are in the city's northern suburbs, occurred when a majority of the police were attending a police sports show.

Ohio's Bear Called Just A 'Big Dog'

ZANESVILLE — (AP) — The "big bear" of Muskingum county is just another case of flying saucers, Game Protector Irving Patrick said last night.

Patrick, and two other game protectors from the State Conservation division, appeared a bit riled after a long investigation and "bear hunt" in the Dresden and Trinway area of the county.

So far as Patrick and Game Protectors Earl Kinnear and Evert Bailey are concerned the "bear" is a big dog. The case is closed, they say.

Taft Backs Pact; Flays Arms Idea

Claims Would Lead to War

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) said yesterday he supports the proposed North Atlantic pact because he believes it will prevent war with Russia, but opposes arming western Europe because that might invite Soviet aggression.

Taft, who heads the Senate Republican Policy committee, told reporters he thinks that if war comes the United States will have to do most of the fighting.

He argued that it thus would be better to keep our arms at home.

But the Ohio senator viewed the proposed security agreement with Canada, Great Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg as a "deterrent" to war.

"The North Atlantic pact is defensive," he said. "It says to Russia: 'If you do go to war, we'll be in it.'

"But if we undertake to arm Europe, don't we give cause to the Russians to feel that they are being ringed by military nations contemplating attack? If that is their feeling, aren't they more likely to attack?

"And aren't we doing something more likely to bring about war than peace in the next three years?"

"If the Russians think a fight is inevitable, they are likely to say: 'Why not have it now?'"

Taft's views on the proposed security pact were encouraging to state department officials, since he often reflects the position of other Republican senators who don't subscribe wholeheartedly to the bipartisan foreign policy, but go along on issues they feel are vital.

His opposition to helping rearm Europe, however, seems likely to give critics of this companion proposal encouragement in the Senate and House.

Justice Blind, Judge to See Strip Tease

OKLAHOMA CITY —(AP)— The justice is blind, so strip-teaser Evelyn West has received a change of venue so the court can see for itself if her show is indecent.

The curvaceous brunette, who bills herself as the gal with a $50,000 treasure chest, was arrested for putting on an indecent performance.

She was arraigned before Wayland McCarty, a blind justice of the peace.

Miss West then got a change of venue and will do her take-off act for Justice Otis D. James Tuesday.

"She's going to put on her show in court just like she does on the stage," her attorney, Herbert K. Hyde, said. "We'll let the judge decide first hand whether it is indecent."

Filibuster to Start Monday

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A filibuster, possibly the roughest and longest in years, is set to start in the Senate Monday.

It shapes up as a filibuster to save the right to filibuster.

The 20 or more southern senators who want to retain the right of unlimited debate are determined to go the limit.

Churchill Blasts Assembly

Declares It A 'Mockery'

BRUSSELS, Belgium — (AP) — Winston Churchill said last night the United Nations is powerless to prevent a new war and called for a united Europe as a regional pillar of a truly effective world organization.

In a speech to the European Movement International council, Churchill contemptuously referred to the U.N. as a "brawling cockpit" in danger of losing "the respect of those who were most ardent for its creation."

The leader of the European unity movement said the U.N. "has made a far less hopeful start in these first four years than its predecessor, the League of Nations."

Regional organizations which would really function, he said, are the way to correct the U.N.'s defects.

'Large regional units are the necessary elements in any scheme of world government. It is vain to built the dome of the temple of peace without the pillars on which alone it can stand," the former British prime minister said.

He drew a parallel with military chains of command and inquired:

"What would happen to a military system where there was nothing between the supreme headquarters and the commanders of all the different divisions and battalions? What plan could emerge from such a concourse? Such a method could only lead through chaos to defeat."

Churchill drew his own conclusions from this example.

"Therefore, I believe that the creation of regional organisms is an inseparable part of any structure of world security," he said.

"Unless and until this is done, the United Nations organization will be a failure and even a mockery."

FOE Reveals Youth Plan

Plans for a Youth Guidance Movement organization for Mansfield will be discussed at a meeting in the FOE lodge hall here at 2 p. m. Sunday, it was announced last night by Lewis D. Doty, chairman of the Eagles' Youth Guidance committee.

Principal speaker for the meeting will be Eddie Del Rio of Cleveland, former lightweight Pacific Coast boxing champion. Del Rio, chaplain for the Forest City FOE lodge 2235, is active in the Youth Guidance Movement and will explain the aims and ideals of the youth group to the local organization.

Plans are currently underway for a broad recreational program for Mansfield youngsters with both outdoor and indoor sports being scheduled.

Membership in the non-denominational group will be free, Doty announced, with youngsters aged 10 through 17 being eligible for participation.

The public has been invited to attend today's meeting at the lodge hall, 129 North Main street. Mansfield Aerie No. 336 is sponsoring the youth movement.

Britain Still Seeks Dollars

LONDON —(AP)— Britain anxiously sought last night to dispel any impression that her economy is ready to stand without the prop of dollar aid.

Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer, was so concerned that he issued a public statement. He disowned remarks by a foreign office spokesman which were construed in the U. S. Congress to mean that funds of the European Recovery program are no longer vital to the United Kingdom.

The foreign office itself hastened to explain that the spokesman, Christopher Mayhew, did not mean what Americans seemed to think he meant in a speech at Lake Success Wednesday.

An Arch of Axes Glistened Overhead

'Pat' Has Fire-House Wedding, Faints at the Altar

MINNEAPOLIS —(AP)— Fireman John J. Frayne of St. Bernard, Ohio, was happy last night. Daughter Patricia wasn't married in an empty church.

Brother firemen of Minneapolis took care of that. They gave vivacious, 22-year-old Pat a four-alarm wedding that had everything, even a moment of unexpected drama. Overwrought, she toppled over in a faint as she knelt at the altar to receive Holy Communion following the marriage ceremony.

Fireman Frayne had written to Local 82 of the International association of Paid Fire Fighters to ask if a few of them could attend the wedding. He explained that Pat and her fiance, Frank Bottenhorn of Cincinnati, were strangers here. He couldn't come himself, but it would mean so much if there could be a few guests.

The Minneapolis firemen gave a quick answer. Not only would they attend, but they would see that the youngsters had a real wedding.

Approximately 500 persons were in St. Stephens Catholic church when Fire Chief George Lockhart drove up with the bride. More than 100 uniformed firemen lined the sidewalk. Inside Pat was met by Don Hillstrom, secretary of the Fire Fighters association. He gave the bride away.

The firemen, expansive over giving a friendly hand to a buddy who had sent out a call from away down in Ohio, beamed as the Rev. Father Rudolph E. Nolan performed the marriage ceremony. The wives of one or two cried a little. It was a grand wedding.

Twice during the nuptial mass a wave of faintness swept over the bride. The first time she walked into the sacristy for a brief respite. Later, she toppled over while kneeling beside her husband. Bottenhorn picked her up and with his best man, Al, carried her out. Two firemen revived her and again Pat returned to the altar.

There was a big moment for Pat when the bridal pair left the church. Lining the steps was a guard of honor, fire axes raised to form an arch. A placarded, be-ribboned fire truck escorted the couple to a wedding breakfast and reception in a downtown hotel.

Unusual Motion Picture to Be Shown At Hadassah Luncheon

AN UNUSUAL MOTION PICTURE from Israel, featuring a boy refugee actor whose identity is not revealed for reasons of his safety, will be shown at the March 2 luncheon meeting of the Hadassah at 1 p. m. in the B'nai Jacob Temple, 50 Sturges avenue.

Mrs. Jerome Rosenberg, president of the local chapter, explained that the photography in the picture is so unusual because of the extraordinary results achieved with home-made reflectors, dollies and other devices for which American film companies generally spend huge sums

The story deals with the psychological rehabilitation of a young boy who has survived the horrors of a concentration camp. The narrative is written in a stream-of-consciousness style.

Highlights of the film include a sequence showing the Children's Village orchestra, composed of boys and girls aged six to seventeen, playing Haydn's "Toy Symphony." The orchestra is led by a boy conductor, aged twelve Another sequence depicts the traditional ceremony of Hannukkah, when young runners of the villages surrounding the caves dip their torches into a huge fire and race back with their torches to the settlement so that the holiday lights may be kindled from the "sacred flame" Hannukkah commemorates the victory of the Maccabbees

The film will be shown free of charge. Hostesses for the luncheon will be Mrs. Leo Budin, Mrs. Harold Oxman and Mrs. Carl Garver.

Circle Holds Dessert Luncheon

Ruth chapter Circle, Order of Eastern Star, met for a dessert luncheon in the Masonic Temple with Mrs. Donald Ogden and her committee in charge. The table was decorated with Washington day appointments. Mrs. Dale Morris presided at the table.

Mrs. Paul Sherrer, president, appointed Mrs. Morris committee chairman for the month of March.

High score in contract bridge was won by Mrs. C. E. Payne. Mrs. R. C. Baker won the auction bridge score.

The next meeting will be March 22 at the Temple.

Mrs. Lew to Speak to Group

Mrs. Lawrence Lew will be guest speaker when the women of the First Christian Church meet on Tuesday at the church at 6:30 for a covered dish dinner.

The Lews came to the United States a year ago. Dr. Lew is an exchange professor on the faculty of Bradley University in Peoria, Ill. They brought their four children here to be educated.

The Lews were in Shanghai throughout the war and lived for weeks at a time on gruel and red rice so full of sand and pebbles that it took an hour and a half to clean it for cooking and even then the Lews had to chew carefully lest they damage their teeth.

Mrs. Lew is a kindergarten specialist, teaches music and directs choirs. She taught kindergarteners in the National Normal School in Shanghai and established a kindergarten in that city. The meeting will begin at 7:30.

Broadway

Equity Casts Follow Vet Hospital Circuit

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK—(AP)—Moving out early each morning from a Broadway theater is a troupe of 12 actors, accompanied by a concert accordionist. The group, an all-Equity cast, is presenting a variety program of entertainment, including a performance of John Golden's comedy, "Turn to the Right," as a part of the veterans' hospital camp shows program.

The actors and actresses who participate in these shows sometimes take a furlough to do a stage or screen role, but when they are finished they hurry back to veterans hospital troupe. Such a one this week was Alvin Greeman who returned to the vets show after taking time out to play a featured role opposite Clifton Webb in the forthcoming movie, "Mr. Belvedore Goes To College."

Carl Abraham, veteran Broadway manager who is guiding this unit, says they solved many of their problems in playing the hospitals by getting the veterans to participate both in performances and in such things as building scenery.

"When 'Turn to the Right' started on tour," he said, "we found that the performance in the hospital auditorium was not enough. We found that the men confined to the wards and sick beds, often a major part of our potential audience, were frequently the ones most in need of entertainment, of the sight and sound of people from the 'outside.'

"The actors began to adapt their theatrical skills to the demands of hospital existence. They learned about performing in wards among men too ill to applaud. They played before beds top-heavy with traction structures.

"For the variety and revue units, the ward shows were not too great a problem. With a cast of all-legitimate players, a routine and individual song, dance and comedy acts was not possible. Instead, we arranged programs of monologues and play readings, with the patients participating in the readings."

One highly popular audience participation feature is a bold melodrama skit in which Dorothy Martin plays the heroine, and the parts of the hero, father and the villain are taken by patients in the wards.

The casting is done by the patients themselves, Abraham said, and frequently the most reluctant patients have turned in excellent performances. Often so many of the patients are so eager to perform that the 15-minute playlet is repeated three or four times before Miss Martin is allowed to proceed to another ward.

"The problem about settings," Abraham said, "has mostly been settled by the patients themselves. In Brooke General hospital in San Antonio, Tex., Corporal Ernest Sikes came to our rescue.

"Without a knowledge of stagecraft, patients, under the direction of Corp. Sikes, built a wall of Sing Sing prison, a house back porch and peach trees all out of brown wrapping paper and paper clips plus some water colors."

Patients in veterans hositals in Prescott, Ariz.; Roseburg, Ore.; Rapid City, Ia; American Lake, Wash.; and Fayetteville, N. C. did jobs of extraordinary skill in building sets for the players to use.

By splitting his players into several groups along with the one or two musicians in the troupe, Abraham said, and rotating them through the wards, it is now possible to cover ten wards in a day. In addition there is the auditorium performance in the evening.

Curtain Call

By MARGUERITE MILLER

Bravos are being shouted long and loud in New York for Arthur Miller's "Death of a Salesman."

The production, which some critics maintain comes close to perfection, wraps up all the hopes, frustrations, sins, loyalties and brief pleasures of an ordinary middle-class American family.

To some it portrays an era of American life—materialistic to a fault but never meaningly so. The tragedy of the play is not the death of the salesman and father, who finally succeeds in killing himself after he finds he is on the eve of being discarded from the firm for which he has worked a lifetime. The pathos is the misinterpreted meaning of the advice given the sons by the father who once held the world in the palm of his hand.

Opening less than a fortnight ago on Broadway, Miller's "salesman" is outshining even the eloquent "All My Sons" which won for him the Critics Circle Award in 1947.

One critic called the play "wonderful, and even more so because of Lee J. Cobb's magnificent performance in the role of Willy Loman," a traveling salesman. Mildred Dunnock, as the faithful wife, is said to be giving the best performance of her distinguished career.

LITTLE THEATERS

The small ommunity theater supported by the city, or state is a growing phenomenon," according to Flora Rheta Schreiber in this month's Mademoiselle magazine.

During the past 30 years, she points out, little theaters have become important cultural centers in almost 1,000 American cities. Many of the first ones were held in empty barns; today may of them have their own buildings.

America's first state theater is the Virginia Barter Theater, founded in 1933 "to solve the problems of a band of hungry actors by bringing drama to the theater-hungry community of Abingdon." It was subsidized by the state legislature in 1946 and during the past two years has covered more than 60,000 miles on its Virginia and out-of-state tours.

"The little theater movement, by creating and educating a nation wide audience, by providing elbow room for playwrights, by an honest, craftsman's approach to what used to be 'amateur theatricals,' is sowing the seeds for a new, really national theater.

Miss Schreiber adds that the profession is solidly behind the efforts of the American National Theater and Academy—known as ANTA—to "take the theater to new territory and to act as big brother to new groups."

Better-than-usual pickings at the movies: "Command Decision" and "Snake Pit" are coming this week end.

HEARING DATE SET

COLUMBUS — (AP) — A hearing on the appeal of Curtis Brown, former assistant conservation supervisor charged with soliciting a bribe, will be held March 17 at the Erie county court house. Brown was removed from his job by Conservation Commissioner H. A. Rider.

100 Attend P-TA Dance

Approximately 100 persons attended a dance sponsored by the Rebecca Grubaugh P-TA Friday night in the school gymnasium.

Esley Cleckner called the steps for the sets, which were composed of 88 people at several times.

George Connor was the chairman of the affair. Charles Cook, W. E. Upson and Frank Fox assisted him with arrangements.

It was announced that on March 7 game night will again be held for adults. Volleyball, badminton, ping pong and shuffle board will be played. This also is sponsored by the P-TA.

Frank Fox, chairman of the athletic committee, is in charge of the programs which are open to the public.

LEARNS ABOUT GIRLS—Walter Ullrich (that's HIM at left) relaxes with a cup of tea as he converses with Mary Thomsen, undoubtedly about his dressing as a girl and "crashing" sorority houses during rush week at the University of California, Berkeley. He wanted to find out what the girls did during teas, and reported to his Kappa Alpha fraternity brothers that they drank tea. (International Soundphoto)

Truman Capote In Person, Like Work, Is Different

NEW YORK — (AP) — If you believe that Truman Capote's "Other Voices, Other Rooms," a first novel published last year, and his short stories, due out in book form Monday, are perhaps, or even probably, the most individual work by any young American—

Then you can easily believe that Truman Capote in person is perhaps, or even probably, the most individual of new young American writers. Some things that make him different are:

1. At the age of nine, telling playmates he had to stay in and "do his work," he wrote a short novel.

2. The first three stories he sent to major magazines were mailed within one week, and all were accepted.

3. One single story, though written within three weeks, had been in his thoughts a minute or an hour or more every day for three year.

4. What he writes has not happened to him before he wrote it, but sometimes it will happen after.

5. He and his mother attended college together.

He is 24, but you think of him as a boy. Yet in a way he has never been a boy. If he couldn't go out to play when he was nine, it was too late by the time he entered his teens.

At 17 he got a job at the New Yorker magazine, and now he earns his way comfortably writing travel pieces and long and short fiction. It is a fiction of mood and atmosphere, in which a bouncing tennis ball, or popcorn sprinkled on a curbstone, or handwriting with round dots on the I's can be as dramatic and significant as pistol shot or knife thrust to the average writer. Facts aren't enough for fiction, he says; there must be magic, too.

Born in New Orleans, he has lived in many other places in the south, in Connecticut and California, most recently in New York, and he ha just left for Europe, where he went for the first time last year, to spend at least six months, most of them in Sicily, working on his second novel.

Fairy stories, Poe, and warnings about ogres, witches and bad men which he heard from three aunts who helped bring him up must have influenced his own writing considerably. The problem which seems to interest him most is the way people collaborate to bring about their own destruction. He points to three examples of it in the remarkable collection of eight short stories which Random House will publish Monday; one is "A Tree of Night," the title story, and the others are "Master Misery" and "Miriam," so well known that it can be classed as famous. Every story needs to sound its own individual "tune," he says; and every one of them does.

RECORD BOX

With the Metropolitan Opera committed to Columbia records for recordings of full-length operatic performances, RCA victor is rushing in records made in Europe, and now offers one recent and two old works which music lovers will welcome. The first is Britten's "The Rape of Lucretia," on nine disks in one album, and the others are Verdi's "Aida," on 20 disks in two albums and Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" on 11 disks in one album.

Happenings In Hollywood

Young Producer Cuts Costs Efficiently

By HOWARD C. HEYN

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Depressions in Hollywood always spawn a colony of wonder boys who can make a profitable picture for $500,000 or less. And some of the cleverest of these are getting a success lesson from one of the youngest producers in the business.

He is John Champion, 25, a Stanford law student before the war and a moviemaker only since his discharge from the air forces two years ago. Champion operates on the theory that a sincere guy with ideas, regardless of age, has a fighting chance to lick Hollywood.

His first film, "Panhandle," starring Rod Cameron, cost $268,000. It has grossed over $800,000 in 10 months. The second, "Stampede," cost $300,000. Champion thinks it will surpass "Panhandle." And others listen when he says so.

He is now about to risk twice as much money on "Short Grass," at a major studio where overhead expenses mandatorily require 25 per cent of the budget. This is the point at which most youngsters come a cropper. But Champion has been promised everything he wants, including freedom.

Champion's westerns retain all the familiar situations. But the treatment is fresh—he does the writing himself. And every scene is planned in advance. There are no extra sets left unused, no lost motion.

In "Stampede" he took advantage of a genuine stampede in Mexico, where government agencies fighting foot-and-mouth disease ran a large herd of infected cattle over a cliff. Champion, with a camera crew, stunt men and doubles, filmed the drive for $16,000. The stampede scenes in "Red River," created artificially with rented cattle, reputedly cost $200,000.

Champion says he got his start this way: He and Blake Edwards, with whom he wrote the story later called "Panhandle," camped on the doorstep of Bernard Giannini until the banker finally consented to see them. He liked their nerve and sincerity. More important, he liked their story and their ideas. He agreed to help if they found a studio deal. They subsequently did, at Monogram.

The pair left Giannini's office in a pink dream. But they were soon to be jolted back to reality. Neither had 25 cents for the parking lot fee.

They had to walk home.

Film Laundry Scene Gets All Steamed Up

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Fred Knoth, special effects chief at Universal-International studios, outdid himself in providing a steamy atmosphere for laundry sequences in "Yes Sir, That's My Baby."

Donald O'Connor had a dance routine in such a setting. Lots of steam was necessary so that he could emerge and disappear. Knoth found that steam pipes from the studio's boilers wouldn't produce clouds of sufficient density. So he released the steam against big chunks of dry ice.

Plane Used In Films Boasts War Record

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — The C-47 cargo plane which carries Mexican aliens over the border in Universal-International's "Illegal Engry" has a notable war record. Before the studio acquired the plane, it had flown 20 hospital missions, two paratroop missions and three glider-towing missions, in addition to hauling freight cargos for American troops.

The ship made its movie debut in "You Gotta Stay Happy." It carried freight in that film, with Jimmy Stewart at the controls. Howard Duff is the pilot in "Illegal Entry."

51 Movies Named On 15 'Best' Lists

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Tabulating the 15 separate lists of "ten best pictures" for 1948, the Motion Picture Association of America discovered that 51 films, domestic and foreign, were represented.

The lists had been published by various periodicals, cinema critics, exhibitors and trade papers. Seven of the 51 pictures were made by foreign companies, and leading the aggregate list was the British-made "Hamlet." This film appeared on 11 of the 15 "ten best" lists.

"Treasure of the Sierra Madre" was named on 10 lists. "The Search" and "Johnny Belinda" on nine, "Red Shoes" (British) on eight. "The Snake Pit" appeared on seven lists, "I Remember Mama" and "Sitting Pretty" on six, "Paisan" (Italian) on five, and "Gentleman's Agreement" on four.

Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences nominations for best picture of 1948 all were included in most of the 15 lists, published prior to the academy nominations. The nominated films are "Hamlet," "Johnny Belinda," "The Red Shoes," "The Snake Pit" and "The Treasure of the Sierra Madre." Academy balloting will determine the winner, to be announced in March.

Fast Horses Speed Chase In Westerns

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Not even that old standby, the western, is safe from Hollywood innovations.

The chase, introduced some 30 years ago by William S. Hart and Bronco Billy Anderson, is still with us, but Universal-International has succumbed to the national reverence for speed. In "The Western Story," cowboys ride quarter-horses instead of rangeland cow ponies.

The quarter-horses, from Tucson, Ariz., are veterans of the popular southwestern sport involving speed runs up to a quarter-mile. John Russell in the picture rides Palo, a $15,000 palomino who has come within three-tenths second of the world's record for the 220-yard race.

The chase thus is faster, but nobody catches anybody any sooner. Here tradition still prevails. It's all saved for the final reel.

CHECK and DOUBLE CHECK

Your OLDSMOBILE Did Your Steering Take a Beating?

Rough roads, plus irregular, washed-out or neglected lubrication, makes steering trouble. A steering mechanism which is out of kilter or worn loose is dangerous. Your very life depends on it! Let us adjust and set front wheel toe-in, check and report on camber and caster, inspect king pins and bearings, thoroughly lubricate all connections. This can save you lots of time and trouble later on.

Howard Stauffer Wins Silver Beaver, Highest Scout Award

7 From Area Honored at '49 Banquet

Group Receives Service Badges

Howard Stauffer, 110 Blymyer avenue, was presented with Scouting's highest award, the Silver Beaver medal, last night.

The presentatien was mado be-for 30 council members attending the annual dinner-business meeting of the Johnny Appleseed area Scout council held at the Elks home.

C. G. Hillier, Mansfield district Scout commissioner, gave the award in the name of the National Boy Scout council for Stauffer's "distinguished service to the boyhood of this area."

Stauffer is the Mansfield district deputy commissioner in charge of the Cub Scouts program. He is a member of the youth committee of the Exchange club and is active in the Sunday school department of the St. Paul's Lutheran church.

Scouters representing Mansfield, Ashland, Shelby, Plymouth, Crestline and Galion were present at the meeting.

One minute of silent prayer was given for the late L. A. "Louey" Ott, who was present at the last council meeting in 1948. Mr. Ott had originally brought Scouting to this area, was president of the council for 16 years, and had been an active Scouter for 32 years.

Area Commissioner Russell Phipps presented years of service tenure badges to seven area Scouters.

Charles Kimball of Mansfield was presented with a 25 continuous service badge. Others from Mansfield included C. G. Hillier, 20 years; M. P. Wolcott, 20 years; and Robert Hartman, 15 years.

Area Scouters to receive the service commendation were M. V. Snyder, of Crestline, for 20 years; J. B. Carter of Crestline, for 10 years; and William B. Kellog of Ashland, for 10 years.

New members of the area council are Rev. David Neil Roller, Rev. John Gensel, L. J. Ott, Morton Frankel, and Ralph Diebig.

Motorist Sued After Accident

C. L. Howard, of Mt. Gilead, R. D. 3, has been sued for $340 in Common Pleas court by Roy H. Huvler, of Belleville, R. D. 2, and the Wolverine Insurance company, Lansing, Mich., as the result of an automobile accident.

The plaintiffs charge Howard was negligent when his car collided with Huvler's auto on U. S. Route 42 in Lexington on Feb. 24, 1947. The insurance company claims $290, the amount it paid to Huvler in insurance while the other $50 is claimed by Huvler.

Attorney William A. Calhoun represents the plaintiffs.

Steals Cash, Then Replaces Billfold

Someone stole $17 from the pocket of Frank Mitchell, 255½ North Main street, as he slept in a room at 259½ North Main, Friday night, he told police Saturday.

Mitchell said the thief took the money out of his billfold then slipped the wallet back into his overcoat pocket.

Columbus Rites Set For Navy Inspector

Services will be held for Lt. William H. Carnes, assistant inspector of the Navy recruiting area that includes Mansfield, today at 2:30 p. m. at the Rutherford funeral home, 2383 North High street, Columbus.

Lt. Carnes had spoken many times before Mansfield high school students and other groups on Navy life. He died Thursday night of a heart attack in Columbus.

Sunday School to Sponsor Leader-Teacher Workshop

The Sunday school board of the First Lutheran church will sponsor a workshop for all Sunday school leaders and teachers of the Mansfield area who are interested in work with children, next Saturday in the parlors at the church.

Mrs. R. L. Traxler, department superintendent of the First Lutheran Sunday school, is general chairman of arrangements.

Letters have been sent to all superintendents and a complete copy of the schedule has been included.

The workshop will start at 2:30 p. m. From that time until 3 p. m. there will be a worship service conducted by Mrs. Ralph Kreider of Seville, who will teach the workshop for beginners and primary departments. Theme for the half hour of devotion will be "In the Midst-a Child."

The worshop from 3 to 5 p. m. will be divided into two groups. Mrs. Kreider, at the head of beginners and primaries, will discuss regular attendance, teacher and parents cooperation, children of the church, workshop helps, projects and handwork A display of materials will be shown in connection with the handwork discussion.

Mrs. Karl Weick, Findlay, will direct the junior and intermediate departments and lead discussions on the following subjects: methods and materials and programs and projects, followed by a period for questions and answers.

From 5 to 6 p. m dinner will be served by women of the First Lutheran church. Dinner reservations may be made with Mrs. Traxler not later than March 1.

Following dinner there will be a second workshop from 6 to 7 p. m., divided into two groups.

The program for the beginners' and primary classes during the evening will include story-telling, pictures and how to use them and the use of the flannelgraph. For the second group, books for personal use of the teacher and books for use with the pupils, augmented by a display, will be discussed.

There is no charge for the worshop and the dinner is optional, Mrs. Traxler said. A free-will offering will be taken to defray the expense of the two instructors.

All churches of the central Ohio conference are eligible to send representatives, Mrs. Traxler said.

Firm Holds Celebration

"Open house" will be held by Colby and Earick, Dodge dealers, at 225 North Main street, today from 2 to 6 p m. in observance of the company's 30 years in business.

Pip Flips as The Fur Flies

INDIANAPOLIS —(AP)— Cat fur made no kitten britches for a car owner on Indianapolis' north side—it just put his car out of whack.

Pip, a Persian cat owned by Mrs. Howard M. Barker, decided on a cat nap under the hood of the car. When the owner of the car started its engine a loud whine rose from Pip as he flipped around once with the fan belt.

The fan was bent, the radiator dented and the spark plugs were covered with cat hairs. The cat ran off, and a few stitches put him in shape. But the car still is in a garage being repaired.

NINETY-YEARS YOUNG—Mrs. Flora Barnett, who will be 90 years old Tuesday, is still active in mind and body. Born on a farm near Lexington, she recalls when Lexington avenue leading into Mansfield was just a rough stone road through the countryside. In the picture she is shown standing in front of the old Bell home, where she was born and raised.

At 90, Mrs. Barnett Is Still Working

Recalls Pioneer Days In Mansfield

By NITA BRANSON

The story of Mrs. Flora Barnett, who will be 90 Tuesday, echoes the days when Mansfield was a horse and buggy town.

Mrs. Barnett is still working for a living.

She has always worked, she says; it has become a habit which she had no intention of breaking until "old age" forces her to quit.

"I've taken care of sick folks most of my life, it seems," she said yesterday.

Now she is helping and cooking for Mrs. William Hasenzahl, 200 Park avenue east.

Although she was born 90 years ago in the old Bell homestead on Lexington road, she looks not a day over 70. Her smiling face is still plump and rosy with none of the wrinkles ones associates with 90 years. She has never lost the ability to laugh or to enjoy her fellowmen.

The old Bell home on Lexington road is still standing, as strong and sturdy and ruggedly defiant of the years as Mrs. Barnett herself.

"My great-grandfather, my grandfather and my father all lived and died in that house," she recalls. "My father was born in Washington, Pa. in 1820. When his family came to Mansfield, the men had to clear almost 200 acres of big forest trees to have open farm land. At first they built just a small log cabin; then the house that still stands. All of my folks are buried in the Lexington cemetery."

Mansfield in 1859 was a typical pioneer town, Mrs. Barnett recalls. Her mother, who was a school teacher, was the second wife of Robert Bell, her father.

SISTER OF CHIEF BELL

Mrs. Barnett's brother was the late Tom Bell, police captain and chief, and one of her three half-brothers was the late S. Finn Bell, well-known Mansfielder.

Her only two remaining close relatives are her two grandchildren, who live in Denver, Col., and whom she seldom sees.

Mrs. Barnett had become so accustomed to taking care of "sick folks", she said, that after all her children were grown, she went to work for Harry Fish, a former Mansfielder who had moved to Marion. Fish's wife died and when his work took him to Huntington, W. Va. later, Mrs. Barnett went along and reared his son and daughter, who were five and seven at the time she took over the household.

"I saw them through high school and college," she reminisced, smiling. "They often come to see me."

There is nothing unusual in Mrs. Barnett's philosophy. Just a simple faith in "her Lord", a cheerful acceptance of whatever comes along each day and the art of not worrying. She has been an ardent church worker all her life. Her membership in the First United Presbyterian Church dates back to 1876, although during her residence in Huntington she transferred her membership. But she brought it back with her when she returned to Mansfield.

She has had remarkable health all her life.

"I've been only sick one week that I remember and I've not had the doctor very often, except of course when my babies were born," she recalls.

Her church, her friends and her Bible keep Mrs. Barnett young. Today, she will be the guest of her niece, Mrs. Ralph Dickson, Cook road, at a birthday dinner.

AIRLIFT SETS RECORD

BERLIN —(AP)— The western allies' airlift pounded out a record-smashing week yesterday by hauling 8,025 tons.

Choral Society Arranges Plans for Spring Concert

Two of Dr. Roy Ringwald's arrangements will be included in the concert which the Mansfield Choral society is planning to give on May 17 at the John Simpson auditorium. Ringwald is assistant director of the Cleveland Symphony orchestra.

Announcement of Ringwald's two numbers was made yesterday by J. Frederick Wolf, director of the chorus. "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "Hymn to Music" have been selected as the two Ringwald numbers, Wolf said.

In addition to other chorales, they will be sung by the mixed chorus. Other selections include "Sweet and Low" by Noble Cain; "Hail Bright Abode," by Wagner, sung in German; "Song of the Night," by Dunn; "Nightfall In Skye," by Robertson, and "Salutation," by Gaines.

Rehearsals are being held each Wednesday night at the First United Presbyterian church by the 40 voiced chorus, Wolf said. In addition to the mixed chorus numbers, there will be selections by men's and women's ensembles and other musical groupings taken from the personnel.

Tickets are on sale from members of the society.

Amir a Club Honors Retiring President

In honor of its retiring president, Glenn E. Coffman, the Amina club celebrated its 24th anniversary Friday. Sixty members attended the dinner at Richland Recreation Inc. at which the club president, Harold McClellan, and Mayor Roy W. Vaughn gave talks. Elmer Hedeen was toastmaster.

Dear Mr. Knapp:
Mr. Herman Diehm, my father-in-law, and I are very well pleased with the gas furnace installation which you made for us last summer.
Our total gas bills from September, 1947 through April, 1948 amounted to $107.80. We have made a fair deduction for the hot water heater used to provide water for two apartments, and feel that our furnace used only $83.80 to keep us warm.
The house is large, consisting of two (2) five room apartments, and they were perfectly comfortable. Mrs. Diehm and Mrs. Hubner find that they have less work how to do in keeping the house clean.
We felt that you would be pleased to know how much we like your installation, and the fuel bills.
Yours truly,
Karl K. Hubner

Pledge of Allegiance to Flag

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Police Officer Dies From Wounds

THIS ENTIRE community is saddened by the death of Police Lt. William J. Taylor, as a result of the bullet wounds he suffered slightly more than a week ago while engaged in the performance of his duties as a member of the Mansfield police department.

All through the week deep concern had been felt over the condition of the wounded officer and many realized that the nature of his injuries were such as to leave the outcome in doubt until toward the week-end.

The service of Lt. Taylor in the police department, as a returned veteran from World War II, was efficient and creditable at all times, and his pleasant manner and genial smile won many friends.

That he should have met death in such a way is not only a matter of keen regret but it should also serve to direct greater public attention to the risks involved in police department service and to the need for better handling of cases which reveal previous indications of mental derangement sufficient to warrant either constant surveillance or confinement in an institution.

Easy access to deadly weapons is another of the contributing factors in this tragic occurrence, and one deserving of more attention than it has yet been given by authorities, or by the families of persons who cannot be trusted with firearms.

As sympathy is extended to the widow and young daughter of the slain officer, it would be well, also, to ponder the contributing causes of his death and to resolve that, insofar as possible, this community shall rid itself of influences which tend to place his associates in similar jeopardy.

You Work 'Through' the Red Cross

RAMIFICATIONS of Red Cross work in this community and in the nation are so numerous that it is virtually impossible to list them in anything less than a small book. But the whole intent and value of the organization can be summed up in the slogan which is being used in the campaign for funds which opens next Tuesday.

The slogan is: "You, too, can help through the Red Cross." The key words in this slogan are "help through." That is, the organization merely serves as an instrument of passing along your help to those who need it.

The Red Cross is, of course, a highly diverse and carefully organized agency. It seeks to direct assistance where it will do the most good.

Remember this when you plan your contribution.

This year in Richland county, the Red Cross chapter is asking for $48,835. This is $10,000 less than the quota last year. And the 1948 quota was topped. There certainly should be no difficulty in meeting the goal during the coming month. However, it can not be met by fine words and good wishes. It can only be achieved by your own personal donation of cash—and by time and effort spent to see that your neighbors and friends fulfill their intentions, too, about making a worthwhile contribution.

Close-Up View of Europe Planned

A TRIP TO EUROPE being undertaken by a group of Midwestern women is not the ordinary guided tour to points of romantic interest. It is extraordinary in that the women will spend short periods actually living with French and British families in their homes, and will make other special efforts to get some real impressions of the countries they visit. They should learn much more than the usual tourist does.

One of the reasons why Americans are so woefully unprepared for the role of world leadership suddenly thrust on us is that we have not learned enough about other countries and other peoples, have not travelled enough beyond our own borders, and have not been observant enough when we did get to other lands.

Our failure to learn other languages is a tremendous handicap to such effort as we make to understand other peoples.

Defenders of Aaron Burr Organize

THE NAME of Aaron Burr, which has carried a stigma through almost a century and a half, is now being defended by what is known as the Col. Aaron Burr association, more than half of whose members are named Burr.

Aaron Burr, readers of early American history will remember, had all the brilliancy of his illustrious ancestor, the great preacher, Jonathan Edwards. He lacked the stability of character of Edwards, however, and left a trail of suspicion wherever he went. He served under Washington in the Revolution, but for some unexplained reason Washington was glad to part with him. Dabbling in politics, he was an organizer of the society which later became known as Tammany Hall.

Burr's political skill won him 30 electoral votes for the presidency in 1796, and the nomination for vice-president with Jefferson in 1800. As then each elector voted for two names, without stating which office should go to which, Jefferson and Burr were found to be tied with 73 votes each. It took 36 ballots in the House of Representatives to elect Jefferson.

This was the last of his successes or near-successes. He was beaten for governor of New York, lost his remaining popularity when he killed Alexander Hamilton in a duel, became involved in dubious projects for separating the western states from the union, and ended his days in poverty and universal distrust. The Burr association may be successful in clearing away some of his ill repute, but it is doubted if it will be able entirely to restore his good name.

Harry Wade, in the Detroit News, suggests: "For a better deal on that city stadium, let Bill Veeck arrange to win another World Series and get himself elected mayor of Cleveland before the excitement dies."

Among other things being noticed is that the mild weather has hastened the sassafras tea season—if you remember about sassafras tea.

A wise man invests heavily in himself, but doesn't brag about it.

"Rock of Ages" Is Again Challenged.

A Voice From the Country

Danger Ahead When Farmers Can't Buy

By LOUIS BROMFIELD

THE PRICES of all foods are going down rapidly and a good thing it is provided wages and the prices of other commodities follow them. Otherwise the decline may be simply the beginning of another depression. A study of depressions since the Civil war reveals the fact that each one has begun with a fall in prices which cut the profits of the farmer and village and small-town resident to a point where they could no longer buy the commodities manufactured by the industrial worker. That meant that sooner or later the industrial worker was in turn out of a job and couldn't buy.

BROMFIELD

Not only does the farmer feed you, but agriculture, as a basic industry, provides the income and employment for close to half the workers in the U. S. from the village and small-town operators of store and service stations, through great cities like Kansas City and Omaha, through the whole of the vast food processing and agricultural machinery industries, together with a great share of the steel, rubber, oil and other industries. And that despite the fact that each year fewer farmers do the job.

A hundred years ago it took a great percentage of farmers to feed the city population on a per capita basis than it does today. Today the ratio is exactly the reverse.

Even at high prices, the good farmer gets little enough profit for his labor and his brains and, looking about me all during these last few years of high food prices, I haven't been too much disturbed except as these prices were used as an excuse and a wedge for other elements of society to make demands for higher wages and prices.

While the population was wailing over the high prices of a dozen eggs or a quart of milk, the drinking places, from the cocktail bars to the beer parlors, were and are crowded to the doors.

A quart of milk in the U. S. averages about twenty cents. A quart of beer costs thirty cents and a single cocktail (about one-eighth of a pint) costs from fifty cents up.

Aside from this every bowling alley and juke box joint seems filled with people eager to pay any kind of price, without complaining for everything but good nourishing high protein food.

I have talked to housewives who admitted spending ten to fifteen dollars a week on liquor but said they had to cut down on eggs and milk because the grocery bills were so high. Plenty of housewives feed their families oleomargarine instead of butter and spend many times the difference in the nearest beer parlor.

* * *

Cause of High Prices.

IT HAS become the habit to fasten the high cost of food on the farmer but if you want to find at least half the answer—the half not caused by supply and demand—have a good look at the retailer and distributor. Not at all of them, but at the bigger part, who double and triple the prices paid to the farmer who produces the food.

Right now in too many meat markets, meats are still staying high in price although the price for beef or pork paid the farmer has fallen more than 30 per cent.

Last year I traced a spread of nearly 700 per cent between the price paid for locally-grown celery to the producer and the price paid by the purchaser in the retail market. It was the middleman and the retailer who got the big profit, and the producer and the consumer who were left holding the bag.

As to statistics, the American public has spent no more than 24 per cent of its income on food over a long period of years even with the big take by distributors, commission merchants and retailers.

A recent survey of the whole dairy area of New York state conducted by Cornell University showed the average profit per quart on milk for the farmer was one-quarter of a cent.

In England the average citizen spends 35 per cent of his income on food and in France and in Italy the average working man spends 70 per cent to feed his family on low category food, far below the level of the American family diet.

And it should not be forgotten that the American farmers, while providing low cost food, has simultaneously released from the task of feeding the nation the millions of the great industrial worker population which has made our industry supreme in the world.

* * *

Costs Exceed Gains.

DURING the past few years the government and even the department of agriculture has released from time to time, statistics showing great gains in the farmer's income while neglecting at the same time to state that these are gross income figures and not net profit.

Any farmer knows that he is paying from two to five times as much for everything he buys as he did four or five years ago and the prosperous farmers are paying sizable income taxes as well.

The farmers gains have been far below those of the average industrial worker.

Much of the modern farmer's prosperity has come about, not through higher prices so much as through bigger yields and greater efficiency of operation and fortunately that category of farmer is increasing in number as the old pioneer slapdash farmer becomes liquidated economically and fades out of the picture. This fact is one of the brightest omens in the future of America.

Food prices paid the farmer are going down but it isn't all good news. When the farmer can't go to town and buy what he wants, look out brother, that is the beginning.

Looking Back

Twenty Years Ago Today

Wednesday, Feb. 27, 1929

Grany jury report included recommendation that improvements be made in county jail. (Just like now).

It was announced from Washington that $100,000 had been appropriated for federal building in Shelby.

Frank L. Smith, Vale avenue, reported attempted burglary of his home.

Mrs. Charles W. Messersmith, 70, died at her home on Rhein avenue.

Mrs. John F. Foss, 84, died at her home, 116 Hammond avenue.

Louis Arting, dean of Mansfield barbers, was planning to move shop from 23½ to 71½ North Main street.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Dilmore, Cook road.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Compromise On Civil Rights Probable

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — House GOP leader Joe Martin has been tipped off that southern and northern Democrats have finally come to terms on civil rights. The compromise apparently was reached during backstage bargaining between leaders of the two Democratic blocs. The ex-Speaker relayed his report with great interest to other GOP leaders at the Republican round table. This is a table in the House restaurant where Republicans gather for lunch and which serves as a sort of GOP command post. Martin did not reveal his sources, but southern congressmen have long been close to him, and Joe's inside intelligence on Democratic goings-on has usually been devastatingly accurate.

PEARSON

Terms of the all-important civil-rights agreement, Martin reported, are as follows: Both sides agreed to an anti-lynch bill, anti-poll tax bill, 60-cents-per-hour minimum wage, and modifications of the Taft-Hartley Law.

These are crucial and important compromises on the part of conservative southerners, but they have served notice this is the furthest they will go.

They will not, for instance, accept the dynamite-laden Fair Employment Practices Bill, which will be quietly side-tracked in the House. But they will support the rest of President Truman's Fair Deal.

This backstage compromise, however, is nothing more than a quiet Yalta agreement among the leaders, Joe Martin pointed out. It can't possibly be binding on all the rank-and-file Democrats, and many congressmen on both sides will vote the dictates of their own consciences.

Ham-and-Eggs—$25.

M. ANDRE PICARD, originator of the French Gratitude Train idea, was seated in a restaurant in Akron, O., eating breakfast. He had been hospitably and graciously entertained by various cities across the country, and he suggested that it was time he paid some of the bills himself.

Picard explained that he had exchanged some francs into dollars in New York, and pulled out a hundred dollar bill to prove it.

Frank Douglas, French-speaking secretary of A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, had been loaned to Picard to help him across the USA. He said: "We don't like visitors to pay for things in our country. Besides, that $100 bill looks like it was counterfeit."

Picard, however, insisted; finally was told he could pay for his breakfast. Subsequently, the waitress, tipped off in advance, brought Picard a check for ham and eggs—$25.

M. Picard looked at the check, but did not wince. He did ask how much American workmen made per week, then he took his check and his $100 bill to the cashier.

The cashier, also tipped off in advance to the joke, held the $100 bill up to the light and said: "I'm sorry but this bill is counterfeit. I'll have to call the police."

* * *

What They'll Remember.

M. PICARD and part of the French Gratitude Train committee have sailed for France, after one of the most inspiring trips across the USA ever experienced by any foreigners. They have come to know this country even better than many Americans. And they have also come to love it. Here are some of the things they will long remember:

How the American railroads not only hauled the Gratitude Train free, but were even thoughtful enough to put French-speaking personnel on most of the trains. The 120-piece high-school band at Elkhart, Ind.—musical instrument center of the world. . . . The popularity of Governor Paul Dever in Boston. . . . The tremendous parade staged by Mayor Joe Smith in Oakland, Calif. . . . The way Mayor Al Feeney of Indianapolis matched his clothes with his complexion. . . . The patience of Maryland's Governor Preston Lane in waiting in the cold for the late arrival of the train in Baltimore. . . . The manner in which Governor Ernest Gibson of Vermont and the Vermont state legislature seemed to understand French. . . . The crowds of enthusiastic school children at Lynchburg, Va., and Spencer, N. C. . . . Heine Sino of Clinton, Iowa. Of German descent. Heine put on one of the warmest of all welcomes for the French. . . . The courtesy of Governor Earl Warren in traveling the length of California to welcome the Gratitude Train. . . . The discourtesy of Governor Alfred Driscoll of New Jersey in not being willing to get up at 9 a. m. to be on hand. . . . The warmth of Mayor Heck Ross's welcome on one of the coldest of Des Moines days. . . . Governor Tom Mabry's broad-brimmed New Mexican hat. . . . The fact that two Italo-American mayors—Mike Di Salle of Toledo and Tom D'Alesandro of Baltimore—gave the French one of their finest welcomes. (It was only a short time ago that Italy and france were locked in mortal combat). . . . The fact that an Irish-born ex-cop, Bill O'Dwyer, could become mayor of the great city of New York. . . . These and many other impressions of the USA will stay with the visiting Frenchmen long after they have returned to their native land.

* * *

Artilleryman Truman.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S eyes sparkled reminiscently when an Oklahoma delegation led by Representatives Toby Morris and Carl Albert invited him to a premiere movie showing of the famous "Easter Pageant," held annually near Lawton, Oklahoma.

"That's close to your old Post, Fort Sill, where you trained in the First World war," reminded Congressman Morris.

"Yes, I'd like to get back there and fire a few artillery pieces again," replied Truman. "I haven't done any firing since I got off six or seven rounds at a training camp while I was in the Senate."

Truman turned down the invitation, however, because of a previous speaking commitment on April 1, the date of the premiere.

Assignment: America

His Word Is His Bond

By INEZ ROBB

HOUSTON — Everybody in Texas is either a millionaire or a character. H. Roy Cullen, Houston's oil multimillionaire and proudest possession, is both. It is not accurate to call Cullen a mere multimillionaire. He is a real, genuine semi-billionaire, a mighty rare species even in Texas. Old friends and acquaintances estimate—"conservatively speaking"—that Cullen has a half billion dollar fortune in oil properties, despite the "conservatively estimated" $200,000,000 he has given too Houston and Texas over the years.

INEZ ROBB

Texas folk have a beguiling habit of sticking close to Texas, and Cullen already was a legend in these parts when he first hit the front pages of the nation less than two years ago.

In March, 1947, millions of Americans heard of Cullen for the first time when he announced the formation of a charitable foundation to which he had just given $160,000,000.

Curious citizens who rushed to "Who's Who" to see who this Cullen might be could find no clue. He was not then listed in "Who's Who," nor does the 1948 edition carry so much as his name.

The story behind this huge gift is one of the most curious and amusing on record. A few days before the $160,000,000 gift was announced, Cullen made a brief statement saying he was setting up an $80,000,000 Cullen foundation for charitable, educational and research purposes.

The Houston Chronicle sent a reporter to ask Cullen to expand on the purposes of the foundation.

This reporter accidentally turned out to be one of humanity's great benefactors. In talking with Cullen, he understood the great oil baron to say that he had really anted up 160 millions, or just twice the original sum.

* * *

Slight Misunderstanding.

WELL, 160 millions excite even Houston. The story made the front pages. And the Houston chamber of commerce appointed a committee to call upon Cullen and thank him for his rich gift to the community. Naturally, the committee thanked him for 160 millions.

Later when M. E. Walter, the editor of the Houston Chronicle, asked his old friend Cullen which sum he had really meant to give, 80 or 160 millions, Cullen's only reply was:

"Shucks, I couldn't embarrass anybody."

Although he is a semi-billionaire today, Cullen could scarcely scrape together the money to pay for a two-by-four office in Houston twenty-five years ago. His is the classic Texas story of rags-to-riches-to-rags-to diamonds cum laude.

Born in San Antonio sixty odd years ago, Cullen went to work as a shoe-string cotton broker when he was 17. He made and lost a fortune in cotton before he came to Houston and eventually struck it croesus-rich in oil.

Houston is now throbbing with the rumor, unverified, that he has just struck the richest oil find of his life—one that will pour even more multimillions into his bulging poke.

One of the richest men in the world and one of the richest of Texas' independent oil operators, Cullen is a pioneer in new oil field methods. He is an expert in geophysics and has spent a fortune to develop its use in oil fields.

Cullen is one of Texas' true phenomenons. Everyone discusses him, and everywhere men are agreed on two Cullen characteristics:

(1) His word is his bond.

(2) He has a heart of pure gold and a whim of steel. There are occasions when he gives away a million dollars a day to a series of deserving causes.

Nix On That Self Pity

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I KNOW of no more contemptible habit or one more calculated to waste time than self pity.

It is, of course, a favorite indoor sport with all of us. Give us half a minute and we can produce an encyclopedia of wrongs and injustices, gripes and grudges dating back to our infancy. There's simply nothing we love, simply l-o-v-e to do, more than take a spare hour and relate what a dirty deal life has given us.

Look at that lovely dress Edna has and we have to go on wearing the same old brown sweater to school.

And what a snazzy model plane George's father gave him for his birthday while we haven't even an electric train.

And what a lovely pearl necklace Elizabeth got from her Aunt Nellie. It simply isn't fair for one girl to have so many wonderful things while you go around looking like a beggar.

This may seem like a teen age bleat but teen agers aren't the only ones who sound off so childishly. Great big grown up men and women sit around and bemoan their fate just as pitifully as any twelve year old.

I'm amazed at the amount of self pity a human being can tote around, cherishing it from day to day and hour by hour, repeating it to every newcomer who chances by. Silly little grievances. Petty little peeves. Imagined insults which we should have forgotten years ago. None of them are worth five minutes consideration.

Self pity—the world's great trash barrel.

With thousands of wise and beautiful things to contemplate, we waste our time in telling Lulu or Henry how that stuck-up Lily Jones snubbed us on the street or what a tough time we had on Uncle William's farm during vacation while the others went to Alaska or Yosemite or took boxing lessons.

Self pity. It eats into life like a cancer. It destroys our self respect and makes us ridiculous in the eyes of our neighbors.

Trouble? Of course we all have trouble. Every kind of troubles from tiny ones to great big heart crushers. But that's how life is made. You are no exception. You're no different from the other fellow. He has had just as many grievances as you have had and known just as much disappointment and disillusionment and despair.

Yes, I know it's fun to talk about ourselves. It's heaps of fun to think how we've suffered all these years and years. But just for once—just once, pal—suppose you think about the other fellow and forget your ingrown corns.

It Says Here:

—By KEN WOODMAN

THE REAL question is what does Mrs. Truman think about this talk of her husband's that he'll go galivanting around the country again if Congress doesn't jump through his hoop. The First Lady has been very patient up to now. In fact, she has done a notable job of keeping quietly in the background.

* * *

But, after all, she still can tell her husband what she thinks of things, over the breakfast coffee. And it's possible she won't think much of going on another whistle-stop dry-land cruise after just getting back from a summer-and-fall jaunt and then having to move across the street to keep from being hit by a crumbling rafter in the White House.

* * *

Mrs. Truman might just put her foot down and tell Harry to get the house fixed up before he goes on any more trips.

Timely Editorial

Kings Are No Different.

A motorcycle policeman in Massachusetts released a speeder who turned out to be King Peter of Yugoslavia. "Diplomatic immunity," the cop explained.

Nuts to diplomatic immunity, is our reaction to that.

If King Peter or any other deposed monarch wants to preserve his life, liberty and pursuit of happiness by taking refuge in this country, he can obey our laws.

And if he endangers the life, liberty and pursuit of happiness of American citizens, he ought to be subject to the same penalties as all the rest of us.—Akron Beacon Journal.

Quiet House

—By ANNE CAMPBELL

The house is very neat tonight;
There is no sound of play,
No voices thrilling with delight;
The birds have flown away!

How quiet the nocturnal nest
Where once they used to crowd.
The very silence seems possessed
By noises once too loud.

There are no toys upon the floor
Flung by a careless hand;
No hurried knocking at the door,
No saucy, loud demand.

The time of peace we once thought fine
For us has lost its power
To make a comforting design,
Or heal us hour by hour.

Silence is like a little death,
And peace can cloud a sky.
We'd rather hear a laughing breath,
And a small boy's reply!

Will Fight 'Stumping'

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Republicans promised yesterday a "vigorous" political counter-attack if President Truman takes the fight for his congressional program to the country in a stumping tour.

Senator Brewster (R-Me) told reporters there won't be any "sweetness and light" about his party's backtalk in defense of the Republican record in the 80th and 81st Congress.

"There is no question that, so far as the Republican record is concerned, it will be very proudly and vigorously presented to the country," the Maine senator said.

National Chairman Hugh D. Scott jr. chipped in with the observation that he will "let the President continue to criticize the Democrats while the Republicans go to work."

Scott agreed at a meeting yesterday with the Senate Campaign committee headed by Brewster and the Senate Republican Policy committee, headed by Senator Taft of Ohio, to enlarge congressional membership on a national policy committee.

Celebration Units Named In Willard

75th Birthday Anniversary Set

WILLARD — Committees were appointed last week as plans progress for the city's Golden Jubilee celebration on June 2, 3 and 4. An attendance of more than 25,000 is anticipated as Willard's 75th birthday is observed with outstanding features scheduled.

R. E. Hamilton, president of the Chamber of Commerce, announced the appointment of John Wallace as chairman of the planning committee. Other unit members are Harry V. Jump, Frank A. Jarres, C. Raymond Clark and Ray A. Snook.

Three other committees were named last week. A. A. (Dick) Draime is chairman of the concessions and reworks group and it includes Charles G. Lnaghurst, John W. Judd, Leroy R. Mager, Elden C. Reed and John A. Fields.

John F. Herion heads the parade committee which also includes Jayne Reynolds, Verna Williams, Charles Ansel, Robert H. Smith, Emil Landefeld and R. R. Jenkins. John E. Wise is chairman of the speakers committee. Other members include Shelby O'Neil, Harlow Stapf and Dale W. Gates.

Loudonville's Chamber Sets Program Plan

LOUDONVILLE — A program for the year was drafted at a recent special meeting of the local Chamber of Commerce. It was called by the new president, Edgar Raby.

Jacob Fuller was named chairman of a committee dealing with manufacturing problems and the preparation of a new state park guide. Since the one issued in 1941 traffic around and into the state park has presented a problem with the recreational areas around Pleasant Hill and the memorial for World War II veterans.

Jacque Lingenfelter heads the retail merchants committee which will supervise a spring sales day and merchant participation in Christmas decorations in the downtown business section. The Fourth of July celebration in Riverside park will be under the direction of Henry Helbert. He also heads the housing committee.

George Planck heads the Halloween party which the organization sponsors annually. Merle Aldenderfer was appointed to confer with civic groups relative to the erection of a World War II memorial. Dr. Larry Church will have charge of the next Chamber banquet and is heading the membership drive, now in progress, which closes Tuesday.

New Washingtonian, Nearly 86, 'Fixture' In Office

Works 57 Years With One Firm

By BILL HERRING
News-Journal State Editor

NEW WASHINGTON — On March 11 Miss Louise M. Kibler will start her 57th year in the office of the local S. J. Kibler and Brother company. She will mark her 86th birthday anniversary on July 20.

Treasurer of the firm since Jan. 2, 1925, Miss Kibler recalls the early days of her employment as bookkeeper and stenographer when she had to take telegraph messages to a nearby tower for dispatching as the telephone era had not arrived.

She was among the eight graduates in the first class receiving diplomas at the local high school in 1883. After taking a summer session of instruction at Ohio Northern university she taught third and fourth grades here for seven years.

She graduated from a business course at Michigan Normal college in Ypsilanti in 1891 and joined her brothers, S. J. and J. W. Kibler in the local firm's office on March 11, 1892, at its former East Main street location. In 1902 the firm moved to its newly-constructed plant on South Center street upon its incorporation.

* * *

Miss Kibler resigned at the firm's annual meeting on Jan. 29 but continues at her desk and co-workers are confident she'll finish this quarter of the year before stepping down. She wears glasses only at work despite her years of working with ledgers of figures. Failing eyesight is given as her reason for resigning.

A member of St. John's Lutheran church here, Miss Kibler has taught in its Sunday school and is a member of its Ladies society. She resides alone in an eight-room house on East Main street with a girl as housekeeper and who drives her automobile as Miss Kibler never learned to drive a motor vehicle.

She loved driving fast horses and kept three horses and a surrey with a canopy (the fringe top popularized in song) and once suffered a foot injury when a horse ran away after becoming frightened upon meeting a threshing machine on the road near Tiro.

* * *

The Kibler firm's history dates back more than 100 years. Her father, Mathias M. Kibler, was born June 11, 1822, in Wurtenburg, Germany, and came to Ohio in 1841, establishing his home here. With the help of his brother, Christ, he built and began operation of their first tannery in 1845, five miles south of here.

Christ died in 1847 and the tannery burned a year later. Within the next year Mathias purchased a tannery here and after remodeling it operations were begun in tanning of leather for shoes, also collar and harness leather. His business increased until it became one of the largest of its kind in this section.

In 1853 he began custom shoe making and for a number of years employed from eight to 12 men as shoemakers, selling the shoes for miles around. He was the leader in incorporating this village in 1875, and became its first mayor. He was instrumental in having the township divided into eight school districts and supplied with schools and adequate facilities.

* * *

Mathias Kibler also was one of the promoters of the Pennsylvania railroad building its line through here. After his death in 1876 the business was carried on by his widow and a son, S. J. Kibler, under the title og S. J. Kibler and company.

In 1881 the widow sold her interest to another son, J. W., and the name was changed to its present form. Both sons are dead and the company is being handled by two of Miss Kibler's nephews, A. G. and M. M. Kibler.

The passing of the years has brought one "breather" to Miss Kibler. No longer can be heard the call:

"Take a letter, please, Miss Kibler . . ."

Miss Kibler hasn't used her shorthand for a number of years. She still gets out monthly reports on the year's balance and draws up quarterly reports on inventories.

Shelby Seniors Rated On Tests

SHELBY — Bernice Hawk, local high school senior and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hawk, of 15 East Jefferson street, led in the general scholarship test given seniors earlier in the month. Second place was taken by David Heck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Heck, Mansfield avenue.

Lucille Clark and James Evans tied for third, fifth went to Nancy Gump while Junior McKenzie placed sixth and Harold Phillips seventh. Eighth place finisher was Joyce Crum.

Harriet Hager and Joan La Bonte tied for ninth. Alice McKinney received honorable mention. Certificates will be awarded winning seniors on Recognition day. The test was administered locally by J. E. McCullough, high school principal, and Miss Ruth Stroup and Robert R. Wenland.

Four Times As Many Babies Born In Shelby Hospital

Births Quadrupled In Past 10 Years

By JOHN E. PATRICK
(N-J State Correspondent)

SHELBY — In the short span of 10 years the births at the Shelby Memorial hospital have more than quadrupled.

In 1937 members of the hospital staff discussed the new all-time high of 100 and recalled the tense moments during the year when it appeared the obstetrics department would not be able to handle this enormous increase, for during the previous 16 years the average births had been around the 60 mark.

What would those members of the staff have said in 1937 if they had been told that in 10 years the department would handle a new all-time high of 445 births and 443 for the next year.

But like all progressive institutions wherein the capacity increases as the demand grows, the Shelby hospital followed along in the production and this year with the births already 10 ahead of last year's mark at this time, the expansion will probably continue to take care of the demand.

The growth of the OB department of the hospital typifies the drive and the advancement being shown by all phases of American endeavor.

Looking back a few years this modern, up-to-date department with nine rooms, capable of bedding 13 patients, a spic and span labor room, nursery and delivery room, utility room, nurses' station and doctors' rest and dressing room, consisted of just two private rooms and a ward which could handle three bed patients. The nursery was a small corner cubicle capable of handling five basinettes and actually had a rack which held three basinettes of the carrying type. The new nursery has individual adjustable basinettes with its own mobile carriages.

The spotless nursery gives the prospective mother and father a sense of security. A look at its neat, clean appearance, flooded by a germ destroying lamp, its incubators and oxygen apparatus to meet any emergency, all neatly arranged in their place, gives the parents the knowledge their offspring will be taken care of in any eventuality.

The sound proof labor room and the efficiently arranged delivery room have often relieved the tension being undergone by the parents prior to delivery.

This department is the pride and joy of Miss Josephine Hoover, superintendent of the hospital. Although the department is under the supervision of Mrs. Edna Howell, head nurse, Miss Hoover spends much of her available time in suggesting and cooperating with Mrs. Howell in order to make this department tops in all aspects, such as hand technique, in which the nurse on duty thoroughly scrubs between the handling of the infants.

Much credit for the growth and advancement of the hospital should go to Miss Hoover, whose drive and determination have made the hospital here one of the best in the state. Utilizing the knowledge gained at McDonald House, Western Reserve in Cleveland, and the Charity hospital, Miss Hoover strives to operate the hospital with efficiency tempered with understanding.

The OB department operates on three eight hour shifts with a registered nurse and aid on each trick. In addition to Mrs. Howell, Miss Ruth Amerine, Miss Betty Green and Mrs. Janice Wieland, assisted by Mrs. Herbert Braden and Miss Mary Babcock, have gained the respect and good will of the new mothers with their gentleness and understanding.

Credit also goes to Miss Hoover and to Mrs. Ann Nugent, the cook, for the attractive meals, colorfully served to please the most jaded appetite.

And as each stage setting in every theater has its behind the scene help, here, too, in a modern OB department are the aids, tray girls and hospital guild members, who through cooperation make the Shelby Memorial hospital what it is today.

The New '49 PONTIAC

Pontiac—Division of General Motors

North..South..East..West America likes Pontiac best!

In their own words below, the automotive editors of America's leading newspapers graphically record the nation-wide triumph which the 1949 Pontiac scored on its introduction a few weeks ago. Read what they say. Then come in and see the great new car that has created the greatest public enthusiasm in Pontiac history.

San Francisco: "Pontiac's 'forty niners' shot quickly into popular favor on their initial showing here STOP Their 'new look' and astonishing low price tags winning immediate approval and rightly so from record crowds because of these two features to say nothing of their mechanical advancement and improved riding qualities."
LEON J. PINKSON, AUTOMOTIVE EDITOR, SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE

Dallas: "Despite 15-degree weather thousands of fashion conscious Dallasites kept Pontiac dealers' showrooms filled throughout Introduction Day STOP Comment on new Styling keynoted enthusiastic approval."
CHARLES CATES, AUTOMOTIVE EDITOR, DALLAS TIMES HERALD

Detroit: "Public reception of new Pontiac was up to the highest expectations of company's officials STOP It looks like another good year for the division judging by customers' enthusiasm."
SILER FREEMAN, AUTOMOTIVE EDITOR, DETROIT TIMES

Chicago: "Chicago welcomed the new 1949 Pontiacs with a 24-gun salute of approval judging by the enthusiastic reception and the long lines crowding dealer showings STOP The new Pontiac should prove to be one of 1949's biggest highway hits."
MAURICE RODDY, AUTOMOBILE EDITOR, CHICAGO SUN-TIMES

New York: "Beauty of appearance combined with advanced utility and styling features of Pontiac models drew much attention from big crowds at dealers' showrooms in New York."
BERT PIERCE, AUTOMOBILE EDITOR, NEW YORK TIMES

Memphis: "The greatest and most enthusiastic public reception in Pontiac's history here STOP Many orders taken regardless of no definite date of delivery STOP If production can meet public demand I predict the biggest year Pontiac ever had."
ACE BAILEY, AUTOMOTIVE EDITOR, MEMPHIS COMMERCIAL APPEAL

Junior Fair Board Elects In Crawford

Donald Long Keeps Position At Helm

BUCYRUS — Re-election of Donald Long of the Sulphur Springs 4-H club as president of the Crawford county junior fair board was announced here last week.

Other officers include vice-president, Miss Naomi Will of Leesville juvenile grange; secretary, Miss Violet Steiner, Holmes-Liberty Future Homemakers representative; assistant secretary and reporter, Franklin Hedges, Lykens Future Farmers.

New members of the board include Billy Zimmerman, Whetstone 4-H club; Lloyd Blackford, North Robinson juvenile grange, Kenneth Schifer, Mt. Zion FFA, Miss Emily Fox, Bucyrus PHA., Carol Schnarrenberger, Chatfield 4-H club, and Miss Helen Cotsamire, Bucyrus Girl Scouts.

Barn superintendents and assistants for this year's junior fair, which will be held in conjunction with the county fair at the fairgrounds here Sept. 5-9, include Donald Long, Dick Leuthold, Kenneth Schifer, Wesley Hosserger, Gerald Hatcher, Billy Zimmerman, Gale Ruth, Franklin Hedges, Roger Smith, Donald Eppley, Merton Boyd jr., Robert Bishop, Keith Cook, Robert Norris and Lloyd Blackford.

FHA exhibits will be shown by a committee composed of the Misses Emily Fox, Helen Scheffler and Violet Steiner.

Miss Betty Bevier will be in charge of 4-H booths featuring exhibits arranged by Carol Schnarrenberger, Lykens. Miss Evelyn Lutz of Mt. Zion will direct the style show and demonstration schedules.

County Agricultural Agent Russell L. Miller and Miss Wanda Montgomery, county home demonstration agent, reported board members favor numerous changes in the annual premium list.

Willard Man Heads Huron McKinley Club

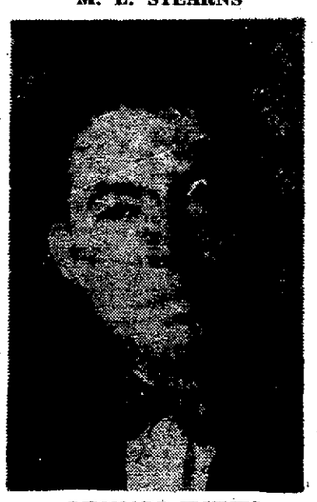
PLYMOUTH — Harry V. Jump of Willard, and Huron county commissioner, has been elected president of the Huron county McKinley club.

B. F. Kean of Norwalk has been re-elected secretary and treasurer, J. E. Nimmons of Plymouth, has been named one of the vice presidents for the year.

Roll Call Leaders In Shelby

M. L. STEARNS

MRS. WAYNE CARLETON



LEONARD WAINES

WILLIAM SITES

SHELBY — Four Shelbyites, here pictured, have the responsibility of putting the Red Cross fund raising campaign over the top here this year. The Shelby goal is $6,500.

M. L. Stearns, chairman of the roll call, came to Richland county in 1935 after graduating from Bowling Green State university. Later he obtained a masters degree at Ohio State university. He coached athletic teams in Butler and Bellville.

After serving for five years as an investigator for the State Industrial commission he joined the Shelby Mutual Casualty company as superintendent of the claims department in 1946. He is a member of First Methodist church here, the Mansfield Masonic lodge and is treasurer and charter member of the Mansfield Association of Credit Men. His hobby is sports. He is married, has one son and resides at Edgewood drive here.

Leonard Waines, vice chairman of the campaign, was born in Yorkshire, England and migrated to the United States at the age of seven years. He has made Shelby his home ever since and graduated from the local high school where he was a member of its first basketball team. He attended Miami university for two years.

During the war he was a petty officer in the Navy, being stationed at Pearl Harbor. He is past commander of O'Brien Post, No. 326, American Legion and is present Legion county commander. He is an honorary member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Methodist church here where he is secretary of the board.

Waines is employed in the accounting department of the Shelby Salesbook company. His hobby is specializing in delphinium flowers. He is married, has two daughters and resides at 26 Marvin avenue.

Mrs. Wayne Carleton, residential chairman, a native of Dayton moved here in 1932. She is a member of the Red Cross board, Hospital Guild board, group leader and ways and means chairman of the Hospital Guild. She attended Ohio State university where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. She is a member of the Mansfield Alumni association, St. Mark's Episcopal church and its Altar Guild.

Her husband, Wayne, is owner of the Carleton Advertising agency. They have two children and reside at 37 East Gaylord avenue.

William Sites, publicity chairman, was born in Mansfield and has resided here for the past three years where he is an underwriter for the Shelby Mutual Casualty company. He spent three years in the infantry in Army uniform.

He is a member of the Methodist church, O'Brien Legion Post and secretary of the local exchange club. Sites has been in the insurance business in Mansfield and Columbus for 13 years. His hobby is sports. He is married and resides at 94 West Main street.

New Washington Girl Places First

BUCYRUS — Marilyn Eckstein, New Washington high school student, placed first in the state senior scholarship examinations held Feb. 5 at Sulphur Springs school, County School Supt. S. K. Sollars announced today.

Vaughn James, Sulphur Springs, was second and Alice Dow, New Washington, and Charles Yaussy, Holmes-Liberty, tied for third place.

Other students placing in the top 10 positions included Richard Yaussy, North Robinson; Mary Weithman, New Washington; Donna Brown, Chatfield; Eldon Young, New Washington; Louise Speece, Whetstone, and Shirley Rossman, Lykens.

Takes New Post

LOUDONVILLE — Frank Carter, local representative for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, for the past two years, has been appointed assistant district manager of the firm's Mansfield office. Carter has started his new duties in Mansfield.

Lexington Plans Musicale Friday

LEXINGTON — Miss Lois Walker is directing grade and junior high school students who will present a musicale in the local high school auditorium at 8 p. m. Friday. The program includes vocal solos, dances and group singing by the first six grades.

Paul Shuler, a seventh grader, will offer a clarinet solo and Marilyn Wiles, another seventh grader, will play alto horn solos. Yodeling by Jim Brown and Bob Rakestraw, of the eighth grade, is another feature.

The junior high boys glee club and girls glee club will conclude the program.

PLAN PROGRAM MARCH 8

TIRO — Members of Edgewood grange here are preparing for the exchange program the local organization members will present Tuesday evening, March 8, at the Whetstone school. This will be the third of a series of exchange programs.

E. U. B. Church In Shelby Host to Brotherhood Sunday

SHELBY — Rev. J. R. Thomas of Hayesville, who is president of the Ohio Association of Township Trustees and an ordained Church of God pastor, will speak Sunday evening at the Willard district Evangelical United Brethren Brotherhood meeting in the local E. U. B. church.

Despite his work as head of the local government group Rev. Thomas has maintained his interest in religion and preaches somewhere almost every Sunday. While serving as an active minister, prior to 1922, he was pastor of a church near Willard. He is an active member of Union grange in Richland county.

F. C. Grandey, Toledo, president of the Sandusky conference brotherhood, also will appear on the program. Rev. G. L. Flemming, pastor of Sandusky's Columbus Avenue E. U. B. church, will speak concerning the work of his church.

The evening service starts at 7:30 p. m. with a song service directed by Paul Morton of Leesville. C. A. Tilton, Attica Federated Brotherhood president, will read the Scripture and the Willard Brotherhood will have the evening prayer period. The Tiro Brotherhood will offer a special number.

Russell Post, Galion, secretary will direct the attendance count and Jacque Armstrong, vice-president from Shelby, will have charge of the offering. Noel Smith, Shelby, will play the offertory. The men's chorus will sing and the attendance award will be made. Rev. Floyd Rife, Mt. Carmel pastor, will give the benediction. Carl Baker, Tiro, district president, will preside.

Ladies of the church will serve a fellowship supper at 5 p. m. A business meeting is slated for 6:45 p. m. with an election of officers highlighted.

The Willard district is represented by brotherhoods at Willard, Shelby, Galion, Tiro, Sandusky, Mt. Carmel, Bloomville, Attica and Leesville.

Shelby Sees Clear Path In Primary

Race Hopes Dim; Deadline Thursday

SHELBY — Unless additional new candidates file petitions for the office of councilman for the Second and Third wards, it appears that a primary election will not be necessary here.

Since the Second ward incumbent, E. E. Eckert, made his decision not to run for re-election, it leaves the battle for that ward between two newcomers in the field of politics, John Gray, of 15 Grace avenue, and Henry Miller, of 19 W. Tucker avenue.

In the Third ward it will be between the incumbent, R. Bringman, and another newcomer, Ronald (Robin) Milliron, of East Whitney avenue. No new candidates have appeared to oppose the incumbents in the First and Fourth wards, J. M. Herlihy and Dr. E. J. Schad.

For the office of mayor, director of finance and director of law, William R. Morris, Chester P. Monn and William G. Depler will have no opposition unless some candidates file before the deadline, Thursday.

$30,000 Damages Asked for Injury

LOUDONVILLE — A damage suit for $30,000 against the Ohio Public Service company has been filed in Ashland county court of common pleas by Mrs. Pearl Warner, wife of Charles Warner of Loudonville.

She claims this amount for injuries suffered from an electrical shock while she was hanging out the washing last fall. The petition claims negligence on the part of the OPS and alleges it permitted use of uninsulated wiring which transmitted electricity to the down spouting and then into the clothesline.

Mrs. Warner was removed from the clothesline after about 10 minutes by a gas station attendant, after being severely burned and was hospitalized for some time.

North Fairfield Grange Host To Annual Banquet Monday

NEW LONDON — John C. Davis, Cleveland newspaper farm editor, will be the featured speaker at the annual grange workers' banquet to be held in the Masonic Temple, North Fairfield, on Monday. This will be the second annual affair of its kind, open to all Grange officers and members.

Davis will be returning to his home county of Huron for this affair, being a native of Havana. Following his graduation from Western Reserve university in 1925, he became affiliated with the coaching staff there for a time and during the 1930's, he published 25 farm papers throughout Medina county. He began newspaper writing in 1940.

In addition to Davis, John Miller of Columbus will be on the program. Miller is a former deputy grange master from Erie county and at present is chairman of the State Grange Executive board.

The banquet is scheduled to get under way at 7 p. m. to be in charge of North Fairfield Grange. Over 300 attended the 1948 banquet. The host grange for this year has the distinction of being the oldest grange in Huron county and now is making plans for their 75th anniversary later on. It is one of the active granges of the county, with Richard Baxter as its present master.

300 Farmers Enter Program

BUCYRUS — More than 300 Crawford county farmers have signed for participation in the 1949 conservation program, Dean Bair, county chairman of the Agricultural Conservation association, reported.

Applications for participation in the program will be received until March 31.

Three corn loans already have been received. They will be available until June 30, which is also the deadline for corn growers purchase agreements, Mr. Bair stated. To be eligible for a loan, the corn moisture content must not exceed 20.5 per cent.

Applications for 1948 payments are being prepared at the local AAA office for signatures. The county's conservation allotments for 1949 will amount to $68,720.

Liddell Tops Ashland Red Cross Fund Drive

GALION — With a quota of $4,358 to be met, the annual Red Cross fund drive will be launched here Tuesday.

F. A. W. Liddell, drive chairman, has not yet announced his division chairmen, as several were yet to be secured.

It is hoped the goal can be met in two weeks.

Teacher Gets Surprise Gift

ASHLAND — George Krill, vocational agriculture teacher at Ashland high school, was presented with an outboard motor by 150 of his former students, teaching associates and his family at a surprise party honoring his birthday last week.

The party was arranged by Rodger Hiller, assistant in the vocational department and former student of Krill. The event was a dinner at the high school cafeteria with Dr. W. F. Stewart, chairman emeritus of the agriculture educational department at Ohio State university as speaker. Krill was a member of the first class taught by Dr. Stewart at O. S. U. in 1917.

Among former students present were four who won American Farmer degrees for FFA work and 25 who won State Farmer degrees.

Beauty and Dignity

In beauty we find gentleness and compassion; in dignity, strength and fortitude—the qualities that combine to create the neighborliness and tolerance that will eventually bring peace to the world.

The memorable beauty and dignity of a properly appointed, reverently conducted funeral service honors those who have gone and respects those who remain to carry on.

RED CROSS DRIVE HOLDS INTEREST FOR WOMEN OF RICHLAND COUNTY

WOMEN OF ALL AGES are taking part in the annual Red Cross fund campaign which starts Tuesday. They also work the year around at the thousand and one humanitarian tasks that make up the Red Cross network of service to men, women and children the world over.

Mrs. Richard Risser, 117½ Blymyer avenue, a busy young housewife and mother, has taken over the duties of general chairman for the Woman's Division, and has been actively engaged in setting up the campaign since the first of the year. She has met with the ward chairmen and precinct chairmen at many sessions to line up the house-to-house canvassing which begins Monday.

Shown in the picture with her is her co-chairman, Mrs. Ruth Grimm, 596 Bigelow road, who has worked for many years on Red Cross campaigns. Mrs. Risser also has worked for six or seven years in this activity. While her husband was in service during the last war she assisted with Red Cross work at the various army posts where he was stationed, in the South and West.

Mrs. Grimm was a member of the Motor Corps during the recent war and chairman of that group when she resigned last spring.

* * *

ABLE ASSISTANTS for the women's division are the ward chairmen: Mrs. Erwin Loew, 154 West Second street, in charge of the First ward; Mrs. R. J. Hoff, 811 Yale drive, Second ward; Mrs. Kenneth Cadigan, 55 Wellington avenue; Miss Ruth Preston, 764 Woodhill road; Mrs. Norman Wolfe, 662 Park avenue west, Fifth ward, and Mrs. Joseph Roby, 35 Hoffman avenue.

In order that the public may be well informed on the many worthwhile Red Cross activities, young people from the Mansfield Senior high school public speaking class have volunteered their services to the various civic and social clubs. Three boys and three girls have spoken at recent meetings and are available for future dates. Among them is the attractive and talented Elsie Hager, 300 Auburn street. These young folks give three to five-minute speeches.

* * *

ANOTHER PHASE of the Junior Red Cross work is the knitting class held at the Red Cross Chapter House, Park avenue west, each Monday afternoon for little girls of grade school age. Fifty are enrolled and at the present time are making squares to be used for afghans. Two youngsters, who are especially interested in this project, are Marilyn Taylor, 357 West Third street, and Roberta Weil, 29 Baldwin avenue.

Still another service of the Junior Red Cross is the making of posters of art work for campaign display. Shirley Shultz, 304 High street, an eighth grader at John Simpson Junior high school, is shown painting a red cross to be used for this purpose. Ten large crosses and a huge cross have been completed by the art group at the school.

In the 30-day annual campaign which opens Tuesday the Red Cross volunteer workers will ring their neighbors' doorbells and will ask their co-workers in stores, offices and factories for contributions to the fund. Richland county's goal is $48,835.

Mrs. N. J. Marion and Mrs. Robert Henry are co-chairmen for the township division, which includes the districts outside of Mansfield and Shelby.

* * *

RED CROSS WORKERS have put the job of making up envelopes of campaign supplies for volunteer solicitors on an assembly line basis at headquarters. Chairmen and co-chairmen of the various residential divisions lend a hand, too, in order that material may be ready in time.

Aiding with this task were: Mrs. C. H. Guy, Mrs. Charles Saprano, Mrs. G. D. Wiedimeir, Mrs. Roy Wittemire, Mrs. John Artley, Mrs. Howard Straub, Mrs. Emil Stephan, Mrs. S. J. McGlasson, Mrs. G. F. Wadsworth, Mrs. Dwight McCullough, Mrs. Milo Patterson, Mrs. F. Stuckney, Mrs. Carl Baer, Mrs. Maurice Gowing, Mrs. H. L. Cramer, Mrs. V. B. Floyd Kautz, Mrs. R. F. Schmitt, Mrs. Andrew Stash, Mrs. E. J. Hegarty, Mrs. Warren Rupp, Mrs. James McKee, Mrs. Carl Ortman, Mrs. R. B. Waldo, Mrs. Frank Elias, Mrs. Paul Endriss, Mrs. James Walker, Mrs. Herman Wiler, Mrs. H. E. Amsbaugh, Mrs. J. H. Boyd jr., Mrs. Emmet Morgan, Mrs. Robert Hall, Mrs. W. L. Lancaster, Miss Coila Lichtenberger, Mrs. Robert Glasener, Mrs. John Fisher, Miss Eleanor Bond, Mrs. William Cline, Mrs. Sherman Wentz, Mrs. Paul Stoodt, Mrs. James Eberley, Mrs. Olan LaRue, Mrs. Ed Smith, Mrs. Richard Pretat, Mrs. Harry Theirlein, Mrs. W. C. Mead, Mrs. Lawrence Powell, Miss Clara Yeager, Mrs. A. L. Glattke, Mrs. Walter Andrews, Mrs. F. W. Garrison, Mrs. Josephine Brown, Mrs. Ethel Channell, Mrs. Fred Wagner, Mrs. M. D. Harnly, Mrs. Paul Tucker, Mrs. Fred Fischer, Mrs. Roger Black, Mrs. S. S. Davidson, Mrs. Forest Rittenger, all precinct chairmen.

Mrs. Clyde T. Fitch, 731 West Fourth street, a professional woman, whose time is most limited, has given her efforts to the drive by serving as chairman of Greater Mansfield district. She has devoted as much time as possible to the campaign since moving to Mansfield in 1943 from Hudson.

Double Ring Ceremony Read In Rectory

FATHER WILLIAM CONCES officiated for the double ring ceremony of Miss. E. Jane Culler and Maurice E. Callahan Saturday evening at 6:45 in St. Peter's rectory. The rectory was decorated with beauty baskets of white gladioli, white stock and huckleberry.

Miss Culler who has been residing at 25 Bowman sweet. is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Culler, Lucas, and Mr. Callahan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew M. Callahan, 138 Chandler place.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory brocade wedding gown. The front of the skirt, just below the bodice, had three wide tucks which cascaded to the back falling into a wide pointed train. The gown had long sleeves which came to points over the hands. Miss Culler wore a gold and amethyst heirloom pin at the high round neckline.

An heirloom crown of hand made lace in a Juliet type cap held the very full imported English silk illusion veil which was below fingertip length.

Miss Culler carried a cascade bouquet of starlite roses, carnations and white hyacinth blossoms.

Miss Marthel Caldwell, Warren, college roommate of the bride, was the maid of honor. Miss Marian Rick, Columbus, close friend of the bride, and Mrs. Carl Fritz, sister of the bridegroom, served as bridesmaids. Miss Caldwell wore a gown of nile green, Miss Rick, a gown of jonquil yellow, and Mrs. Fritz, a gown of woods violet.

The three attendants' gowns were styled alike of taffeta. The sheer yokes gave the effect of dropped shoulders. A bertha of taffeta, with Chantilly lace edging it, was caught up into the yokes at the points. The front of the bodices were shirred. The very full skirts were caught up in front from which peaked full ruffled slips, worn over hoops.

The young women all carried little taffeta spring muffs, edged with Chantilly lace in ruffles with their period gowns. Lovely deep violets centered with rosebuds were attached to the lace. Little ruffled caps of Chantilly, the color of the gowns, were worn. These were styled like the bride's.

Mrs. Culler chose an ankle length aqua gown with black accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Callahan was attired in an ankle length pink gown with black accessories. Both mothers had cattleya hybrid orchids.

Carl Fritz, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Robert A. Barger, Columbus, college roommate of the bridegroom, and Jack Carr, close friend of the bride, escorted the guests to their pews.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception for 150 guests was held at the YWCA. The bride's table was centered with a five tiered wedding cake surrounded by pink and white rosebuds and maiden's hair. Appointments were in pink and white. Mrs. George Meyer, Mrs. Henry Helbert, Loudonville, Mrs. Martin Culler, Ashland, Mrs. Robert A. Barger, Columbus and Mrs. H. T. Ammerman, were the hostesses.

For her honeymoon to an undisclosed destination, Mrs. Callahan wore a navy blue dressmaker suit with red accessories. With this she wore a fur coat. Her corsage was a white alber orchid.

After March 5 the couple will be at home at 700 Berkeley road, Columbus.

Mrs. Callahan graduated from Lucas high school and Ohio State University where she was affiliated with the Alpha Delta Pi social sorority. Mr. Callahan, also a graduate of Lucas high school, is now a student at Ohio State University. Mrs. Callahan was employed as the nurse in the office of Dr. D. W. DeWald at the time of her marriage.

MRS. FRANK JOCHA

Miss Florence Kulka and Frank Jocha exchanged nuptial vows February 19 in St. Peter's Roman Catholic church with the Rev. Father William Conces officiating. Miss Kulka wore an afternoon length dress. Miss Kulka is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Kulka, 538 Daisy street, and Mr. Jocha is the son of Stephen Jocha, 137 Boughton avenue. The couple is residing at 137 Boughton avenue.

The Nomads Give Book To Library

The Nomads met with Mrs. John Cook, 470 Marion avenue, where luncheon was served to twenty-two members. Flower arrangements of sweet-peas and daffodils were used on the tables and throughout the house.

Mrs. Fred Tracy, program chairman, presented Mrs Merrill Manz jr., who read a paper prepared by Mrs. Gilbert Dobson, entitled "Outside the Whitehouse Looking In". Mrs. Dobson collected her material for the paper, from two current books about the Whitehouse.

The club presented "Remembrance Rock" by Carl Sandburg to the public library, as a memorial to Mrs. Helen Meihack.

The next meeting will be held March 9 at the Women's club with Mrs. Harry Cave hostess.

Reserve Officers Dance Friday Night

Seventy couples danced to the music of Paul Burgener and his orchestra Friday night at the 40 et 8 club on Ashland road. The occasion was the Richland County Chapter of Reserve Officers association annual military ball.

The dance was held in observance of National Security week which began February 22. The president asks all military organizations and civilians to recognize the need for military preparedness during this time.

Preceding the dance Col. and Mrs. Stuart M. Weaver, 520 Chevy Chase road, held a cocktail party in honor of all commanding officers and staff of the various military units in Mansfield. Seventy-five guests were present.

LOSES 40 LBS., AND FINDS NEW PEP

Cambridge lady gets desired results in short time with Rennel

"Having lost 40 lbs. with Rennel, I can hardly praise it enough," writes Mrs. C. S. Broomhall, Rt. 4, Cambridge, Ohio. "Before losing this weight my limbs would become so sore during the day that at night I could hardly turn over in bed without help. Now I feel fine, sleep good, and awake feeling refreshed. I think Rennel is wonderful."

Imagine, eat plenty and lose weight with this simple yet effective amazing home recipe. After purchasing a bottle of Rennel from your druggist pour the contents into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. No diets to complicate your meal planning. No expensive vitamins to fortify your system from weakness while going without food for you can eat normally. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender, more youthful curves—if reducible excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Don't be switched to another product, insist on and be sure to get the genuine Rennel.

EVELYN ART BECOMES BRIDE OF MARSHALL SMITH

IN ONE OF THE SEASON'S prettiest weddings, Miss Evelyn Jean Art became the bride of Marshall Duane Smith, Saturday afternoon at 3:30. The nuptial vows were spoken before the altar of the First English Lutheran church which was beautifully decorated in white. Two large beauty baskets of white gladioli, snapdragons and stock, two gold altar vases of white carnations and snapdragons and palms, ferns and two seven branch candelabra completed the background. Jan Alan McGinty served as acolyte.

The Rev. Carveth P. Mitchell officiated for the double-ring ceremony during a closed church service.

Miss Art is the daughter of Mrs. William Art, 151 West Second street, and Mr. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Smith, 825 Park avenue west.

Mrs. Clayson D. Bell presided at the organ for the nuptial music and Miss Beverly Wentz was the soloist.

A lovely gown of pure white satin fashioned with a high round neckline and a yoke of sheer nylon marquisette was worn by Miss Art. The yoke was edged in a double ruffle of Chantilly lace, giving an off-the-shoulder effect. The dress closed down the back with tiny self-covered buttons and had long sleeves ending in points over the hands. A ruffle of matching Chantilly lace edged the sleeves. The very full skirt was softly gathered over the hips and fell into a train.

Miss Art's finger tip veil of silk illusion was held in place by a band of tiny orange blossoms, framing each side of her face.

David L. McGinty, brother-in-law of the bride, gave her in marriage.

A white Bible with a pure, white orchid and stephanotis was carried by the bride.

Mrs. Benjamin O. Boals of Delaware, Ohio, close friend of the bride, was her matron of honor. Miss Mary Ann Cusic, also a close friend of the bride, was the bridesmaid. Mrs. Boals' gown was romance blue satin and Miss Cusic wore a gown of smoke gray satin. Both gowns were fashioned with a folded band of satin straight across the bodice forming cap sleeves at the shoulders. The bodice was softly shirred in front and back with the full skirt gathered slightly above the hipline. Matching mits were worn.

Mrs. Boals wore a headband of shattered purple carnations centered with pink sweetpeas and Miss Cusic's headband was of pink sweetpeas surrounding a row of shattered purple carnations. They carried bouquets of matching flowers.

Mrs. Art chose a dress of navy blue silk crepe and navy blue accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Smith was attired in a French blue silk crepe dress with pink accessories. Both mothers had Cattleya hybrid orchid corsages.

Charles W. Betz jr., close friend of the bridegroom, served as best man.

James E. Hagerty, Thomas H. Scott, Edward A. Eisler jr., of Cleveland, and F. Richard Weaver of Kokamo, Indiana, all friends of the bridegroom, escorted the guests to their pews.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the ballroom of the Mansfield Leland hotel for 175 guests. The bride's table was centered with a five-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. The cake was surrounded by fern and white stock. delabra added to the decorations. Pink sweetpeas and purple carnation bouquets and silver candles. Mrs. F. William Doolittle of Columbus, Ohio, and Miss Eileen Tahsler, friends of the bride, presided at the table.

For her honeymoon to Florida and a tour of the southern states, Mrs. Smith was attired in a royal blue gabardine suit with gray accessories and a grey topper. She wore the white orchid carried during the wedding ceremony.

After March 15 the couple will be at home at 704 Manchester road.

Mrs. Smith graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and was employed as medical secretary at the Veteran's Administration. She is a member of Zeta chapter, Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority. Mr. Smith, also a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, received his degree in Printing Engineering from the Carnegie Institute of Technology. It was there Mr. Smith became affiliated with Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Mr. Smith is now associated with the Mansfield Printing company.

Out-of-town guests present at the wedding were from Ashland Wooster, Delaware, Cleveland, Columbus, Ohio, and Kokomo, Indiana.

MEET AT SCHOOL

Bowman School Mothers' Club will meet Wednesday afternoon at the school in room one for their regular session.

Announcement Made of Coming Marriage of Glenna Ryan

ANNOUNCEMENT is being made of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Glenna Ryan, daughter of Mrs. Gertrude Ryan, 472 Hammond avenue, to Joseph R. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Smith, 487 South Main street.

Nuptial vows will be exchanged before the altar of the Grace Episcopal church March 20 at 3:30 o'clock. The custom of open church will be observed.

Miss Ryan is employed at the Colby Earick company and was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school. She is affiliated with Nu Phi Mu sorority. Mr. Smith, who is employed at Lumbermen's Mutual Insurance company, attended Kent State university. He served in the Pacific theatre while in the navy.

Miss Brauchler Wed Saturday To Mr. Simpson

In a gown of white marquisette with Italian embroidery and a long flowing train, Miss Norma Jean Brauchler was wed to Robert Joseph Simpson, yesterday at 7:30 p. m.

The First Methodist church, scene of the ceremony, was decorated with beauty baskets, palms, candleabra and two single candles flanking a gold cross, for the candlelight ceremony. Rev. Charles W. Stoneburner officiated for the open church double ring service.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Brauchler jr., 318 Second avenue. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert William Simpson, 329 Fourth avenue.

The bride's gown had a bertha collar and long pointed sleeves. Her bodice was tight fitting with buttons down the back of the gown to the hip line. A colonial bonnet of imported veiling, held her finger tip length veil in place. The bonnet was trimmed with pearline orange blossoms. She carried white rosebuds on a white prayer book.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Duke Hergatt of Mt. Vernon, a friend of the bride, wore a gown of heavenly blue taffeta in a colonial style with a large bertha standing collar and a tight-fitting bodice. A bustle was held in place by two bows made of the material of the dress. Her full skirt fell over a crinoline petticoat making the skirt stand out. She wore a heavenly blue colonial bonnet and carried a colonial bouquet.

The bridesmaids were Miss Effie Christ, 458 Lily street, and Miss Lee Ann McCullough, 819 Trimble road. They both wore taffeta gowns, one of orchid and one of nile green, and wore looped horsehair colonial bonnets. They carried colonial bouquets.

The bride's mother wore for her daughter's wedding, a navy blue dress with navy blue and gray accessories. She carried talisman roses. The mother of the groom wore an aqua and black dress with aqua accessories and talisman roses.

The best man was Duke Hergatt of Mt. Vernon, a friend of the bride and groom. The ushers were Robert Brauchler, uncle of the bride, and Michael Spognardi, friend of the bride and groom.

A reception was held at the Sons of Herman hall immediately following the ceremony. There were 250 guests present. Out-of-town guests were present from Chicago, Canada, Ashland, Galion, Granville, Mt. Vernon, Sandusky and Marion.

The bride wore for her wedding trip an aqua suit with brown accessories and a yellow topper. The couple will be at home with the bride's parents, 318 Second avenue.

WED HERE—The Rev. V. C. Stamets officiated for the double ring formal wedding ceremony of Miss Janice Harriet Thomas and Donovan C. Cline, Feb. 19, at 2:30 in the First Evangelical United Brethren church. Miss Thomas is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob W. Thomas, 131 Raleigh avenue, and Mr. Cline is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Cline, 489 Howard avenue. The couple is now residing at 15 Granite street.

Miss Agnes Russell Honored

MISS AGNES RUSSELL, bride-elect of John G. Stutz, was complimented at a miscellaneous shower Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Paul Cropper, 468 West Third street.

The eighteen guests present were to choose a gift for Miss Russell which started with the first letter of their last name. A bride's book was made during the evening and presented to the honoree.

Refreshments were served by the hostess at small tables. Floral arrangements of white carnations centered each table.

Miss Russell and Mr. Stutz will exchange nuptial vows March 6 in the Grace Episcopal church in a formal ceremony.

Miss Russell will be feted by Mrs. Robert Au and Mrs. Mary Ferrell, Tuesday evening at the Au home, Lexington avenue.

Mrs. Simpson attended Mansfield Senior high and was employed at the Hartman Electric company at the time of her marriage. The groom attended Mansfield Senior high and is employed at the Ohio Brass company.

Claudia Marks Honored In Mt. Vernon

Mrs. Stephen P. Upham jr. entertained twenty-one friends of Miss Claudia V. Marks Friday afternoon at a luncheon bridge in honor of Miss Marks in her home in Mt. Vernon.

The centerpiece on the luncheon table was a lovely arrangement of pink and white spring flowers. On one side of the room the punch bowl was placed on a large silver tray covered with miniature boutonnieres made of the same flowers which composed the artistic centerpiece.

The Mansfield guests present at the affair were Mrs. George Sauter, Mrs. Avery Hand jr., Mrs. Bruce McGinty, Miss Peggy Ehalt and Mrs. Claude V. Marks, mother of the bride-elect.

Miss Marks announced her attendants for her wedding March 19 to David Lanning Upham. Mrs. Upham jr., sister-in-law of the bridegroom, will be the matron of honor. Miss Mary Daugherty of Renssler, Indiana, Miss Marks' suite mate while they attended Monticello Junior college, Alton, Illinois, will serve as maid of honor.

Bridesmaids for the ceremony will be Mrs. McGinty, Miss Ehalt, Miss Shirley Anson, all of Mansfield, and Miss Susie Hetlage of St. Louis, also Miss Marks' suite mate at Monticello college.

Mr. Upham has chosen his father, Stephen P. Upham, to be his bestman.

Guests will be escorted to their pews by Stephen P. Upham jr., Bradley Upham, both brothers of the bridegroom, John Claypool, Canton, Richard Bogardus, Mt. Vernon, Lyle Irvine, Columbus, and Stanley Price, Columbus, college roommate of Mr. Upham's at Dennison University.

Miss Marks and Mr. Upham will exchange nuptial vows at 8 o'clock in the evening. The Rev. Charles W. Stoneburner will officiate for the formal ceremony before the altar of the First Methodist church.

LAKEVILLE COUPLE HOLD ANNIVERSARY PARTY

G. B. Darlings Are Parents of Two Daughters, Mrs. Cline and Mrs. Robert Lett.

LAKEVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Darling celebrated their 35th wedding anniversary Monday. Mrs. Darling was formerly Miss Minerva Mae Mullendore, and her father Rev. George D. Mullendore performed the marriage ceremony in their home on North Beaver St., Wooster, where they lived at that time. Rev. Mullendore, age 86 years now lives in Magnolia, Miss.

Mr. Darling is a son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Darling, Ankenytown. Mr. Darling began his career by 'wielding the rod' as a country school teacher in a one room school. This was his vocation at the time of his marriage to Minerva Mullendore. He later gave up teaching to become a farmer.

Later he became Postmaster at Perrysville, and later became a licensed engineer, and worked for the Illinois Pipe Line Co. for five years. He later took up Banking and was cashier of the Perrysville Bank for 10 years. He was appointed liquidating agent for the State Department of Banks and Banking and served for 18 months. He is now cashier of the Monitor Bank of Big Prairie and resides in Lakeville, where they both take an active interest in all local affairs, and attend the Methodist church, where Mr. Darling is superintendent of the Sunday school.

They have two children, Mrs. Adora Cline, of Lubbock, Texas, and June, wife of Attorney Robert Lett, in Ashland. They have two grandchildren, Jack Cline 15 of Mt. Vernon and Darlene Cline 13 on her grandparents anniversary. Mr. Darling is 32nd degree Mason, and he is very active in the Eastern Star lodge.

JOAN EICHIN TO BE WED

MR. AND MRS. EDWIN M. EICHIN, 242 Davis road, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Joan Ruth, to Robert B. Lehman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mearl Lehman, 8 Stoodt avenue.

The nuptial vows will be exchanged March 20 at 2:30 p. m. in the First Presbyterian church. The Rev. David N. Roller will officiate for the formal ceremony.

Saturday at 1 o'clock, Mrs. Paul Cropper jr., and Mrs. E. D. Gibson entertained sixteen guests at a bathroom and linen shower in honor of Miss Eichin. The luncheon was held at the Farm House.

The three-course luncheon was served at a table centered with yellow daffodils, pink carnations and purple sweetpeas. Very dainty silver wedding bells were suspended through the arrangement. Leading out from the centerpiece were the pastel colored ribbons, matching the flowers in the floral design, to give a Maypole effect. At the end of each ribbon a small silver wedding bell was attached for the placecard. Inside the card was inscribed "Wedding Bells for Joan and Bob, March 20."

The hostesses presented the honoree with a gift of linen.

Miss Eichin is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and attended Ohio State university. She is now employed in the Ohio Brass accounting department. Mr. Lehman, also a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, is associated with his father in their business, M. D. Lehman Meat Market. He attended the University of Cincinnati.

After the business session a social was held in charge of the February birthday committee, Mrs. Ray Underwood acted as chairman.

Games were the diversion of the evening with prizes going to Mrs. Teresa Overly and Mrs. George Reichert. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

The next meeting will be March 10 in the clubrooms.

Epsilon Tau to Organize Sick Room Loan Closet As Project

EPSILON TAU CHAPTER of Beta Sigma Phi held its regular meeting at 8 p. m. in the Southern hotel. Mrs. Frank Hoffer presided over the meeting.

Those on the nominating committee, to elect new officers for the coming year are, Mrs. Ramon Phipps, Miss Mary Pollock and Mrs. Manning Perkins.

The chapter's project of the year is the Sickroom Loan Closet and it will be taken care of by the county health department.

A penny supper will be held March 15 at the First Methodist church, it was announced, and a card party will be sponsored by the organization April 26.

The program for the regular meeting was entitled "Tools for the Art of Life-Thought." The guest speaker was Rev. John Gensel of St. Paul's Lutheran church.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Perkins, Mrs. Walter Thormaehlen and Miss Ruth Maines.

Horoscope

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, February 27

SUNDAY'S horoscope, while holding conflicting aspects for the more sedate and serious commitments of the day, leaves little sign of contradiction for all sorts of romantic and thrilling adventures. Possibly engagements, even elopements, sudden culminations in which unusual friendships rise to dramatic heights. Even in this, be prepared for some sort of resistance from elders, the church, ill health or other opposition.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of surprising developments, in which the strange, unforeseen and unpredictable may materialize and this with sensational angles.

A child born on this day, although likely to contact delays, conflicts, or even lowered vitality, may attain status and enjoy a thrilling and romantic personal career.

For Monday, February 28

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day of high excitement and adventure, in which affairs move to surprising culminations and strenuous production, whether this be in promotion or exploitation of major plans or desires or in the realm of the purely personal or romantic. Concentrated efforts in putting over important objectives, impressive executive ability, or fresh technicques, could accelerate the prestige and standing.

Those whose birthday it is, may anticipate a lively, strenuous and enterprising day in which all forms of cherished desires and objectives may be put over with force, verve and much personal gratification.

A child born on this day will possess a splendid degree of creative skill and ingenuity,

Ladies of the 37th Division will hold open house today from 1 to 5 p. m. in the Memorial building. This is for all men of this division and their families.

MEET FRIDAY

The Post Matron's club Order of Eastern Star will meet at the home of Mrs. Charles Kerr, 232 Davis road, Friday, March 4 with Mrs. Milo Miller serving as associate hostess.

In buying sweetbreads allow one pair for each two people to be served.

GUESTS PRESENT

Mrs. F. M. Wachs, Blymyer avenue, was hostess Friday to nine members and two guests, Mrs. Clyde Willeys and Mrs. Don Wachs, of the Gleaners Bible club. Mrs. John H. Miller conducted the devotions and Mrs. E. C. Carter had the lesson study. The next meeting will be announced at a later date.

Radioactive 'Quickies' Hold Promise In Cancer Treatment

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Atomic scientists plan to study some radioactive "quickies" as possible treatments for cancer

These quickies are ray-emitting substances which can be produced in atomic energy plants as by-products of the "burning" of uranium.

Their ray-emitting power is short-lived. The practical radiating power is gone in a matter of seconds, minutes, hours or days, depending upon the substance.

They are such will-o-the-wisps in the radiation sense that it is impossible or impractical to distribute them to researchers around the country to see whether their rays could be used safely and effectively against cancer.

So the Atomic Energy commission (AEC) has a plan to set up clinical cancer research hospitals right near the places where the quickies are produced

The idea will be to have cancer brought to these places so that if any of the short-lived radioactive substances show promise they can be used before their rays "decay."

One such hospital already is being built at Aec's Argonne National laboratory, Chicago Others are planned at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and at the Brookhaven plant, Long Island N Y.

The Aec says that having these research hospitals near atomic energy plants will also make it easier to study other cancer problems relating to the field of atomic energy.

The short radiating careers of the quickie substances are in contrast with those of various other radioactive substances produced in atomic plants

Some of these latter substances have radiating lives ranging from months to thousands of years.

These long-livers constitute the bulk of the substances now being distributed by AEC throughout the country and in many parts of the world for medical and other research

One of the most important of these long-livers is carbon-14, which has a "half-life" of more than 5,000 years That means that in 5,000 years, one half of its radiating power will have been lost through "decay," in another 5 000 years one half of the remaining radiation will have been lost and so on

(Radium, which is a naturally-occurring radioactive substance, has a half life of 1,600 years)

If we have a lot of different substances which have radiating power, why can't we use them all against cancer in the same way we now use radium?

There are various reasons, particularly when the cancer occurs inside the body.

Some have rays that are far too penetrating for safe use. Some others have rays that aren't penetrating enough. Still others — arsenic, for example —are poisonous in themselves.

Chips Down for Seven Class A Basketball Teams

Bellville Wins Richland County Crown

Tourney Opens on Tuesday

The chips will be down for seven area teams when the Class A sectional high school basketball tournament opens Tuesday night in the Mansfield Senior high school gym.

Only a single game is on Tuesday's card as Mansfield Madison, defending district champion, goes against the Bucyrus team which is favored to cop sectional laurels. The game will begin at 8 p. m. with the winner ticketed to go against Shelby Friday night at 7 p. m.

MAY BE BIGGEST

Wednesday's two-game program could easily produce the largest crowd ever to pack into the somewhat undersize Tyger gym. Ashland, seeded No. 2, goes against Crestline in the opener at 7 p. m., with Mansfield Senior high scheduled against the Galion Tigers at 8:30. Senior high is seeded No. 3.

Winners of the Wednesday games will battle in the second game Friday for the right to gain the second district tournament berth allocated to the Mansfield sectional finalists. Championship game is scheduled Saturday at 8 p. m.

Senior high, which has lost only one of its last 20 games at home, is favored to join Bucyrus in the finals.

PLENTY OF TICKETS

Approximately 500 tickets are still available to Mansfielders for the Tuesday game, 350 at Madison and 200 at Senior high. Madison tickets will be sold starting at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow and from 9 to 12 a. m. Tuesday.

Senior high also has 375 tickets available for Wednesday, 100 for Friday and 200 for Saturday. If the Tygers win, there will be 275 additional tickets for Friday and 500 for Saturday.

The Senior high ticket office will be open from 8 a. m. until 4 p. m. each day this week.

Season records of the competing schools follow:

TEAM RECORDS

Games Added; Fans to Get Browns' Pix

Two more games have been lined up for the Mansfield all-star basketball team which will meet the Cleveland Browns in the Friendly House benefit game March 16 at the Senior high school.

All proceeds of the contest will go toward outfitting the gymnasium of the new Friendly House. For that reason, the price of tickets for the contest has been set at $2 for reserved seats and $1 for general admission. Only expense involved is the guarantee for the Browns, a team made up of footballers from the all-American conference championship outfit.

Elmer Hedeen, co-chairman of the Goodfellow club which is sponsoring the game, announced last night that all purchasers of reserved seats will receive a 11 by 17 inch picture of the Browns football team.

Goodfellow Stan Kamen has been handling bookings for the All-Stars who defeated the tough Loudonville Flxible Flyers in their first game, 49 to 48. The All-Stars are listed to go against the Galion Stars next Sunday at Galion.

Latest games are with the Myers Pump team of Ashland and at appearance March 14 in the preliminary contest at the Gold Medal tournament. One of the outstanding Gold Medal teams will probably provide the opposition on the March 14 date. Myers Pump is rated as the best amateur club in north central Ohio and will entertain the 14-man Mansfield team on the Ashland college floor.

Tickets are now on sale at Tawse pharmacy, City News, Elks club, and by a force of 30 individuals.

Some Bits Picked Up From Here and There In Sports

MANSFIELD TRACK fans will be seated on new bleachers when the cinder season opens in five weeks. . . . Workmen are busily tearing down most of the "termite-ridden" east bleachers at Stadium field. . . . In their place will be erected permanent wooden bleachers seating 1,000 persons. . . . Enough of the old bleachers will remain standing to insure a seating capacity of 1,800. . . . It looks like professional wrestling will return to Mansfield on March 12. . . . Promoter Clete Kauffman tells us he hopes to bring in a pair of gal grunt and groan artists for the first show. . . . When Jimmy Lymper, Senior high baseball coach, was directing the Versailles high school diamond team, the outfit once won 61 straight games in regular season play. . . . Lymper's clubs won 100 of 104 games in five years at Versailles. . . . Two members of the Canton McKinley basketball team which played here Friday night were "importations" from Canton Timken. . . Both were Timken athletes in 1947-48. . . . A Canton reporter told us that if Carl Stosic and Manuel Alvarez had stayed on at Timken, the latter club would be one of the state's cage powers. . . Something new in officiating was tried at Senior high school Friday. . . . Separate whistle tooters were used in both games at no additional cage outlay from the athletic coffers. . . . John Russ and Andy Lindsay, who worked the varsity game, hired Joe Horn and Walter Johnson to work the reserve tussle out of their own pay. . . . All four men are accredited officials from Youngstown. . . . Richland Robert tells us that the most efficient plasterer is the barkeep.

Dear Mr. Tharp:

I read the article of the picking of the News-Journal county all-star squad.

I was wondering if it would be ever possible to have the county first and second teams play either Mansfield Senior high or Madison high school in a benefit game. The proceeds might go to worthy organizations or to the school's equipment funds.

This type of game would be of interest to everyone in Richland county.

I hope you might press the idea so we fans would get to see a game of this type in the near future.

Yours truly,
Kenneth Livingston,
Route 6.

Kenneth: As you know we've often advocated a game of this type or one between Senior high and Madison with the proceeds going to the March of Dimes or like organization. Nothing has been done.

We, too, would like to see the type of thing you suggest. However, if all parties were willing to play it still would be mighty difficult to arrange. State rules would allow the contest, but it would have to be run off before the conclusion of the state basketball tournament.

Then, of course, there is the possibility of the two Mansfield schools and two county schools going far up the tournament ladder. This fact might take some of the key men or teams out of the benefit.

If any schools take the bit in their teeth, we'd be happy to back the project. However, right now our main objective in the benefit line is to see the game between the Cleveland Browns and Mansfield all-stars go over with a bang because all proceeds go to the Friendly House.

BILL VEECK'S recent speaking appearance in Bucyrus netted that city's summer recreation program $450. . . . And Veeck has invited the 1,000 persons who heard him speak to one of the Cleveland baseball games as his guest. . . . Penn Auto & Sporting Goods plans to open a "bull-session" room for area coaches. . . . All Joey DeJohn needs to become a top ranking middleweight is to forget about fighting Pete Mead. . . . In December of 1947, Mead snapped DeJohn's fistic win streak at 35. . . . Then Joey proceeded to put together another string of 18 but ran into Mead again Friday in Madison Square Garden and the skein was snapped again. . . . Joey has now won 60 of 63 pro bouts. . . . All of this talk of individual basketball scoring records can be put to shame by remembering a feat of Jack Duncan back on Jan. 14, 1941. . . . Duncan, then a soph at little Rio Grande college, knocked off 87 points that night as Rio Grande defeated City College of Charleston, W. Va., 118 to 40. . . . Two weeks ago, Ohio Wesleyan dunked in 23 of 24 fowl shots but lost to West Virginia, 88 to 69. . . . Last night marked a milestone in collegiate basketball history. . . . Why? Well, four members of the Kentucky basketball team, rated as the greatest the game has known, played their final regular season game. . . . The quartet included Alex Groza, Ralph Beard, Wah Wah Jones and Cliff Barker—really a collection of court greatness. . . . That group has formed the backbone of a team which reached the finals of four national tournaments in the last three years and all have been commissioned Kentucky Colonels.

Cleveland Indians Head Towards Spring Drill Base

CLEVELAND —(AP)— The world champion Cleveland Indians last night sped toward their Tucson, Ariz., training base and the opening of another year of baseball warfare.

Several hundred fans were on hand this morning as the first group of players and club officials left by train. Another group, headed by Manager Lou Boudreau, was to join the contingent in Chicago late tonight.

Indications were that Catcher Hank Ruszkowski will be the lone holdout when the squad opens training Tuesday morning.

He said he would remain at his home in Cleveland until he receives a guarantee he will be paid $5,000 for the season, whether or not he remains with the club.

The club has offered him a contract under which his pay would be cut to $750 a month if he is farmed out.

Boudreau said he planned to devote the first 10 days of training to calisthenics and drills of fundamentals. Then the club will begin a 38-game exhibition schedule.

As in past years, the Indians and the New York Giants will barnstorm across the country on their return to the east.

'Rags to Riches' Tale of a Tyger

The rags to riches story in the present Mansfield high school basketball season is exemplified by slender Jimmy Anderson.

Mansfield basketball fans now recognize Anderson as one of the finest shotsmiths ever to wear the red and white of the Tyger school. But turn back the pages of time just one year and how many fans would know of the slender six-footer's existence.

Then, as now, Jimmy had just finished a basketball season. But not in a blaze of glory. For after the 1947-48 campaign, when he was just another cog on the 15-man sophomore basketball squad, Jimmy was worried mainly on whether he would be able to make the grade with the 1948-49 varsity.

One of the fallacies of basketball is that most varsity squade number only ten or 12 boys. And this number usually comes from the junior and senior classes. So for the 1948-49 campaign he faced the job of playing on equal terms with five returning lettermen and all of the fellows he had to play under as a sophomore.

The 1947-48 sophomore team won 15 of 18 games, but Anderson appeared in only 12 of the contests. He scored 44 points which put him seventh in scoring and ninth in average points per game. Seven players had more game time than Jimmy.

His best effort was 10 points as a sub when the Baby Bengals knocked off the Ashland JV's, 52 to 17.

Only five times in 20 games this season has Anderson slipped below the 10-point per game mark. His best efforts were 24-point splurges against Tiffin Columbian and New Philadelphia. The junior forward will take a point production record of 272 points into next week's sectional tournament.

That's the third best effort ever put forth by a Bengal player. Of course, "Dead-Eye" Nick Gagich set the all-time total of 406 last season. All-Ohio Bobby Baker's mark of 288 set five years ago was the best until Gagich came along.

Of Anderson's rapid improvement, Coach Vern Hoffman says, "The boy really likes to play basketball and I almost have to kick him off the floor after each workout. He has much more confidence and the other fellows rely on him to shoot a lot so they can get the rebounds—if and when Jimmy misses.

"Besides he isn't a bad rebound man himself. In fact, I would say Anderson is the most consistent junior shooter I've ever coached."

And the record substantiates Hoffman's statement. As a junior, Gagich was third in the Tyger scoring columns with 193 points in 20 games. Anderson should be a serious threat to crack Gagich's mark next season.

But Jimmy's improvement didn't just happen. In junior high school, he played guard in basketball, end in football and

WHAT'S IN A FACE—Six members of the Mansfield Senior high school basketball team go into a huddle for News-Journal cameraman Jim Switzer. That's Jimmy Anderson (20) in the lower right corner. Clockwise from Anderson are: Co-Captain Paul Ferguson, Ed Demyan (19), Ken McCally (21), Ed Schmitt and Co-Captain Norb Shibinski (18).

Coaltown Jogs To Victory at Hialeah Park

MIAMI, Fla. —(AP)— Calumet Farm's mighty Coalton breezed to a two-length victory in the $50,000 added Widener handicap at Hialeah yesterday.

Dixiana's stable's Shy Guy was second and Calumet's Faultless was third. Cherry Oca stable's First Nighter was fourth.

Coaltown's time in the mile and a quarter was 2:02 flat—a full second off the track record set by El Mono last year in the Widener.

A surprisingly slim crowd of 21,030 wagered $1,175,074 for the eight-race program.

Coalton returned the bare minium, five cents on the dollar. Only $74,580 was wagered on the race and the track missed a minus pool by a scant $250. Calumet picked up $42,300 added first money for Coaltown's jog around the track and $5,000 for third place won by Faultless.

Dentist Tops Golf Tourney

HARLINGEN, Tex. — (AP) — Handsome Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn., dentist, yesterday sloshed through mud and water to a great 63 and leadership at the three-quarters mark in the $10,000 Rio Grande Valley open.

Cary's eight-under-par on the 6095 yard Harlingen Municipal course gave him 197 for 54 holes.

Big Bog Hamilton of Landover, Md., slipped in with a 69 to take over second place with 201.

Ohio State's Rampaging Bucks Rip Michigan, 69-44

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio State's Buckeyes went on a basketball rampage last night, hitting the hoops from all directions to wallop Michigan 69 to 44.

The win enabled the Bucks to close their Big Nine season with a 6-6 .500 record. It also avenged an earlier 54-48 defeat by the Wolverines at Ann Arbor.

Dick Schnittker, the Bucks' ailing star, returned to something like his old form with 18 points.

DUNKS IN 25

Ohio State attempted 67 shots and bucketed 25 of them for a 37 percent average. The Wolverines dunked only 16 of 87 pitches at the hoop for an 18 percent.

Both teams started off cold and the first five minutes saw only nine points scored.

Then Ohio erupted, throwing the ball through the hoop from all angles. The Bucks monopolized the play and kept Michigan all but helpless the latter part of the game. Ohio kept the margin no less than double Michigan's total and ended the first half with a 36-18 lead.

KEEPS UP PRESSURE

The second half saw Ohio State maintain the pressure Next to Schnittker's 18 points, Michigan's Pete Elliott won second in scoring honors with 15.

It was Ohio's eighth victory in nine home starts, the only loss being to league leading Illinois, 64-63. It was Michigan's fourth defeat in 10 starts.

Two games remain on Ohio State's schedule—Michigan State here Monday night, and DePaul at Chicago next Saturday night.

Ontario Blasted, 59 to 41

By CHARLIE STINE

Bellville's fast-moving basketball juggernaut rolled to its second consecutive Richland county championship last night by sweeping past Ontario, 59-41.

The Blue Jays of Coach Harry Regula played one of their best games of the season as they built up a 26-point lead and then coasted home. It was their seventh straight victory and the 12th in 13 games.

BOTH ADVANCE

Both Ontario and Bellville advance to the district tournament, which opens Tuesday night at Bucyrus.

Ontario was the victim of a "basket with a lid on top" in the first half and never was able to recover. The Warriors played Bellville practically even through the first period but trailed 14-3 at the end. In the second quarter the Bellville speed took control as the Blue Jays counted time after time on fast breaks. They led 30-9 at the half.

In the third period Coach Dick Casad of Ontario sent in his entire second team after Bellville took its biggest lead, 41-15. Bellville also cleaned its bench.

BEST BASKETBALL

Ontario showed it was still dangerous and must be considered a threat in the district when it played its best basketball of the tournament in the fourth period.

Trailing 48-22 going into the stanza, the Warriors brought their regulars back moved to 50-37 with three minutes to go. Bellville brought its top five back to the floor then and held on.

Guard Jack Perry was the spearhead of Ontario's fourth quarter drive as he pumped through six baskets to bring his night's total to 16.

Bellville was presented after the game with the championship trophy and another for the co-championship of the county league. Ontario took home a league trophy and runnerup cup. A trophy for last spring's baseball league went to Shiloh.

WINS CONSOLATION

Lucas led all the way to win the consolation trophy from Lexington, 57 to 50. The Lucas team was in the van at the quarters, 16 to 13, 23 to 21 and 44 to 29.

The Minutemen outscored Lucas in the fourth heat, 21 to 13, and once crept up to 52-48. Paul Fisher, Lexington, was the top scorer with 21 points while Bob Zody of Lucas had 20.

Schmidt's Tire Takes 3rd In Pin Tourney

Only one change was recorded in the first shift of the annual city handicap tournament of the Mansfield Bowling association last night on the Richland Recreation alleys.

Schmidt's Tire Service was the only quintet to crack the top ten among the five-man teams as it rolled a fine 2,968. All other teams were far down the list. Baku Grotto of the Colony Club league leads the teams with 3015 while MAPCO is second with 2975.

HIGH WITH 661

Eugene Shaffer paced the Schmidt's team with a 661 while Lewis Shaffer had 654. Scores of other team members were: John Brown, 598; Richard Snavely, 534, and Fred Castor, 521.

Other 600 scores in the first shift follow: Carl Phillipon, Mitsch's Corner Store, 650; Bill Distl, Mansfield Upholstering, 638; Frank Radler, Schenk's Auto Finishing, 612; Robert Hall, Hartman Electric, 605, and Harold Yeager, Martin Steel, 602.

Doubles and singles competition in the annual meet ends this afternoon. Final team firing is scheduled next Sunday when the Sons of Herman league bowlers take over the alleys.

Alumni Letter Group To Be Organized Today

Organization meeting of the Alumni "M" association is scheduled today at 2 p. m. at the YMCA.

Officers will be elected at the session and a constitution will be drawn up. All former Senior high athletic letter winners are eligible for membership in the club.

Indiana Jumps

IOWA CITY, Ia.—(AP)—Indiana jumped into fourth place in the Big Nine basketball race last night by staging a fast finish to humble Iowa, 76-60. It was the Hoosiers' sixth victory in 11 conference games.

Gold Medal Tournament Begins

Firing in the Gold Medal basketball tournament will begin tomorrow night at Senior high school with four teams set to be eliminated from the starting force of 26.

The tournament opener is set for 6:45 p. m. with another contest following every hour. The Independents and Ontario Vets meet in the opener while other games will pair American Veterans committee against Bellville Athletic club, Lucas Vets against First Methodist and Richland Beverage against the Shelby Merchants.

Second set of four games will be played at Johnny Appleseed gym Thursday night. The card had originally been booked for Senior high but was forced to change because of the Class A sectional tournament.

Thursday's game brings together Mansfield Tire and the Salesmen, Komito's Clothes and Lucas Lutheran, Shorty's News and Plymouth White Front, and Shiloh American Legion and Au Construction.

Over a hundred individual and team awards are to be made in the tournament which is being conducted on a single elimination basis by the city recreation department.

Another set of four games will be played a week from tomorrow and every night that week that gym is available. Regular high school rules will be used with the exception of the automatic time out and the stopping of the clock in the last three minutes.

Nine Bouts Set for Ring Show

Completion of tomorrow night's Friendly House boxing card was announced last night by Mike Wentz, F-H athletic director. Nine bouts, an exhibition and a battle royal will comprise the program which is to be staged at the Colby and Earick showrooms on North Main street.

Opening the program at 8:15 will be an exhibition between James Middlebrook and Ulysses Calaway, both of the Friendly House. The card includes:

Bruce Heinberger, 115 (FH) vs. Tom Anderson, 113 (Ashland); Larry Inscore, 134 (FH) vs. Jim Reynolds, 134 (Ashland); Bill Eccles, 162 (FH) vs. Charles Farina, 161 (Galion); Howard Carney, 128 (FH) vs. Dick James, 126 (Marion);

Billy Eberhardt, 135 (FH) vs. Tom McGinty, 135 (Cleveland); Carol Coombs, 135 (Marion) vs. Silent Ogletree, 135 (Cleveland); Red Mathias, heavyweight (Galion) vs. Jess Boiner, heavyweight (Cleveland); Don Esbenshade, 158 (FH) vs. Dick Butler, 160 (Cleveland); main event: Jack Seckinger, 146 (Marion) vs. Willy Eisen, 147 (Cleveland).

All bouts will be three rounds with the exception of the main event which will go five. The battle royal kids who will fight just before intermission are Bud Kent, Bob Pittenger, Del Wright, Joe Morganstern, Cecil Thompson, and John McQuillen.

Tickets for the show will be on sale at up-town newsstands until 4 p. m. Monday. Doors open at Colby and Earick at 7 p. m.

Spring Baseball Drills Open Tuesday

State Champion Baseball Team Gets First Sponsor

The Mansfield Grays, Ohio champions of the National Baseball Congress, will play under the banner of Penn Auto-Sporting Goods during the coming summer.

An agreement with Jerry Rosenberg, manager of the sporting goods store, was announced yesterday by John Heckert, business manager of the ball club.

"Red" Hamman, part owner of the Grays, has been appointed publicity director of the team. Heckert will continue to serve as business manager and Ray "Lefty" Deeds as field boss.

INDEPENDENT TEAM

The Grays have operated independently since their organization three years ago and during the time leased ground and built Blue Goose park in East Mansfield. They will continue to use the park under the new sponsorship.

Plans for this year's team call for a complete revamping of the lineup with stress being put on a younger team. At the time of the announcement Deeds pointed out that "all positions will be wide open. We are particularly anxious to find some good young ball players."

A meeting will be held sometime in the next few weeks for any candidates interested in trying out the team. A full squad of 18 men will be carried and new uniforms have been purchased for all.

the finals of the Crawford county basketball tournament, 48 to 43.

Leesville led all of the way until New Washington knotted the score at 39-39 with four minutes to play. The Leesville club led at the intermission points, 19 to 12, 27 to 22 and 37 to 32.

Both finalists advanced to the district Class B tournament which opens Tuesday at Bucyrus. Drawings for the meet will be held this afternoon.

In the consolation finals, Tiro defeated Sulphur Springs, 54 to 41. Tiro was awarded the Bucyrus American Legion's sportsmanship trophy for the entire season's play.

Michigan Track Team Wins Over Bucks, 60½-52½

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (AP) — Michigan broke a two year Ohio State dual meet track monopoly here last night with a 61 to 52½ win over the Buckeyes.

Sparking the Michigan victory were Herb Barten, ace Wolverine half-miler, and Ed Ulvestad, Michigan's No. 1 pole vaulter. Barten ran away with the 880-yard event in 1:55.9 seconds to break the meet record of 1:56.

Ulvestad cleared the bar at 13 feet 11 inches to wipe out a meet record and break the Yost field house record. The old meet was 13 feet 6⅜ inches.

The Ohio club that hadn't been beaten by Michigan in dual competition since 1946, was not lacking in power. Frank D'Arcy, the Buckeyes' distance artist, opened the meet with a win in the mile run. Forty minutes later he won the two-mile run to become the only double winner of the meet.

Two Basketball Games At Galion

GALION — Two basketball games will share honors with trick-shot artist Wilfred Hetzel on today's basketball program at the Galion armory.

The Tiffin Behm Brothers will open the show against the Greenwich Warriors at 1:30 p. m. while the Galion Stars play the Leesville Reds in the feature tilt. Hetzel will display his cage tricks at 3 p. m.

Rags to Riches Tale Told of Tyger Cager

was a sprinter on the track team. When he reached Senior high in 1947, Jimmy decided to concentrate on one sport—and his frame lent itself most admirably to basketball.

He stands a bit over the six-foot mark and tips the scales at 155 pounds.

So to reach the top, Jimmy decided to make basketball nearly a 12-month a year proposition. He spent many hours last summer firing away at an outdoor basket at his home and then started his personal training last September. He ran from two to six laps on the Tyger track about three nights a week to get his legs in shape, mean while continuing his shooting at home.

And then he answered the first early fall call for basketball candidates and has been working hard ever since. He has a good natural shot and inborn cage ability. He shoots all fouls with the same push shot he uses on field goal attempts.

Jimmy is modest when talking about his cage prowess and shakes off all questions with, "I've just worked harder and have more confidence."

Although hitting only eight of 47 shots in the last two games, Anderson closed the season with 111 field goals in 372 attempts. That's an average of 29.8.

His best shooting was against Alliance when he made 5 of 10 but just missed .500 in making eight of 17 at Elyria and 10 of 21 against Tiffin. Jimmy also came through in fine style against Ashland, making 15 of 38 in the two games. His other top efforts were: seven of 17 against Fremont, seven of 16 against Lorain, 11 of 28 against New Philly and six of 18 against Columbus East.

Cleveland's Favored In Junior Loop

NEW YORK — (AP) — Baseball's first all-American spring training season since World War II opens Tuesday with all 16 major league teams pitching camps in the good old USA.

For approximately six weeks or until the season opens April 18, there will be 16 pennant winners in the majors. Optimism always reigns supreme in the grapefruit league.

Going into camp with several star players still unsigned, the Cleveland Indians, defending world champions, probably rate as favorites to repeat in the American league. Most baseball men expect the Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees to provide the chief opposition with the Philadelphia's A's and Detroit Tigers as outside possibilities.

NO FAVORITE

In the National, there is no clear-cut favorite. Despite their decisive triumph in 1948, the Boston Braves have weak spots. The Brooklyn Dodgers, still experimenting with young talent, rank as strong contender. So do the St. Louis Cardinals, always dangerous, and the powerhouse New York Giants.

Pittsburgh, strengthened in the pitching department, is given a chance to take it all. Both Chicago and Philadelphia have bolstered their clubs with a series of winter deals.

There will be no exhibition games for the first two weeks of the "grind." Commissioner A. B. Chandler and the owners set Saturday, March 12, as the earliest date for exhibiting play. When that day arrives all 16 clubs will swing into action.

FLORIDA GETS 10

Florida, as usual, will house most of the teams. Ten will be located there. Two will work in Arizona and four will be stationed in California.

Brooklyn will be at Vero Beach, Fla. The St. Louis Browns, at Burbank, Calif., and Pittsburgh at Bernardino, Calif.

Cleveland Tribe returns to Tucson, Ariz. The New York Giants will be at Phoenix, Ariz.

The St. Petersburg - Tampa - Bradenton - Clearwater area on Florida's west coast has cornered the southern market. Billy Southworth's Boston Braves again will condition at Bradenton. Al Lang field in St. Petersburg, will be used jointly by the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cards. The Phillies will be at Clearwater, and Cincinnati returns to Tampa.

Sarasota will be host to the Boston Red Sox.

At Lakeland will be the Detroit Tigers, at Orlando the Washington Senators and West Palm Beach, the A's.

The two Chicago teams, converge on California.

The Cubs at Los Angeles and the White Sox at Pasadena.

F-H Contest Opens Monday

The basketball foul-shooting contest for Friendly House members will open tomorrow and continue every day through the week.

Gold basketballs will be presented to the winners in the two age groups. Boys 13 and under will compete as juniors while others will be unlimited.

★

Four entries have been received for the Friendly House junior tournament to be held March 10, 11, and 12.

Entered already are Frank's Grocery, Catholic Foresters, Junior Optimists, and Sutters. Other teams interested may secure entry blanks from Friendly House athletic director Mike Wentz.

4 Quintets Vie for Second In Senior Church League

Park Avenue Baptist, the second half championship already tucked safely in its pocket, will take time out from Senior Church basketball league play this week to let four teams fight it out for second place.

St. Matthew's, Lucas Lutheran, First Christian and First Methodist are tied for the runner-up spot and all will be in action Tuesday night on the YMCA court.

St. Matthew's meets First Methodist at 7 p. m. and Lucas Lutheran faces First Christian an hour later. Ontario Community and Evangelical United Brethren close out the program.

ONE MORE WEEK

One more week of play remains in the second round, after which first half winner First Methodist will meet Park Avenue Baptist for the season championship.

The final week's play of three games has been moved from March 1 to March 5, according to YMCA Athletic Director Johnny Fike.

St. Paul's Five Pulls Biggest YMCA Upset

St. Paul's pulled the upset of the season in YMCA basketball yesterday afternoon by handing St. John's its second loss in three years of Junior Church league play, 48 to 45.

The defeat pushed St. John's down to fifth place in the standings while St. Paul's remains tied with First Christian for the league lead. The latter team romped over First Lutheran, 25 to 15, after trailing at the half, 9 to 11.

LEAD AT HALF

St. John's held a 25-to-18 lead at the half but slipped behind at the three-quarter mark, 35 to 34. Ed Percy, St. Paul's forward, had 16 points.

In other games, Central Methodist won over First Methodist, 39 to 24, and Park Avenue Baptist smashed First Presbyterian, 48 to 23. Bill Ganning, Central, had 15 points.

Vulcan's Forge Wins Big Race At Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. — (AP) — Vulcan's Forge oozed to victory yesterday in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap.

Vulcan's Forge was the longest priced horse in the field of fifteen starters. Dinner Gong was second, and Miss Grillo third.

The 20-1 shot, owned by I. J. Collins of Lancaster, Ohio, fended off a determined assault by Miss Grillo and Dinner Gong in the stretch.

A crowd of 56,000 braved rainy weather to watch the 12th running of the original $100,000 turf classic. Dave Gorman was the winning rider aboard Vulcan's Forge, a strapping four year old.

Glenmont 5 Wins, 45-43

MILLERSBURG—Brown flipped in the winning basket in the final minute of play to give Glenmont the consolation championship of the Holmes county tourney here last night.

Glenmont defeated Lakeville, 45 to 43, after trailing at the quarters, 18 to 12, 28 to 21 and 34 to 31. Walnut Creek had won the championship Friday night.

Killbuck won over Ripley, 28 to 19, in the grade school finals.

Charles and Maxim Meet In Cincy Ring

By HAROLD HARRISON

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Ezzard Charles and Joey Maxim, two young men who aspire to exchange a few punches with Joe Louis, polished off their training chores yesterday for a Monday night bout that may send one of them against the heavyweight boxing champ.

Scheduled for 15 rounds, the bout is expected to draw a full house of 15,000 at the new Cincinnati garden with a gross gate of around $75,000.

The main prize could be that title fight with Louis. Promoters Sam and Ben Becker already have offered the champ $400,000 to meet the winner of the scrap between Charles, a Cincinnati product, and Maxim, who hails from Cleveland.

It wasn't so long ago, of course, that the right to get into the ring with Louis was a "prize" of doubtful value except for the monetary consideration.

But Louis is getting older and slower and fatter and now Charles, Maxim, Lee Savold and a few others think they can take the champ.

Charles, who has lost only once in 30 fights since the war, was being rated a slight 6 to 5 choice in the Monday night brawl but a lot of the experts were saying it would be even money by the time the scrap starts.

Some of the expert opinion, however, was that Charles would have to win by a knockout and that Maxim, a slick boxer, could win if he is able to stay away from the slugging Cincinnati Negro.

Charles figured to go into the ring at about 178 or 179 pounds while Maxim probably will weigh in at around 185.

Maxim was beaten only once in 14 fights in 1948. This will be his first scrap of 1949.

Marengo Wins Second Berth From Iberia

By DOYLE RUSH

IBERIA — Marengo put a stop to the Iberia drive toward a district tournament berth by defeating the Presidents here last night, 58 to 20.

Hugh Puttick splashed 28 points through the mesh for Marengo. The score was knotted at the half, 16 to 16, but Marengo led going into the final quarter, 36 to 23.

Edison had previously won the Morrow county championship, Mt. Gilead, which did not have to engage in county play, is the third Morrow county team which will play in the Westerville district meet.

Cardington won the reserve championship here last night, defeating Johnsville, 36 to 27.

Coach Fred Goare's Edison team received the tourney and county league trophies after last night's game. Captain Oris Shipman received both trophies.

Wildcats End Schedule With Easy Victory

LEXINGTON, Ky. — (AP) — Alex Groza established a southeastern conference scoring record for one season here last night as Ketucky defeated Vanderbilt, 70-37, to end its fourth straight unbeaten season within the conference.

Groza scored 23 points to boost his season's total to 508 points, four more than Lonnie (Country) Graham scored for Mississippi State when he set the record in 1938.

The victory also carried the Wildcats to their 74th consecutive victory on their home floor and their 59th win without a loss to SEC teams. It was win no. 377 against 17 losses for Adolph Rupp in 19 years of coaching Kentucky basketball.

Kentucky wound up the regular season with a record of 25 wins and one defeat.

To cap the record-making, Kentucky guard Cliff Barker sank an amazing 63-foot field goal, from near Vanderbilt's free throw line, just as the game ended. It was measured after the game. It probably was one of the longest goals of all time in collegiate basketball.

Monroeville Raps New London In Huron Tourney

NORWALK — Monroeville annexed the Huron county basketball championship here last night by walloping New London, 69-35

Both teams will advance to the district tournament at Fremont, which opens Wednesday. Drawings will be held Monday afternoon.

Wakeman won a consolation game from North Fairfield, 41-39, in an overtime after being tied at 35-all at the end of the fourth quarter. The annual sportsmanship award went to North Fairfield.

State High School Cage Tournaments Still Month Away

By FRITZ HOWELL
(Ohio AP Sports Editor.)

COLUMBUS — Just about a month from today, March 26, Ohio's high schools will name their 1949 Class A and Class B basketball champions.

They'll be the survivors of 215 Class A and 935 Class B teams wending their way down the long tournament trail.

The county championships wound up yesterday in 87 of the state's 88 counties holding eliminations for their Class B clubs. Sectional frays for both Class A and Class B will be completed by next Saturday, the district play by March 12 and the regionals by March 19.

Out of the regionals will emerge four Class A and four Class B teams which will fight it out March 24, 25 and 26 at the State Fairgrounds coliseum for the titles now held by Findlay in Class A and Eaton in Class B.

The regional tourney representation is changed radically this year from the setup of previous seasons, in that the northeastern area gets almost half the Class A qualifiers for the "Sweet 16."

For years the northeastern sector has sent five teams to the regionals, but Cleveland's 17 schools are coming into the big time play for the first time this year. As a result the northeast gets seven of the final 16 Class A survivors, while the northwest and eastern sectors lose one each. The change cuts the northwest to three qualifiers, and the eastern sector to one.

The central and southeastern areas also have but one representative in the regionals, while the southwest—where most of the Class A champs have come from—has three.

In Class B the northwestern area will send four teams to the regionals, the southwest and northeast three each, and the central, eastern and southeastern districts two each.

The northwestern area, shorn of one of its finalists by the entrance of the Cleveland teams and the resultant added representation for the northeastern district, has something new on tap to select its trio.

In the past the Class A tourneys have been run on a "lose and out" basis from the very start, but under the northwest district setup it is possible for a team to lose and still go on to the state crown. The northwest plans six sectional tournaments, from which both the winner and runner-up clubs will advance to three district meets in which the sector's regional qualifiers will be named. The central district nominee moves in with the three northwestern survivors for the regional round.

Another oddity has popped up in the northeastern sector. The Johnny come lately Cleveland schools, with 17 starting play, will qualify two of their number for the regional meet. But neighboring Euclid Shore's sectional meet, with 20 teams entered, will send only one.

The central district, with 19 teams in the sectional, also gets but one representative to the regional play, as does the southeastern area which has 17 clubs, the same total boasted by Cleveland.

As the result of the county tournaments concluded yesterday, the eastern district's Class B contingent has been cut from 149 to 41; the central from 134 to 37; the northeastern from 281 to 79; the northwestern from 242 to 46; the southeastern from 128 to 33, and the southwestern from 211 to 59.

Thus 215 Class A and 295 Class B clubs are still in the running for the laurels.

The Class A sectional-district meets, with the number of teams in each:

CENTRAL—State Fairgrounds Coliseum, Columbus (19).
EASTERN—Sectionals at East Liverpool (6), Tiltonsville (6), and Dennison (11), District at New Concord (4).
NORTHEASTERN—Akron Goodyear (25), Cleveland (17), Youngstown South (29) and Euclid Shore (20).
NORTHWESTERN—Sectionals at Mansfield (7), Findlay (7), Defiance (7), Sandusky (8), Toledo (7), and Bowling Green (8), Districts at Findlay (4), Sandusky (4) and Toledo (4).
SOUTHEASTERN—Athens (17).
SOUTHWESTERN — At Cincinnati (14) and Dayton (27).

The Class B district meets, with the number of teams in each:

CENTRAL — Otterbein College, Westerville (27).
EASTERN—Sectionals at Scio (7), Zanesville (13), Marietta (11), Dover (10). Districts at Marietta (4) and Dennison (4).
NORTHEASTERN—Sectionals at Ashland (7), Kent (13), Youngstown (13, Ashtabula (1), Chagrin Falls-Orange (1), and Lorain Clearview (1). District at Kent (17).
NORTHWESTERN—Bucyrus (13) Celina (10), Fremont (11) and Leipsic (12).
SOUTHEASTERN—Athens (16) and Waverly (17).
SOUTHWESTERN—Cincinnati (21), Xenia (19) and Springfield (19).

Regional Tournaments.

Class A: At Youngstown (two from Youngstown, one from Euclid Shore and one from Eastern district tournaments).
At Kent State—(Two from Akron, two from Cleveland).
At Toledo—(Three from Northwestern, one from Central district).
At Xavier U. Cincinnati—(Three from Southwestern, one from Southeastern district).

Class B: at Kent State—(Three from Northeastern, one from Eastern).
At Toledo — (Four from Northwestern district).
At Ohio U., Athens—(Two from Southeastern, one from Eastern, one from Central).
At Wittenberg College, Springfield — (Three from Southwestern, one from Central district).

Well, the hub-bub and hullabaloo over the League of Ohio Sportsmen convention has died away and now is a good time to see what was accomplished.

As is usual at any convention, an air of gaiety prevailed but frequent meetings and conferences held more than passing interest. At the farmer-sportsmen relationship forum, a few charges and gripes were aired, but little suggestive criticism was offered that hadn't been advanced before.

The farmers growled about having their fences ruined and the sportsmen griped about being kept off good hunting ground. About the only things worthwhile, to come from this session were that a program of youth education should be initiated and that sportsmen should go to the farmers on a man-to-man basis throughout the year.

It appears to me that such an approach would go a long ways towards settling present differences. But better yet, a program of youth education would eliminate these differences in the first place.

'Buck' Rider, state conservation commissioner, is drawing verbal blasts from a goodly number of legislators, game and fish clubs, and other groups at present, but there's a good reason for it. 'Buck' isn't the type fellow to dodge anything. Oh, he'll use a little excess wordage sometimes and get certain issues across in a veiled manner, but he doesn't let these gripes go in one ear and out the other.

All the time sportsmen were giving him Hail Columbia at the convention for short shooting hours, poor game enforcement, and other points he sat there taking notes. Here's a prediction for you. There'll be action on just about every legitimats gripe aired at the convention.

Given a little more cooperation and a little less damnation, I believe 'Buck' can handle conservation work as well as anyone.

* * *

Thanks to Doc Ogden of Hayesville, I was privileged to attend the 'Old Timers' banquet at the convention and met some of the leading sportsmen and conservationists of the state. Charlie Long of Canton threw the banquet and none of those present escaped a few barbed digs.

Charlie is quite a fellow. A wildlife expert, poet, writer, hunter, fisherman, and a wood carver. Scattered about his hotel room were several plaques he had carved from solid boards. These showed bull moose fighting; a treed cougar; an Indian head; bighorn rams; and wolves chasing deer. Scattered about between the carvings, also undoubtedly for decorative purposes, were a number of items essential to a sportsman's equipment, quart size.

As if his time can't be filled with these various activities, Charlie is also Lake Cable superintendent of recreation. He is one of the charter members of the league and has been active in its affairs for more than 40 years.

Any outdoors-loving young men from the Richland county area who are interested in a job which will enable them to do nothing but hunt, fish, lug heavy traps over fields, forests and fences, stay up night and day, and have a heck of a time doing it should contact the state conservation department.

Examinations are scheduled for the near future, probably within the next month, for game wardens. The job pays $213.50 per month, there is a 90 day trial period, and at the end of that time the warden comes under civil service.

It's hard work, make no mistake about that, but it's satisfying and interesting. As an added incentive, jobs are becoming scarcer by the week.

There's your chance fellows.

That wild and woolly bear down in Muskingum county is stirring up a lot of excitement. Now rewards have been posted which total $150 for its capture, dead or alive, and a professional hunter has been set on its track.

I say "it" advisedly since Mr. Bear might well be Mrs. Bear. At least some observers reported seeing tracks of one or more cubs.

Heck, the way they're putting up that much money anyone would think it a crime for a bear to sneak up behind a man and pull a striptease—on the man. Who says "bare" skins aren't worth anything?

Wildlife Growth Encouraged In Shiloh Area

Legion Continues Reserve Development

Two hundred acres of land on the B. R. Guthrie farm near Shiloh form a game reserve which is being developed by Garrett Riest Post No. 503, American Legion. Sponsors of the project express confidence it will increase wildlife in the entire area, which is already known as good territory for pheasant and rabbit hunting.

The land now serving as a game sanctuary was made available to the Legion post by Guthrie, retired farmer of Shiloh, on a five-year lease basis. For Guthrie, the development of a game reserve on a portion of his farm is not a source of profit, but merely a matter of personal satisfaction.

"I've had my day," he said recently, while taking part in the release of a shipment of pheasants purchased from New Jersey by the Legion. "But I want to see the younger fellows have their chance, too, for good hunting and fishing."

The game reserve was started a year ago, and since that time other farmers have expressed willingness to add more land to it.

"We could probably have a reserve of 1,000 acres," declared Alvin Garrett, post commander. "But we couldn't conveniently handle that much territory. Perhaps the territory can be expanded in future years."

Among other members of the Legion post who have taken an active part in establishing the reserve are Woodrow Shaffer, chairman of the game committee, Jay Moser, adjutant and Bob Bushey.

The Legion is the only veterans' organization in Shiloh. World War II members have more or less taken over the reins, as there were not many of the older members left when the influx of younger men began.

"We consider the game reserve one of the most important projects of the post," declared Garrett. "We're planning a long-range program of stocking, feeding and protecting game."

Readers' Letter Forum

A LITTLE ON FOX

Dear Sir:

Before I go too far into the diet of a fox, let me say that I do not pretend to be an authority on fox or any game. I am a member of the Ohio Trappers association and trap a fox or two now and then.

And I do feel that man is more at fault than the fox for the decline in small game. Small game could get by if they had good cover which would bring on good food and young.

Other things to think of are the coon (eats eggs and young) hawks, owls, dogs and cats that run wild and are left to take care of themselves, and too, the highways kill off much of the small game each day for 365 days of the year.

And again, man when he beats the bush to get a few young fox and at the same time destroys the nests of birds and small game. But of all the things which destroy small game, I feel the lack of good cover would come first.

As for the decline in fox anyplace, don't forget that the fox do run in cycles. They are on the 'down hill' now, even where no fox drives are held.

Let all of us take a little blame for the decline in small game and forget just the one side of the story. As long as men turn out rabbits without cover, food, etc. don't blame the fox too much.

Very truly yours,
Don E. Zody,
223 Wooster Ave.,
Loudonville, O.

(Editor's note: There has been a lot of discussion on the fox question, but without reservations this is the best letter of all we've received. Don happens to have trapped a goodly number of fox, shows by his writing that he admires the fox, yet places the blame right squarely where it belongs. I don't agree with what he says about the fox drives destroying nests, etc., but that's the only point I'd even try to argue with him. He's absolutely correct, at least in my humble opinion, on every other point.

He also submitted a table (space limitations prevent reprinting it) showing the percentage and types of diet of a total of 154 foxes he trapped in New York between 1930-1934. A pretty neat job for a man who disclaims being an authority on foxes! — Don Miller.)

INTEREST MOUNTS

Hello, Don:

Just a note to acknowledge your answer to my last letter.

Maybe it will please you when I tell you that I believe about 90 per cent of the people in Crestline saw and read your spread Sunday. Everyone I meet wants to know about the beavers.

The first person to say anything about it was a woman.

Had another good visit with the beavers this weekend and examined some of the stumps and chips. Boy, the size of the bites they take!

Be Seeing You,
'Buck' Solinger,
Crestline

(Editor's note: That's my number one spy reporting in again. That guy gets out in the field more often than I do! Let's see, now. If 90 per cent of the people in Crestline read the page that makes h-m-m, my wife, Mal's wife, and the guy who signs my check — yep, we're gaining interest! — Don Miller)

STOP EVERYTHING

Dear Don:

Shortly after the turn of the century I wintered on the Fence river in the U. P. (upper peninsula) of Michigan about 30 miles west of Republic and same distance south of Lake Superior.

Ran a 20 mile trapline on snowshoes, trying to 'read' a gyratory compass. Got lost frequently and had to backtrack. Deer 'yarded up' and fell easy victims to small, roving packs of wolves. Later the scavengers moved in to feast on the carcasses.

Then came the smaller predators. With the deer as the 'hub' the balance (nature's) seemed to pulsate around the clock. That's the balance, 100 per cent, of which you so glibly speak. But now the trapper with gun, snare, trap, poison and blood smeared on frosted steel is following tracks and watching circling carrion birds overhead. Soon he also locates the carcass and proceeds to upset the whole scheme of nature.

An elderly gentleman living up there now tells me that the deer hunters cripple and leave to die more deer than the wolves ever used to kill.

Here in Ohio our game has perished almost to extinction before the blasts of hundreds of thousands of shotguns and we employ whipping-boys such as inbreeding quail, foxes, then pheasant shooters, mowing machines and what-nots to cover up our folly.

Our wildlife aren't panty-waists. No need to scatter grain for them—the combine and corn picker leaves plenty and cover. If we put our guns away for a few years and let the conservation fellows and their 'mouth-organs' seek other employment, we'd all have some real hunting again.

Any ten-year-old boy knows his Dad can't raise a crop of corn if he has no seed to plant. Why, then, do hunters look for a good supply of game when there's so little 'seed'?

P. T. Barnum never perpetrated such a hoax as we do here in Ohio on our growing boys.

Yours Respectfully,
Claude H. Cranker, Rt. 2,
Crestline, O.

(Editor's note: This letter is much longer than we care to use, but contains a lot of colorful phrasing and SOME common sense. Certainly, man has upset the balance of nature and therefore man must do something about it. That's why we need those conservation men and their 'mouthorgans' to plant the seeds of wildlife again. And wildlife doesn't need food when the winters are hard and long? Ask some of those starving deer out in the west. Ask the game which has been saved right here in Ohio in past years when we haven't been blessed with such warm weather. Yes, man has upset nature's balance. So what do we do now, kill all the men? - (D. M.)

★

Sir:

....I would like to add a few words about what nature has done for us all....

Any theory other than the 'survival of the strong' will never work. Nature put the fox here to protect the rabbit from extermination by disease, also as a protection to human health.

I have lived on the farm for the past 22 years and we have many foxes here as no one hunts them. We see them often and have had no trouble with them.

I have been much interested in our wildlife and have had many dealings with the hunters. Some have not been too pleasant.

I am firmly convinced that until our legislature takes some action and stops all hunting with arms from early spring until squirrel season begins in the fall, our wildlife will continue to dwindle.

Yours Truly,
Elmer Cornell,
Big Prairie, O.

(Editor's note: A well written letter and sorry we couldn't use more on it. It presents the farmer's views, a most important part of conservation and sportsmanship. Thanks for the dinner invitation, Elmer, and we'll certainly take advantage of that as soon as the opportunity presents itself.)

Conservation Gift Called 'Valueless'

Recalls Civil War Carpetbagger Era

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The deeds of a carpetbag legislature in post Civil war days down south appear to have boomeranged into Ohio's capital.

Furthermore—the chances of the Ohio conservation commission getting $1,000,000 from North Carolina's treasury looked pretty dim today.

The commission Friday accepted a gift of 200 $1,000 Civil war reconstruction bonds issued by North Carolina in 1868 and 1869. The bonds were presented the conservation division as an outright gift by the League of Ohio Sportsmen.

Attorney General Harry McMullan of North Carolina spoke up immediately saying the bonds "are fraudulent."

McMullan said his department has had similar trouble in the past over the same or similar bonds issued by the "illegally constituted carpet-bagger legislature of 1868."

"Private parties holding the bonds," he said, "have tried to get the nation of Cuba, and the states of Oklahoma and Ohio to accept them so these states could sue the state.

"None of these states has sued when it was informed of all the facts."

In the presentation of the bonds—acquired by the league through a donation from M. L. Bickert, of Stanford, Conn., in 1942—a league spokesman estimated the present value of the bonds at about $1,000,000. He said if the gift is accepted, it may lead to an Ohio suit against North Carolina for the bonds' face value with interest.

Here is the story behind the bonds as related by McMullan:

The 1868 legislature, comprised of Negroes freed by the Civil war, was illegally constituted. The state was under military jurisdiction, which disenfranchised white voters and consequently made the legislature an unrepresentative group.

The bond issue was passed without being submitted to the people and the issue yielded the state "nothing whatever of value."

A constitutional amendment, passed in 1875, said in essence the state of North Carolina could not be held liable for any debt or bond issued by authority of the convention or legislature of the period 1868 through 1870—except refunding bonds.

The Ohio Sportsmen's league pointed out that in 1906 the state of South Dakota brought suit in the Supreme court and won against North Carolina on "practically in the same bond issues."

McMullan said the bonds involved in the 1906 action were refunding bonds, issued in 1866-67, and "were totally unlike and had nothing to do with" the present case.

Boat Motors Getting Better

As years go by machinery gets better and the outdoors field is no different from any other. Now leading outboard motor manufacturers are introducing motors with gear shifts, enabling the sportsman to back away from the dock or sit still in the water while his motor is running.

One of the leaders in this field is the Johnson firm which now has the QD model on the market. The motor is on display at Yuncker Brothers, 116 North Main street.

For those interested in figures, the new development cost the Johnson company close to a million dollars and more than five years to engineer.

President of Coon Hunters Heads Group for 16th Year

GALION—Roma W. Stall of Galion was elected to his 16th year as president of the Crawford County Coon Hunters' association at the annual meeting which was held here at the American Legion Home, Thursday night.

Others chosen in the election are secretary for his fourth year, Parry Weaver of Galion; vice president, H. E. Miller of Crestline; assistant to the secretary, Carl Stiving of Tido. There were 85 members from throughout the county present for the meeting.

Two technicolor sound films, "Under Ohio Skies," and "More Ducks in Ohio," were shown by C. F. Blakeman of Tiffin, manager of District 2, Ohio Division of Conservation, and H. A. Anderson, Wayne county game protector, who were present for the meeting. L. M. McGuire of Galion was projectionist for the films.

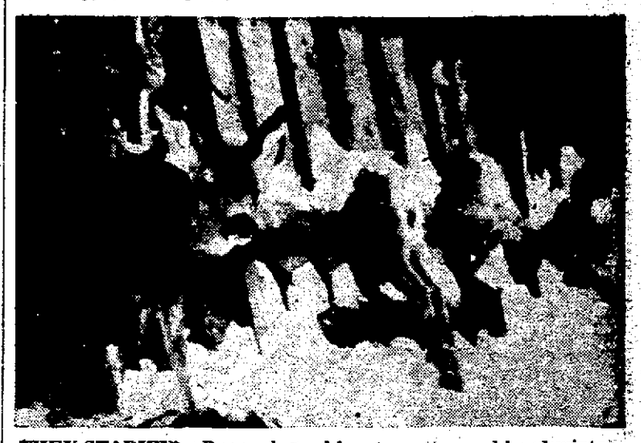
Two special red letter days were marked off on the calendar of 1949 events by the association. They are the first field trial, March 20, at the Crawford county fairgrounds, Bucyrus, and the second one to be held Sept. 18, at a site to be named later.

In spite of all game released by the association, the secretary's report showed a substantial balance in the treasury. The association has been paying for released game in the county for the past 15 years, and derives funds for this work principally from the field trials which are sponsored by the group.

Each year the association has averaged over 100 raccoon released, in addition to rabbits and pheasants. The association approved the purchase of 100 matured stock pheasants to be released early in June in the county. They will still be in egg production when released.

LEAD ESSAY FIELD

PLYMOUTH — Janice Rhine and Alice DeVeny, local high school seniors, were named winners in the recent American Legion essay contest.



THEY STARVED—Deer, plagued by starvation and hard winter, squeezed through slats on this haystack guard in Wyoming. The two on the right died there, trapped in the slats. The deer at the left, still living, was freed.

SCRAM, BUB!!—This Pennsylvania mama bear wasn't too pleased when J. H. Lohman jr., game protector, disturbed her winter sojourn. The game official reports newborn cubs could be heard in the cave, so he maintained a respectful distance between himself and mama as he snapped the picture.

Skish Match Rules Fixed

Rules of the National Skish board have been changed and broadened this year, giving the fishermen a wider variety of events, and rounding out the national skish program.

Latest additions to the regular events are bait distance, fly distance, spinning distance, and bass bug accuracy events.

There is to be no registration charge for tournaments registered with the national board, and all competitors will be eligible for merit awards. For the 1949 season this award will be issued to those compiling scores of from 50 to 64 in registered meets, and will compare with the expert and master chevrons issued last year.

Also, for the first time since the inception of the sport, a national tournament will be held.

Fox Hunters Get '5 for 5'

Richland county fox-hunters yesterday bagged five foxes and five hawks in five roundups in the Lexington and Alta areas. More than 100 men participated in the drive.

Shooting foxes were: William Slosher, A. H. Almy and A. C. Neal of Mansfield and William Poffenberger of Lucas. Next Saturday's hunt will be in the Little Washington area.

Plans for the annual banquet of the fox-hunting group will be completed at a meeting Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the courthouse. The fête is listed for March 16 with Buck Rider, state conservation commissioner, as the speaker

Plan Concert Today

SHELBY — The American Legion band of O'Brien Post 326 will present its first free concert of the year at 3 p. m., Sunday in the local high school auditorium. It is under the direction of Herbert Krichbaum, Ontario school director of music.

Pets Which Revert to Wild Often Become Game Killers

By TED KESTING

As hunters know, many domestic animals occasionally wander from the hands of man—cattle, horses, hogs, turkeys, ducks, geese — all sometimes throw off the human yoke and take to remote places or join their wild cousins.

It is unfortunate that man's two favorite household pets and helpers should cause the most trouble when they do hear the call of the wild.

The cat and dog, turned primative, destroy those things which are important to us economically, esthetically and recreationally, claims Bill Wolf, author of many hunting and fishing articles.

The killer cat comes in for the major share of the blame, and is the subject of much argument. Defenders to the contrary, the domestic cat which is allowed to prowl at will in suburban or rural areas, and the homeless cat which turns entirely wild and lives as a beast of prey, destroy wildlife of much more value to man than the contribution they make killing a few mice.

The owner who takes tabby out to the country, to be turned loose, is positive it will head for the nearest farm and find a good home. They never find such a home. If they survive the first several grim weeks, they learn how to kill to live. They stay away from the farmhouse, where they are less than welcome. In a little time the wild has reclaimed them entirely. There is nothing cute about them. They are miniature tigers.

When the dear little kittens need food they have a varied choice—young of rabbits, quail, pheasants and low-nesting songbirds are easy prey. Furthermore, they can kill the adults of all but the larger animals and birds classed as small game.

If this is condemnation it is not intended for the cats, but rather for their owners who abandon them or who do not properly care for them. They seldom realize how destructive their cats can be when allowed to roam at will. There is no room for killer cats, and the hunter is justified in shooting them as he would any serious predator. The hunter spends his money to put game in the field. The cat owner contributes nothing, not even a license fee.

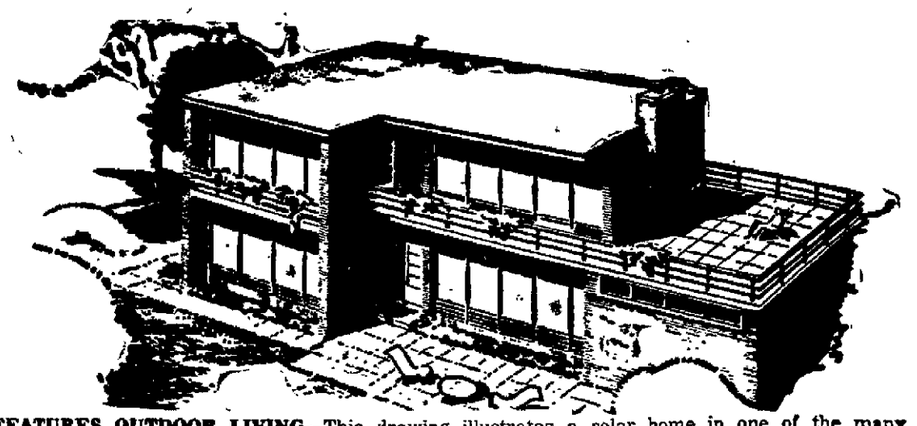
Solar House Uses Winter Sun, Blocks Summer Rays

SOLAR HOUSE—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Zaugg on Lexington avenue provides an example of modern solar architecture. The house was described on the Sunday News-Journal building page in a previous issue.



FEATURES OUTDOOR LIVING—This drawing illustrates a solar home in one of the many designs which can be used in the modern type of construction which harnesses the sun's rays. Solar house can be of one or two-story design. The example presented here accentuates the benefits of outdoor living with open balconies, terraces and large glassed areas.

Just what is a solar house? This is a question heard quite frequently in discussions of home construction designs. Often the question is not adequately answered, and the person seeking information is left perplexed by the term which is being heard more and more frequently.

In its simplest form, a solor house is one with the largest possible area of glass exposed to the south. This is called "solar orientation." While the solar house can be of any architectural design, best results come with low or flat roofs and wide overhanging eaves for protection from summer sun and winter storms.

A solar house is not a glass house; it is one in which glass areas are placed scientifically in relation to the sun.

The solar house is emerging as a new architectural type since it has been proven practicable in Boston, Toronto and other northern localities. The Construction Research bureau, New York clearing house for building information, predicts wide acceptance of these sun-harnessing homes, on the basis of growing interest being shown by builders, and expanding research in design.

The solar house is attractive with its forthright modern design, incorporating large picture windows and open room-planning.

Originating in regions with mild winters, solar houses are now being erected everywhere as architects learn how to trap heat from the sun and save fuel. One such home in Massachusetts has no heating plant, derives all of its winter warmth from the sun, which is stored in a sodium compound.

Solar heating is possible because the sun is low in the sky in winter and hence its rays can penetrate far into the house. Infra-red rays of the sun pass through the glass on a short wave-length, strike and warm objects within the room, and are re-radiated on a longer wave-length which will not pass out through the glass. Solar heat is available even if the sun is not shining, it having been found that on a hazy day the radiation amounts to from 60 to 80 per cent; on a dull day from 5 to 50 per cent.

Once the sun's warmth is inside the house, it must be trapped to prevent its quick escape.

This means that some effective form of insulation must be used. Batts or blankets of mineral wool in walls and roof are commonly used, and their insulating qualities proven. Recent tests have indicated that the addition of a reflective surface on one or both sides of insulating materials have definite advantages.

Reflective insulation is being produced by a number of firms, usually in the form of aluminum foil fastened on kraft paper.

The fact that a solar house must have its glass areas exposed to the south does not mean that all solar houses must be built on the north side of the street. If the building plot is on the south side, the living-room with its wide windows can be placed at the rear. If on east or west side of the street, solar heating is utilized by planning the windows for the south side of the house. No benefit is obtained through sun shining on east or west windows because the winter sun rises late in the southeast and sets early in the southwest.

A wide roof overhang above the solar windows, required to shut out rays of the summer sun, does not interfere with winter sunlight because the sun is lower in the sky; control of spring and fall sunlight is not important, the weather then being more temperate.

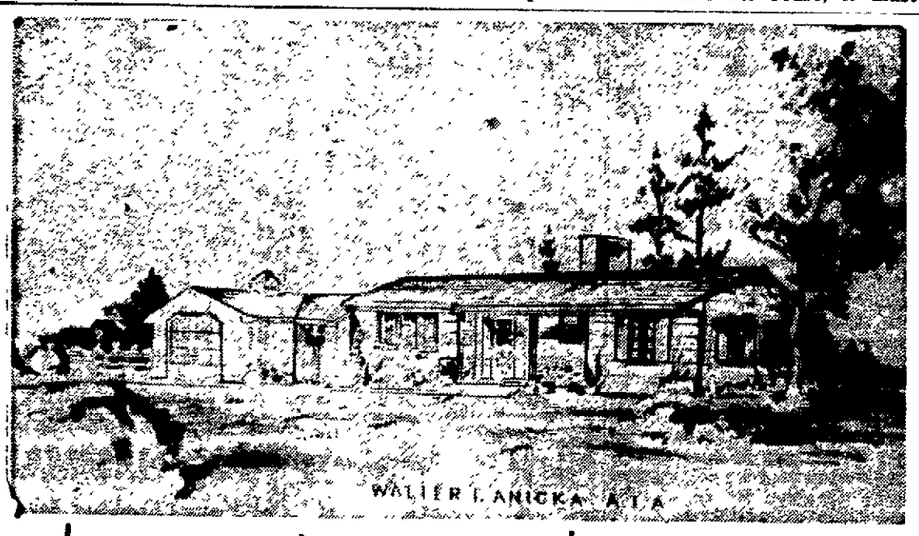
SIZE OF BUILDING PLOT

A large building plot 75 to 100 feet wide is essential for the most effective application of solar heating principles. Some communities are taking this into account in current community planning because of the growing popularity of the solar house. Basic principles can be used, however, on any plot. On a 50-foot width, the living-dining-room and at least one bedroom of a one-story house can face south.

A solar home need not be limited to one story; effective use of the sun is possible with a two-story plan on a narrow plot.

If the solar windows face the street, privacy can be secured by hedge plantings at the sidewalk line, or by the use of clerestory windows.

Construction of a solar house costs about the same as a conventional home. Chief difference is the scientific planning and a design placing as much of the living area as possible on the south, with halls, stairs, bath, service areas, kitchen and garage on the north.



Small Home Design No. 4

Plan Gives Yard Space

By DEAN H. ROBINSON

This small home is designed to hug the earth and to be placed near the front of the lot for the family who enjoy outdoor living and would like privacy and a large, well landscaped back yard.

The Scale Model shows the exterior of the house is finished in wide horizonal wood siding, while the garage and breezeway is finished in wide vertical siding. The house is painted white with a brown asphalt shingle roof, reddish brown shutters and doors. The chimney is whitewashed brick. The breezeway is enclosed to provide a work or hobby shop, although it could be extended slightly and left open to provide a pleasant summer eating place.

The reception hall is unusually well designed. It has a large coat closet on the right and a door directly into the kitchen. This is a great step-saver for the busy housewife when she has to answer the doorbell. The reception hall leads directly into the living room and the hall to the right leads to the three bedrooms.

As you enter the living room you are immediately struck with the view through the large picture window directly in front of you. The living room also has a natural fireplace to the right and plenty of wall space for furniture.

There is a half wall between the living and dining areas which could extend to the ceiling or only part way up. The open planning around the end of this partition makes the two areas appear quite large. There is a double door leading from the dining area to the terrace and backyard.

The kitchen is very compactly designed to save steps and there is a snack bar where the children could eat their lunches or friends could sit and chat while you are working.

The house is designed with a basement, but if you desired to eliminate the basement and use radiant heating, you could use the space occupied by the basement stairs and the one end of the kitchen for a heater and laundry room. As the house is shown on the building plans however, there is a basement under the kitchen, living room, dining area with a large laundry, heater and recreation room.

The three bedrooms are all large. Two of them have cross ventilation and all have large closets. The bathroom has two linen closets, one on either side of the door.

The attached garage as shown in the floor plans has a space for a work or hobby shop and the entrance to the house is under cover and leads directly to the basement steps and the kitchen or dining room. The service entrance is also handy to all of these centers.

Complete building plans for this home are available as well as an exact scale model in full color at $7.00 a set, or additional building plans only at $2.50 a set, from Scale Model Home Planning company, 505 Lafayette Building, Detroit, 26, Mich. There is also a Plan Book showing pictures and floor plans of all 26 of the small homes in this series and 54 pages of valuable building information and illustrations for $1.00 each.

NINA, IT'S WONDERFUL TO BE BACK IN OUR OWN HOME, ALL COZY AND COMFORTABLE!
DO YOU REALLY THINK SO, DARLING?
THIS IS THE LIFE. I'M GOING TO BE HERE A LONG TIME.
I'M GLAD!
IT WAS WELL WE DID GO TO THE FARM, THOUGH. I LEARNED SOME THINGS.
I WAS EXPECTING THAT MUCH.
AND I APPRECIATE OUR HOME A LOT MORE.
THERE ARE OODLES OF REASONS FOR THAT.
I'M GRATEFUL TO FATHER CLOCK FOR OFFERING US THE PLACE.
SCHOOL WOULD BE A LONG WAY AWAY FOR THE CHILDREN.
I WAS AFRAID THREE WEEKS WOULDN'T BE ENOUGH TO PROVE IT.

Judges Get No Prizes—But Contests Pay Off For Them

CHICAGO — (AP) — Some men and women are sure of making money on prize contests.

They don't take part in them. They get paid for handling the entries.

These specialists handled more than 10,000,000 pieces of contest mail last year for the Reuben H. Donnelley corporation, prime operator in that field.

Volume rises and falls in pace with the popularity of the contests. The flow of mail reached flood stage a couple of years back when Bob Hope's radio sponsor was giving away four cars a week. They were sent to folks who wrote the best rhymes starting with "My favorite brunette."

The judges filed and forgot the winning jingles. But they remember a verse that got nothing more than a laugh. It went like this:

"My favorite brunette
"Is Hedy Lamarr.
"Just send her to me
"And keep your new car."

Hearty A. M. Andersen, Chicago manager of Donnelley's direct mail division, explains:

"This one amused us, but it didn't make the grade on the Donnelley objective rating system."

Most contests are put on to stimulate sales of new or established products. They are advertised on the radio and in newspapers and store displays. Prizes are offered.

The entries are read and screened by four sets of judges. All are Donnelley employes. All are college graduates. The final judges—who pick the winners—are Donnelley executives.

"Every entry is carefully considered," Andersen says. "They are evaluated on a basis of the contest rules, usually aptness, sincerity and originality."

The contest crews find many surprises and chuckles in the mail bags. Things like rhymes spelled out in a crocheted table scarf or in the frosting on a cake. Thousands of entries were wrapped around eggs—most of them thoughtfully hard boiled—one Easter season.

Sacks have yielded income tax returns and love letters that were sealed in the wrong envelopes, sly offers to split the first prize 50-50, pies, cookies, photographs—and one long-dead fish.

The number of men and women who work on contests depends on the number of size of the contests. Anderson says as many as 600 have been on contest duty at one time. He says the concern handles about 75 per cent of the national contests. It had 100 in 1948 and expects to handle as many this year.

First Porcelain Enamel Steel House Goes Up Soon

Within three weeks, Mansfielders will get their first look at the much publicized Lustron home, now being manufactured on a mass-production basis in Columbus.

Elmer Hedeen, head of the local company which has the agency for the all-steel homes reported yesterday that arrangements have now been completed for erection of the first house. It will be located on Sunset boulevard in South Boulevards. The site has been selected and preliminary work, consisting of the placing of concrete footers and the laying of pipe lines, has been completed, Hedeen stated.

A brief period of disagreement over a few plumbing features which were described as in conflict with the local plumbing code was ended last Tuesday at a meeting of the board of health. Minor revisions in the code, plus minor alternations by the builder, led the way to agreement and approval by the health board.

The Lustron house, something new in the field of home building, is constructed entirely of steel, with exterior and interior finished in porcelain enamel. It is an assembly-line product, being manufactured in much the same manner as automobiles and refrigerators.

$21,878 In Insurance Claims Paid At Flxible

LOUDONVILLE — The Flxible company paid 276 employes the sum of $21,878.83 in hospitalization and surgical claims during 1948, according to Mrs. Marjorie Atkinson, secretary to the president.

The payments were made through the company's group hospitalization insurance set up with the Equitable Life Insurance company.

Boys Rank At Top In Scholarship Test

By MARGIE GOODMAN

Harold Leindecker came out on top in both the M.H.S. and county scholarship test given last Feb. 4. Out of a possible 300 points Harold got 238, which we, who also took the test, think is nothing short of miraculous. Here are the next highest, in order of their score: Charles Brown, Ralph Bradrick, Tom Swisher, Robert Clouse, William Scott, Warren Alverson, Joe Haring, Edmund Fuchs, and Philip Preble.

I hate to boost the boys' already inflated ego, but the girls really took a back seat on this test. The eleven highest scores were made by boys. Maybe if they'd ask some questions about the latest in the fashion world we'd do a little better. I have an authentic report that most of the students who saw the Little Theater production of "A Murder Has Been Arranged" still jump when our teacher-actor Mr. Harold Loesh walks into the room, so convincing was his portrayal of a ghost. Everyone agrees that this play was one of the outstanding presentations of the year and we all want to thank the cast and the director, Mr. Earl Heasley, for making "student night" possible.

MARGIE

Prom committees and prom dates—two topics of grave importance to all seniors until that fateful day in May. Iowa Leads U. S. In Cash Farm Income

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Iowa captured top national honors in 1948 cash farm income, but showed a smaller margin over its traditional rival, California, than in 1947.

The Agriculture department reported today that Iowa's 1948 cash farm receipts came to $2,354,733,000 while California rang up $2,207,639,000.

Today, more than ever before, a fire means disaster, "Burned out" truly means turned out.

An uninsulated house is less fireproof than one that is insulated. That's because the hollow uninsulated sidewalls act as a flue through which a fire can race from the lower regions of your home to the roof in seconds.

By filling these hollow areas with fire-proof Eagle-Picher Mineral Wool Insulation, a fire is held in check till help can arrive. This holding action often means the difference between life and death.

For the maximum in fire protection, as well as comfort and fuel savings, call us today. Ask about the Eagle-Picher Certified Insulation Job . . . the complete, factory-engineered insulation job.

Smog Battle Launched In Los Angeles

Floating Mixture Irritates Eyes

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — There is only one place in the world where eye-irritating smog is known to exist as part of the climate.

That unfortunate spot is sunny southern California, and the authority for this grim admission is none other than a Los Angeles county official, Dr. Louis C. McCabe. Dr. McCabe, a geologist and former chief of the coal division of the U. S. bureau of mines, was brought here to do something about smog.

This smog has southern Californians bellyaching from morn until night. The dirty-whitish hued stuff drifts wraith-like through the palm trees, city streets and buildings, suburban cottages and mansions. There is no escaping it. Angelenos are driven to distraction as they rub their bleary eyes.

What is smog? What causes it? Why the eye irritation only in the Los Angeles area?

Dr. McCabe, whose official title is director of the Los Angeles county air pollution district, has assembled a staff of scientists, engineers, technicians and policemen in an attempt to answer all smog questions and give a remedy to the impatient citizenry.

As to just what smog is, the complete answer will only be known after further research, says the doctor. However, it is known that, in general, it is a mixture of man-made air contamination made up of fumes, gases and dusts.

Other industrial areas have their so-called smog, but the Los Angeles brand is unique. As Dr. McCabe explained in a recent report:

"In Los Angeles county essentially no coal is burned and smoke from improper oil firing is comparatively rare. Most of the dusts and mists we would control are less than one micron (1-25,400th of an inch) in size. This is largely a new and untried field of control.

"The problem is not 'black' smoke but 'white' emissions, or more accurately, emissions not visible to the eye."

Await Galion Strike Parley

GALION — H. J. Montony of Columbus, federal conciliator in the Hercules Steel Products corporation labor-management negotiations, said yesterday no progress had been made in arranging another strike truce talk. His policy is to await a suitable time before pressing negotiations.

About 150 workers have been idle at the local plant since the walkout Monday caused by failure to reach an agreement on piecework rates. J. J. Murphy, of Warren, Pa. who represents the International Association of Machinists, is in Galion trying to bring labor-management together for additional parleys.

Nurse Group Favors Bill

At a specially-called meeting of the Richland county chapter of Practical Nurse association of Ohio, held Friday night in the city building, a resolution was adopted to back up Senate bill No. 95 in the Ohio legislature, providing for licenses for practical nurses.

Members voted to organize their group for specific action in favor of the impending bill.

Mrs. J. B. Weigel, president of the Mansfield chapter, said yesterday, "It is the conviction of all the members of this chapter that this proposed law is the only means of assuring safe nursing care for the sick.

"This measure would help to prevent unqualified practical nurses from misrepresenting themselves."

Qualified nurses throughout Ohio are in favor of the proposed bill, Mrs. Weigel said. Mrs. Clara B. Nelson, secretary of the local chapter, was authorized to mail copies of the resolution to the Ohio Senate Health Committee.

CRESTLINE NEWS

A program in accord with Negro History week was given last Sunday at the First Baptist Church at both morning and evening services. Charles Taylor of Livingston avenue was in charge of these programs.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Wood are in Florida for a 15 day vacation, spending their time in Laking and Miami.

Miss Audrey Butler of Crestline and Richard James of Cleveland were united in marriage in a ceremony which took place Saturday, Feb. 12 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Risher James, father of the groom, at 214 Bauer avenue. Rev. J. T. Mattison, pastor of the First Baptist Church officiated. Given in marriage by her father, William Butler, the bride wore a two piece royal blue taffeta dress with accessories of navy blue. On her head was a tiara of rhinestones and she carried a small white satin Bible with streamers of white carnations tied with a rhinestone chiffon handkerchief. Dinner was served following the ceremony and the guests were Rev. Mattison, Mr. and Mrs. George Washington of Cleveland, Mrs. Samuel Walker, Mrs. Barnett Reeves, Phyllis James, Robert Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Butler and Barbara James. The newly-weds will reside in Cleveland.

Mansfield's New Citizens

Ex-Hungarian Proud to Be An American

(Editor's Note:) This is the first of a series about Mansfield's new citizens, persons from other lands who have received their final naturalization papers to become citizens of the United States. Some have been in this country for many years, others have been in their new land a comparatively short time.)

★

"I LIKE this country. We are so lucky. so lucky. We don't know what a good country we have."

Mrs. Anna Kmetz, 138 Vale avenue, clasped her hands; her eyes filled with tears.

"Last Nov. 4 I become citizen of this country. I am proud to have those papers.

"You know, my sister lives in the old country — Hungary — I get a letter just the other day. My sister says no one work, no one have enough to eat or enough clothes.

The Communists ..they are ruining the country over there. They are bad ..if you are a Catholic you don't get job Communists see to that."

Mrs. Kmetz said her sister who told her of the conditions in Hungary, didn't mention the name "Communist", but that she had referred to the party in power as "those people, you and I know who I mean."

"I tell my sister of this country and she says we are so lucky . we should thank God"

Mrs. Kmetz, who came to this country 38 years ago as a young wife from Boldeka Varilia, Hungary, has lived in Mansfield the past 23 years. During that time the energetic little woman, now 60, has raised a family of two sons and a daughter, supported her family when her late husband fell ill, and is now looking forward to the futures of her eight grandchildren.

Every night she goes to work at the Ohio Brass company where she's been janitress ever since her husband, John became ill 14 years ago.

"When my husband got sick and couldn't work, I have to go to work. But I'm glad I could do it. He didn't worry then. My husband die five years ago."

John Kmetz brought his family to Mansfield in 1926 when he got a job as moulder at the Ohio Brass.

Mrs. Kmetz lives alone. As she says, "it's better that way. People ask me why I don't live with my oldest son, John, but I say, 'no,' this is my house I like it and I do as I please." John, a war veteran, is the oldest of the Kmetz children Frank, the second son, and Mary, now Mrs. Albert Frasz, have also married and set up their own homes.

During the daytime Mrs. Kmetz busies herself polishing her floors and woodwork to a mirror-gloss and keeping her little home spotless. Right now she's looking forward to house cleaning. In between bouts with the dust cloth, the washing machine and the iron, the little woman keeps her fingers nimble by crocheting intricate patterns in fine thread to be set on the edges of pillow slips for the families of her children.

UNCLE SAM'S DAUGHTER—And proud of it is Mrs. Anna Kmetz, 138 Vale avenue, shown above with her pastime of crocheting which she says "keeps the fingers busy." Mrs. Kmetz, who became a citizen of this country last November, is a native of Boldoka Varilia, Hungary. She came to the U. S. 38 years ago —(News-Journal staff photo)

Checks DAV Books Tuesday

Chapter 112, Disabled American Veterans, won't get an answer on its bingo game ban before next Tuesday. Service-Safety Director Earl R. Garrison said yesterday.

Garrison yesterday blocked opening of the game, scheduled for last night, until he could check the organization's books to determine whether proceeds would be used for charity purposes, as required by state law.

Garrison said today he would not be able to go over the books before early next week. The new DAV chapter had planned to conduct the game in its headquarters at Fifth and Mulberry streets.

Adjutant Robert O'Leary of DAV Chapter 21 said today his organization was not affiliated in any way with the new chapter and had nothing to do with the bingo game plans.

BOARD OK'S BILLS

The Richland county board of education approved payment of bills during its monthly session yesterday in the board offices in the courthouse.

Urges 'War Is Hell' Statue

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A statue to mark the spot where Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman spoke his famous words, "war is hell," has been proposed by a state senator.

Evan P. Ford (D-Franklin) said he would introduce a bill requesting the monument along with a $50,000 appropriation.

The statue would be erected on the spot in Franklin park here where the Civil war general is credited with the famous saying in a speech on Aug. 11, 1880.

Revolutionary New Hearing Help . . .

A-120-P FOR NERVE IMPAIRMENT LOSSES

Here at last is an instrument specifically designed for the 9 out of 100 hard-of-hearing people who are described as "difficult nerve impairment cases." Their degree of loss is slight. Their difficulty in hearing with understanding is great. They cannot tolerate, and therefore are often disturbed more than helped by the standard over-all hearing aid that supplies them with increased power alone. They need the special performance of the A-120-P.

Bell Reveals Profits Drop

CLEVELAND — (AP) — President Randolph Eide reported Friday the Ohio Bell Telephone company experienced its greatest period of expansion, service improvements and overall growth in 1948, but the return on capital investment declined for the second consecutive year.

The company had a net income of $12,325,166 for 1948, equal to $5.50 per common share. compared with a net of $11,978.872 and $6 50 per common share for 1947.

Ohio Bell has an application pending before the Ohio Public Utilities commission for authority to increase rates by about $8,500,000, or about nine per cent.

State's Treasury Facing Financial 'Squeeze'

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Ohio, which has been accumulating treasury surpluses for almost ten years, will do well if it is able to make ends meet by the close of next year.

Present indications are expenses will use up all available current revenues and it may be necessary to slash expenditures under what they were for the last two years.

State Finance Director H. D. Defenbacher, who is now working on the budget for the current two years is expected to estimate a decline in sales tax revenues approximating $24,000,000 during the current two years. Other state revenues will be estimated at about their present levels.

The estimate for sales tax revenues is expected to approximate those given the governor's conference this week by a State Tax Commissioner C. Emory Glander. He predicted a falling off of $9,000,000 in net revenues from the sales tax this year from the $135,000,000 net of last year and a further decline to $15,000,000 less for 1950.

The estimated $9,000,000 loss in revenues will be offset by non-recurring revenues which have come into the treasury since the first of the year, Defenbacher said. This will lessen his task of a preparing a balanced budget for this year. But with an anticipated loss of $15,000,000 in 1950 the budget-making task is more complicated. Reductions in amounts appropriated for this year are expected to be made for next year.

Very few departments are expected to be allocated more money than they received for 1947-48. Most of them probably will receive less, especially for 1950. Schools and political subdivisions, which are seeking increased millions may have to be satisfied with about the amounts they received during the last biennium.

Suggestions are understood to have come from Cleveland sources that the state dip into its present surplus to pay the $24,000,000 that is obligated during the current two years to retire soldiers' bonus bonds. Under present arrangements $1,000,000 is taken each month from current revenues to make these payments.

The provision for making these $1,000,000 monthly payments to the bonus fund is constitutional and can not be altered by the legislature, but the advocates of using surplus to make these payments during the current two years say the constitutional mandate would be satisfied by such procedure.

It is anticipated Governor Lausche will turn a deaf ear to the Cleveland proposal and insist that the $1,000,000 monthly be paid out of current revenues. Should the Cleveland proposal be adopted, $24,000,000 more would be made available to the legislature to meet demands for increased allotments for local governments, schools and other spending departments of government.

Estimates by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce that sales tax revenues may be expected to drop off $46,000,000 during the current two years are discounted by Defenbacher.

Young Greek-Americans Study Proud History of Their Ancestors

Modest Little School Keeps Grecian Culture Alive

By MARGUERITE MILLER

The history, language and legend of one of the world's highest ancient culture is revived every Monday and Friday afternoon in a modest school room at 138 North Main street.

The setting is Mansfield's 11-year-old Greek school, one of 310 such schools in the United States. The students are the dark-eyed descendants of the "greats" of history.

There's no tuition and there's no grade cards. Although the school is mainly for the children of members of the Greek Orthodox congregation, any one who wants to attend is welcome. The school is held in a tiny room adjoining the Orthodox church quarters on the second floor.

As for the lessons, parental insistence on study is a great help according to Rev. Tjanos Gougoutas, teacher of the class and priest of the Orthodox church.

"And if we miss a class we have to write the lesson five times," added the twinkling-eyed Jack Gougoutas, young son of the pastor. Jack had just finished a session at the blackboard, taking dictation in Greek from his father.

Fortina, who is as typically American teen-ager as any girl who ever wore saddle shoes and bobby sox, recalls with humor her first day in the "American school."

"My twin brother and I had never spoken English at home. All we knew was Greek. We didn't know what was going on that first day in the first grade.

"Finally the teacher moved my brother to another side of the room because we talked in Greek all the time and she didn't know what we were talking about."

As her teacher and pastor put it: "Many of the young men and women who have learned Modern Greek in these schools are now American government workers in Greece where the rehabilitation of the country is being carried on.

"We start with the ABC's and the simpler nursery rhymes and stories and progress into the history and legend of Greece," the genial teacher explained.

Rev. Gougoutas, who did most of his talking through an interpreter, demonstrated his method of teaching by displaying a book of Greek mythology.

"That's Icarius," Harry said. "His father made wings out of wax and he flew too near the sun and the wings melted and he fell into the sea and drowned."

Rev. Gougoutas laughed heartily at the brief explanation of the famous myth.

★

Main purpose of the school, Rev. Goutoutas pointed out, is "to keep the language alive." Pupils in the school may start at the first grade level of the American school and continue through the senior year. In fact, he said, they "may go 16 years to a Greek school and never completely learn the Greek language."

However, he added, almost all his pupils have been helped at home by their Greek-speaking parents who have never completely mastered the equally difficult English.

Pupils of the school include the Gougoutas youngsters, Jack and sister, Bessie; Harry and Fortina Theohar; George Giovas, Adam Angelas, Tom Theohar, Frances Breres, John and Dorothy George; George Zaros, Despina Nickas, Anne and Paul Poulos, and Gus P. Angelas.

Here, in the school, is the younger generation of the Greek families in Mansfield. The Greek organization, AHEPA, or the American Hellenic Educational Progressive association, is headed by James Georgopulos, president; George K. Angelas, vice president; George Kitrenos, treasurer; George Samas, secretary; George Mavromatis and Jack Kitrenos, acting officers.

IT'S GREEK AND THEY UNDERSTAND IT—No member of this class can quip. "It's Greek to me." They not only understand the language but also speak it fluently. Six of the 15 members of the Greek school who were in attendance last week, are shown above listening to Rev. Gougoutas read one of the famous Greek myths. Left to right, front row, the students are: George Giovas, Harry Theohar and sister, Fortina Theohar. Back row, left to right, are: Bessie Gougoutas and Jack Gougoutas, children of the pastor and teacher, and Adam Angelas.

Highway Crews All Set for Emergencies

With the construction of the new state highway building on West Fourth street, and new "outpost buildings—in Bellville and Butler, the state highway department can handle any emergency in the county in a hurry.

Glenn Swanger, who is being replaced Tuesday as superintendent of the department in Richland county, said the new construction has been completed during the two years he headed the highway office here.

There are two other "outposts" in the county, one at Shelby and another at Shenandoah.

Two crews work out of the new Bellville post and the Shelby post, and one crew each out of the new Butler and Shenandoah posts.

The department has 14 trucks, equipped with plows and spinners, a grader with a new plow, four new trucks and a nearly new Army truck, with new plows and spinners.

The post of superintendent will be taken over by Clarence J. Tugend, of Worthington township, on appointment by Joseph A. Tomsic, Ashland state highway division superintendent.

The state highway system in the county has 230 miles to maintain and keep clear of ice and snow. Some of the roads carry 1,200 cars per hour, Swanger pointed out.

Swanger listed a number of highway jobs in which maintenance and repairs have been carried out.

He said the preservative spring program covering many miles of bituminous drag and seal jobs on various state routes have been inspected for construction by the Ashland office. More than 2,000 feet of new guard rail construction and painting has been recommended to the Ashland office for construction this year, Swanger said.

REVEAL 500 LAYOFFS

SALEM —(AP)— A seasonal decline in business was blamed by officials of the Mullins Manufacturing corporation for the layoff of 125 men at the Salem factory and 375 workers at the Warren plant.

Burned-Out Family Aided

Home Furnishings Being Contributed

Mansfield "good neighbors" have come through again in time of trouble.

This time it was for the Roy Jackson family, whose six-month old son was burned to death in the fire which destroyed their home in Garden Acres, Feb. 15.

The family has almost enough furniture to furnish another home, if they can find one. Contributions for the Jacksons has ranged from sheets and pillow cases to living room suites, according to Mrs. C. M. Chatlain and Mrs. Harold Karsmizki, who have been collecting articles for them.

Included in the list is an electric refrigerator, beds, mattresses and springs, mirrors, tables, dresser, chest of drawers, six extra chairs, two stoves, a dinette suite, complete kitchen outfit, lamps, almost 25 boxes of clothing, a new clock, swing and innumerable other articles.

Several Bible clubs of the city are donating pillow cases and sheets and the Zeta Rho chapter of Delta Theta Tau is providing sheets and bedding in the amount of $25. Several quilts and comforters are also included. Two new comforters are the gift of the Mothers Home circle. The Future Homemakers 4-H club of Madison township is giving $50 in household linens.

The Jacksons are living with relatives near Ashland, but want to find a home in Mansfield again.

Reservations For Dinner Snapped Up

The 250 reservations for the free Lincoln Day dinner went like hot cakes!

Early yesterday, Republican officials announced all the reservations they could handle had been received. They announced on Thursday the buffet dinner would be free to the first 250 persons who made reservations.

The dinner will be held in the First Methodist church, starting at 6:30 p. m., and State Treasurer Don H. Ebright will be the speaker.

Ebright is considered the leading contender for the GOP nomination for governor in 1952.

Water Line Benefits OSR

An eight-inch water line connecting with the city water system at the Wayne and Newman streets intersection is being laid to the standpipe outside the Ohio State reformatory wall.

The pipe line started last week will be used only in case of fire at the reformatory, George J. Allarding, OSR superintendent, said yesterday.

The state is paying for the line being laid by the Roger Au construction company. The project merely a security measure, is expected to be completed at the end of March, Allarding said.

AUDITOR TO SPEAK

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe will speak on the subject of taxes Tuesday at 8 p. m. before the Jefferson Grange in the Grange Hall, it was announced.

Funds Total $24,615

County Shares TB Allocation In State

Richland county received $24,615 in subsidy payments from the state in 1948 toward the care of patients in the tuberculosis sanatorium, a report filed with the county commissioners showed yesterday.

The report, which covers the subsidy payments for the entire state, was prepared by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson. The state contributes $2.50 per day toward the cost of caring for each patient.

The sum given Richland county represents 8,846 patient days. In all, $2,286,250 was paid to 72 counties for patients hospitalized in 19 TB sanatoriums. That sum represents 914,500 patient days.

The report said all of Ohio's 88 counties participated in the subsidy program and the 1948 appropriation totaled $2,377,500 of which all but $105 was disbursed.

Flag Ceremony Held By Brownie Troop 56

Girl Scout Troop 42 presented Brownie Troop 56 with an American flag at ceremonies Friday at the home of Mrs. Ralph Devers, 321 Bartley avenue.

The flag will be used in flag ceremonies held at every meeting of Brownie troops.

Mrs. J. M. Barnett and Mrs. Emmett Casey are the leaders of Troops 42 and 56, respectively.

3 Damage Suits Set For Hearing

$146,800 Sought In County Court Actions

Three suits in which the sums of $75,000, $50,000 and $21,800 are sought by the plaintiffs have been set for hearing in common pleas court.

Asking a judgment of $75,000 in a suit set for Tuesday is Sturgeon A. Gregg, of Mansfield, R. D., who contends he received permanent injuries while attempting to put in a new crane at the factory of the defendant, the Ohio Seamless Tube company, of Shelby.

Gregg said the accident occurred March 6, 1947 while he was employed by the Mansfield Structural and Erecting company which was engaged in replacing the crane at the Shelby plant.

Gregg said he was hospitalized 15 days. The Ohio Seamless Tube company is represented by Attorneys Long, Anderson and Green.

The $50,000 suit set for Wednesday names Mansfield Rapid Transit, Inc. It was filed by Mrs. Zella I. Bradley, of Warren road, on behalf of her son, who was 10 years old at the time of an accident, Oct. 10, 1946.

BOY INJURED

Her petition, filed by Attorney Joseph A. Bayer, contends that the boy fell out of a city bus, fracturing his skull on the pavement as the door suddenly opened while the vehicle was moving.

The bus company is represented by Attorneys Robert L. Moss, Mansfield, and Duncan and Thomas, Cleveland.

The $21,800 suit is set for Thursday and was brought by Anna Mae Barry, of Akron, against James Herlihy, 117 West Fifth street, as the administrator of the estate of James Herlihy, deceased.

The plaintiff said that for 218 weeks she provided nursing care and kept house for Mr. Herlihy until his death in February 1947, and values her services at $100 a week. Her claim was turned down by the administrator, she says.

Herlihy who is a nephew of the deceased man, in his answer, said the plaintiff was a niece of the deceased man and a family relationship to their mutual benefit existed.

Rural Home Meetings Set

Six meetings for rural women have been scheduled this week. Miss Mabel Spray, home demonstration agent announced. All start at 10:30 a.m.

Set for Tuesday is a meeting of the Homemakers group of Sandusky township on the arrangement of furniture at the home of Mrs. Ben Stevens.

Three other meetings on the subject include: Wednesday, Springmill group at the home of Mrs. Virgil Downs; Thursday, Shelby group at the home of Mrs. Grover Noss; and Friday, Plymouth group at the home of Mrs. Halden Cheesman. The first and fourth meetings will have sack lunches and the second and third, covered dish lunches.

Two meetings on garment finishes have been set for Thursday, with the Better Times group meeting at the home of Mrs. Milton Kruse, and the Chestnut Chapel group meeting at the home of Mary Bowers. Both groups will have a covered dish luncheon.

Awards Given Cub Scouters

Advancement awards were presented to Cub Scout Pack No. 8 in conjunction with a covered-dish dinner held Friday night for parents and Cubs at the John Todd park pavilion.

Mansfield's New Citizens

Ex-Hungarian Proud to Be An American

(Editor's Note:) This is the first of a series about Mansfield's new citizens, persons from other lands who have received their final naturalization papers to become citizens of the United States. Some have been in this country for many years, others have been in their new land a comparatively short time.)

★

"I LIKE this country. We are so lucky .so lucky. We don't know what a good country we have."

Mrs. Anna Kmetz, 138 Vale avenue, clasped her hands; her eyes filled with tears.

"Last Nov. 4 I become citizen of this country. I am proud to have those papers.

"You know, my sister lives in the old country — Hungary — I get a letter just the other day. My sister says no one work, no one have enough to eat or enough clothes.

The Communists . they are ruining the country over there. They are bad ..if you are a Catholic you don't get job Communists see to that."

Mrs. Kmetz said her sister, who told her of the conditions in Hungary, didn't mention the name "Communist", but that she had referred to the party in power as "those people, you and I know who I mean."

"I tell my sister of this country and she says we are so lucky . we should thank God."

Mrs. Kmetz, who came to this country 38 years ago as a young wife from Boldeka Varilia, Hungary, has lived in Mansfield the past 23 years. During that time the energetic little woman, now 60, has raised a family of two sons and a daughter, supported her family when her late husband fell ill, and is now looking forward to the futures of her eight grandchildren.

Every night she goes to work at the Ohio Brass company where she's been janitress ever since her husband, John became ill 14 years ago.

"When my husband got sick and couldn't work, I have to go to work. But I'm glad I could do it. He didn't worry then. My husband die five years ago."

John Kmetz brought his family to Mansfield in 1926 when he got a job as moulder at the Ohio Brass.

Mrs. Kmetz lives alone. As she says, "it's better that way. People ask me why I don't live with my oldest son, John, but I say, 'no,' this is my house. I like it and I do as I please." John, a war veteran, is the oldest of the Kmetz children Frank, the second son, and Mary, now Mrs. Albert Frasz, have also married and set up their own homes.

During the daytime Mrs. Kmetz busies herself polishing her floors and woodwork to a mirror-gloss and keeping her little home spotless. Right now she's looking forward to housecleaning: In between bouts with the dust cloth, the washing machine and the iron, the little woman keeps her fingers nimble by crocheting intricate patterns in fine thread to be set on the edges of pillow slips for the families of her children.

UNCLE SAM'S DAUGHTER—And proud of it is Mrs. Anna Kmetz, 138 Vale avenue, shown above with her pastime of crocheting which she says "keeps the fingers busy." Mrs. Kmetz, who became a citizen of this country last November, is a native of Boldoka Varilia, Hungary. She came to the U. S. 38 years ago —(News-Journal staff photo)

Checks DAV Books Tuesday

Chapter 112, Disabled American Veterans, won't get an answer on its bingo game ban before next Tuesday, Service-Safety Director Earl R. Garrison said yesterday.

Garrison yesterday blocked opening of the game, scheduled for last night, until he could check the organization's books to determine whether proceeds would be used for charity purposes, as required by state law.

Garrison said today he would not be able to go over the books before early next week. The new DAV chapter had planned to conduct the game in its headquarters at Fifth and Mulberry streets.

Adjutant Robert O'Leary of DAV Chapter 21 said today his organization was not affiliated in any way with the new chapter and had nothing to do with the bingo game plans.

BOARD OK'S BILLS

The Richland county board of education approved payment of bills during its monthly session yesterday in the board offices in the courthouse.

Urges 'War Is Hell' Statue

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A statue to mark the spot where Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman spoke his famous words, "war is hell," has been proposed by a state senator.

Evan P. Ford (D-Franklin) said he would introduce a bill requesting the monument along with a $50,000 appropriation.

The statue would be erected on the spot in Franklin park here where the Civil war general is credited with the famous saying in a speech on Aug. 11, 1880.

Bell Reveals Profits Drop

CLEVELAND — (AP) — President Randolph Eide reported Friday the Ohio Bell Telephone company experienced its greatest period of expansion, service improvements and overall growth in 1948, but the return on capital investment declined for the second consecutive year.

The company had a net income of $12,325,166 for 1948, equal to $5.50 per common share, compared with a net of $11,978,872 and $6.50 per common share for 1947.

Ohio Bell has an application pending before the Ohio Public Utilities commission for authority to increase rates by about $8,500,000, or about nine per cent.

State's Treasury Facing Financial 'Squeeze'

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Ohio, which has been accumulating treasury surpluses for almost ten years, will do well if it is able to make ends meet by the close of next year.

Present indications are expenses will use up all available current revenues and it may be necessary to slash expenditures under what they were for the last two years.

State Finance Director H. D. Defenbacher, who is now working on the budget for the current two years is expected to estimate a decline in sales tax revenues approximating $24,000,000 during the current two years. Other state revenues will be estimated at about their present levels.

The estimate for sales tax revenues is expected to approximate those given the governor's conference this week by a State Tax Commissioner C. Emory Glander. He predicted a falling off of $9,000,000 in net revenues from the sales tax this year from the $135,000,000 net of last year and a further decline to $15,000,000 less for 1950.

The estimated $9,000,000 loss in revenues will be offset by non-recurring revenues which have come into the treasury since the first of the year, Defenbacher said. This will lessen his task of a preparing a balanced budget for this year. But with an anticipated loss of $15,000,000 in 1950 the budget-making task is more complicated. Reductions in amounts appropriated for this year are expected to be made for next year.

Very few departments are expected to be allocated more money than they received for 1947-48. Most of them probably will receive less, especially for 1950. Schools and political subdivisions, which are seeking increased millions may have to be satisfied with about the amounts they received during the last biennium.

Suggestions are understood to have come from Cleveland sources that the state dip into its present surplus to pay the $24,000,000 that is obligated during the current two years to retire soldiers' bonus bonds. Under present arrangements $1,000,000 is taken each month from current revenues to make these payments.

The provision for making these $1,000,000 monthly payments to the bonus fund is constitutional and can not be altered by the legislature, but the advocates of using surplus to make these payments during the current two years say the constitutional mandate would be satisfied by such procedure.

It is anticipated Governor Lausche will turn a deaf ear to the Cleveland proposal and insist that the $1,000,000 monthly be paid out of current revenues. Should the Cleveland proposal be adopted, $24,000,000 more would be made available to the legislature to meet demands for increased allotments for local governments, schools and other spending departments of government.

Estimates by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce that sales tax revenues may be expected to drop off $46,000,000 during the current two years are discounted by Defenbacher.

Young Greek-Americans Study Proud History of Their Ancestors

Modest Little School Keeps Grecian Culture Alive

By MARGUERITE MILLER

The history, language and legend of one of the world's highest ancient culture is revived every Monday and Friday afternoon in a modest school room at 138 North Main street.

The setting is Mansfield's 11-year-old Greek school, one of 310 such schools in the United States. The students are the dark-eyed descendants of the "greats" of history.

There's no tuition and there's no grade cards. Although the school is mainly for the children of members of the Greek Orthodox congregation, any one who wants to attend is welcome. The school is held in a tiny room adjoining the Orthodox church quarters on the second floor.

As for the lessons, parental insistence on study is a great help according to Rev. Tjanos Gougoutas, teacher of the class and priest of the Orthodox church.

"And if we miss a class we have to write the lesson five times," added the twinkling-eyed Jack Gougoutas, young son of the pastor. Jack had just finished a session at the blackboard, taking dictation in Greek from his father.

When everyone is present, 15 boys and girls, ranging from elementary school to Senior high, fill the benches. Class "veteran" is Fortina Theohar, a John Simpson junior high student, who is now in her seventh year at the Greek school.

Fortina, who is as typically American teen-ager as any girl who ever wore saddle shoes and bobby sox, recalls with humor her first day in the "American school."

"My twin brother and I had never spoken English at home. All we knew was Greek. We didn't know what was going on that first day in the first grade.

"Finally the teacher moved my brother to another side of the room because we talked in Greek all the time and she didn't know what we were talking about."

Although her Greek lessons, mixed with the French and other classes in the American school leave her little time for leisure pursuits, Fortina is aware of the fact that a knowledge of Modern Greek is an integral part of her education.

★

As her teacher and pastor put it: "Many of the young men and women who have learned Modern Greek in these schools are now American government workers in Greece where the rehabilitation of the country is being carried on.

"We start with the ABC's and the simpler nursery rhymes and stories and progress into the history and legend of Greece," the genial teacher explained.

Rev. Gougoutas, who did most of his talking through an interpreter, demonstrated his method of teaching by displaying a book of Greek mythology.

"That's Icarius," Harry said. "His father made wings out of wax and he flew too near the sun and the wings melted and he fell into the sea and drowned."

Rev. Gougoutas laughed heartily at the brief explanation of the famous myth.

★

Main purpose of the school, Rev. Goutoutas pointed out, is "to keep the language alive." Pupils in the school may start at the first grade level of the American school and continue through the senior year. In fact, he said, they "may go 16 years to a Greek school and never completely learn the Greek language."

However, he added, almost all his pupils have been helped at home by their Greek-speaking parents who have never completely mastered the equally difficult English.

Pupils of the school include the Gougoutas youngsters, Jack and sister, Bessie; Harry and Fortina Theohar; George Giovas, Adam Angelas, Tom Theohar, Frances Breres, John and Dorothy George; George Zaros, Despina Nickas, Anne and Paul Poulos, and Gus P. Angelas.

Here, in the school, is the younger generation of the Greek families in Mansfield. The Greek organization, AHEPA, or the American Hellenic Educational Progressive association, is headed by James Georgopulos, president; George K. Angelas, vice president; George Kitrenos, treasurer; George Samas, secretary; George Mavromatis and Jack Kitrenos, acting officers.

IT'S GREEK AND THEY UNDERSTAND IT—No member of this class can quip, "It's Greek to me." They not only understand the language but also speak it fluently. Six of the 15 members of the Greek school who were in attendance last week, are shown above listening to Rev. Gougoutas read one of the famous Greek myths. Left to right, front row, the students are: George Giovas, Harry Theohar and sister, Fortina Theohar. Back row, left to right, are: Bessie Gougoutas and Jack Gougoutas, children of the pastor and teacher, and Adam Angelas.

3 Damage Suits Set For Hearing

$146,800 Sought In County Court Actions

Three suits in which the sums of $75,000, $50,000 and $21,800 are sought by the plaintiffs have been set for hearing in common pleas court.

Asking a judgment of $75,000 in a suit set for Tuesday is Sturgeon A. Gregg, of Mansfield, R. D., who contends he received permanent injuries while attempting to put in a new crane at the factory of the defendant, the Ohio Seamless Tube company, of Shelby.

Gregg said the accident occurred March 6, 1947 while he was employed by the Mansfield Structural and Erecting company which was engaged in replacing the crane at the Shelby plant.

Gregg said he was hospitalized 15 days. The Ohio Seamless Tube company is represented by Attorneys Long, Anderson and Green.

The $50,000 suit set for Wednesday names Mansfield Rapid Transit, Inc. It was filed by Mrs. Zella I. Bradley, of Warren road, on behalf of her son, who was 10 years old at the time of an accident, Oct. 10, 1946.

BOY INJURED

Her petition, filed by Attorney Joseph A. Bayer, contends that the boy fell out of a city bus, fracturing his skull on the pavement as the door suddenly opened while the vehicle was moving.

The bus company is represented by Attorneys Robert L. Moss, Mansfield, and Duncan and Thomas, Cleveland.

The $21,800 suit is set for Thursday and was brought by Anna Mae Barry, of Akron, against James Herlihy, 117 West Fifth street, as the administrator of the estate of James Herlihy, deceased.

The plaintiff said that for 218 weeks she provided nursing care and kept house for Mr. Herlihy until his death in February 1947, and values her services at $100 a week. Her claim was turned down by the administrator, she says.

Herlihy who is a nephew of the deceased man, in his answer, said the plaintiff was a niece of the deceased man and a family relationship to their mutual benefit existed.

Highway Crews All Set for Emergencies

With the construction of the new state highway building on West Fourth street, and new "outpost buildings—in Bellville and Butler, the state highway department can handle any emergency in the county in a hurry.

Glenn Swanger, who is being replaced Tuesday as superintendent of the department in Richland county, said the new construction has been completed during the two years he headed the highway office here.

There are two other "outposts" in the county, one at Shelby and another at Shenandoah.

Two crews work out of the new Bellville post and the Shelby post, and one crew each out of the new Butler and Shenandoah posts.

The department has 14 trucks, equipped with plows and spinners, a grader with a new plow, four new trucks and a nearly new Army truck, with new plows and spinners.

The post of superintendent will be taken over by Clarence J. Tugend, of Worthington township, on appointment by Joseph A. Tomsic, Ashland state highway division superintendent.

The state highway system in the county has 230 miles to maintain and keep clear of ice and snow. Some of the roads carry 1,200 cars per hour, Swanger pointed out.

Swanger listed a number of highway jobs in which maintenance and repairs have been carried out.

He said the preservative spring program covering many miles of bituminous drag and seal jobs on various state routes have been inspected for construction by the Ashland office. More than 2,000 feet of new guard rail construction and painting has been recommended to the Ashland office for construction this year, Swanger said.

REVEAL 500 LAYOFFS

SALEM —(AP)— A seasonal decline in business was blamed by officials of the Mullins Manufacturing corporation for the layoff of 125 men at the Salem factory and 375 workers at the Warren plant.

Burned-Out Family Aided

Home Furnishings Being Contributed

Mansfield "good neighbors" have come through again in time of trouble.

This time it was for the Roy Jackson family, whose six-month old son was burned to death in the fire which destroyed their home in Garden Acres, Feb. 15.

The family has almost enough furniture to furnish another home, if they can find one. Contributions for the Jacksons has ranged from sheets and pillow cases to living room suites, according to Mrs. C. M. Chatlain and Mrs. Harold Karsmizki, who have been collecting articles for them.

Included in the list is an electric refrigerator, beds, mattresses and springs, mirrors, tables, dresser, chest of drawers, six extra chairs, two stoves, a dinette suite, complete kitchen outfit, lamps, almost 25 boxes of clothing, a new clock, swing and innumerable other articles.

Several Bible clubs of the city are donating pillow cases and sheets and the Zeta Rho chapter of Delta Theta Tau is providing sheets and bedding in the amount of $25. Several quilts and comforters are also included. Two new comforters are the gift of the Mothers Home circle. The Future Homemakers 4-H club of Madison township is giving $50 in household linens.

The Jacksons are living with relatives near Ashland, but want to find a home in Mansfield again.

Reservations For Dinner Snapped Up

The 250 reservations for the free Lincoln Day dinner went like hot cakes!

Early yesterday, Republican officials announced all the reservations they could handle had been received. They announced on Thursday the buffet dinner would be free to the first 250 persons who made reservations.

The dinner will be held in the First Methodist church, starting at 6:30 p. m., and State Treasurer Don H. Ebright will be the speaker.

Ebright is considered the leading contender for the GOP nomination for governor in 1952.

Water Line Benefits OSR

An eight-inch water line connecting with the city water system at the Wayne and Newman streets intersection is being laid to the standpipe outside the Ohio State reformatory wall.

The pipe line started last week will be used only in case of fire at the reformatory, George J. Allarding, OSR superintendent, said yesterday.

The state is paying for the line being laid by the Roger Au construction company. The project, merely a security measure, is expected to be completed at the end of March, Allarding said.

AUDITOR TO SPEAK

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe will speak on the subject of taxes Tuesday at 8 p. m. before the Jefferson Grange in the Grange Hall, it was announced.

Funds Total $24,615

County Shares TB Allocation In State

Richland county received $24,615 in subsidy payments from the state in 1948 toward the care of patients in the tuberculosis sanatorium, a report filed with the county commissioners showed yesterday.

The report, which covers the subsidy payments for the entire state, was prepared by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson. The state contributes $2.50 per day toward the cost of caring for each patient.

The sum given Richland county represents 8,846 patient days. In all, $2,286,250 was paid to 72 counties for patients hospitalized in 19 TB sanatoriums. That sum represents 914,500 patient days.

The report said all of Ohio's 88 counties participated in the subsidy program and the 1948 appropriation totaled $2,377,500 of which all but $105 was disbursed.

Flag Ceremony Held By Brownie Troop 56

Girl Scout Troop 42 presented Brownie Troop 56 with an American flag at ceremonies Friday at the home of Mrs. Ralph Devers, 321 Bartley avenue.

The flag will be used in flag ceremonies held at every meeting of Brownie troops.

Mrs. J. M. Barnett and Mrs. Emmett Casey are the leaders of Troops 42 and 56, respectively.

Rural Home Meetings Set

Six meetings for rural women have been scheduled this week. Miss Mabel Spray, home demonstration agent announced. All start at 10:30 a.m.

Set for Tuesday is a meeting of the Homemakers group of Sandusky township on the arrangement of furniture at the home of Mrs. Ben Stevens.

Three other meetings on the subject include: Wednesday, Springmill group at the home of Mrs. Virgil Downs; Thursday, Shelby group at the home of Mrs. Grover Noss; and Friday, Plymouth group at the home of Mrs. Halden Cheesman. The first and fourth meetings will have sack lunches and the second and third, covered dish lunches.

Two meetings on garment finishes have been set for Thursday, with the Better Times group meeting at the home of Mrs. Milton Kruse, and the Chestnut Chapel group meeting at the home of Mary Bowers. Both groups will have a covered dish luncheon.

Soaring Meat Prices Cut Packer Profits

CHICAGO—(AP)—How did the big meat packers make out in 1948?

That was the year meat prices went to astronomical highs. Such price tags as appeared in the butcher shops had never been seen before. Since then, they've gone down.

Here is how the big four packing houses made out in the fiscal year, ended Oct. 30, 1948.

One lost money on overall operations. One lost money on meat, but made it up in other lines. One made average earnings of ¼ cent a pound on all meat sold. The fourth didn't break down its earnings into meat and non-meat divisions.

Three companies in 1948 had much smaller profits than in 1947. One had its first loss since 1938.

The big packers, in the order of their sales volume, are Swift and Co., Armour and Co., Wilson and Co., Inc., and Cudahy Packing Co.

These are the four companies against which the justice department filed an anti-trust suit in federal court in Chicago. The suit would split Swift and Armour into five separate companies and Wilson and Cudahy into two separate companies.

Biggest meat packer, and one of the country's biggest companies, is Swift. It grew from a firm started by Gustavus Swift, who in his 'teens' peddled meat in a red wagon on Cape Cod in Masschusetts. He arrived in Chicago in 1875.

Swift led the campaign to send meat east in railroad refrigerator cars. The railroads objected. They could earn more money transporting livestock than dressed meat. But the dressed meat could be sold cheaper to consumers, and early eastern objection to "western dressed beef" broke down.

Swift had a habit of visiting Bubbly creek, a stinking stream which emptied packing plant refuse into the south branch of the Chicago rive. Swift watched the point where his plant's sewer entered "Old Bubbly". If he saw any fat he hurried back and bawled out the plant managers for their waste.

Harold H. Swift, present chairman of the company, is a son of Gustavus. Another son and a grandson are directors.

Swift products run into several hundreds. Sales last year set an all-time record of $2,361,-114,041. Earnings of $27,889,210 compared with $36,748,210 in the previous year. The company made ¼ cent a pound on meat.

In the last 50 years it lost money only three times — in 1921, 1932 and 1938. Each was depression year. It paid some dividends on its common stock — now owned by more than 64,000 persons — in every year except 1933.

EARNINGS HIGH

Swift's earnings last year were still high in relation to most past years. Only years in which earnings were higher were 1947, 1917 and 1918. However, sales today are running more than double the years before World War II.

Second largest packer is Armour, the one with a loss last year. Sales totaled $1,991,434,034, yet it lost $1,965,291. The previous year it made $30,907,098.

Today, the Armour family is pretty much out of the company, but Armour was long spearheaded by P. D. Armour. He came to Chicago in 1875 after searching for gold in California and serving in the Milwaukee packing plant of John Plankinton.

He was a vigorous, powerful, dominating man — "I can stand a lot, for my hide is thick," he said. In his youth he had been expelled from a boys' academy for taking a girl on a buggy ride in the pale moonlight. He arose at five every morning and got to his office, as he said, "before the boys with the polished nails show up."

He gave his two sons — Philip and J. Ogden — $10,000,000 each. He also founded Armour mission and Armour institute, proclaiming, "the religion of Armour institute will be 16 ounces to the pound, but undenominational, and it makes no difference to me whether its converts are baptized in a soup bowl, a pond, or the Chicago river."

When he died, his son J. Ogden took over. After World War I, J. Ogden reasoned Europe would be starving and would need food. The reasoning was right, but Europe didn't have any money and no Marshall plan was operating at that time.

J. Ogden tied up $15,000,000 of the company's money in inventories in 1917. When prices crashed in 1921, the collapse caught both J. Ogden and the company, which itself was $38,-000,000 in debt. He resigned.

Third in size among the big packers, based on sales volume is Wilson.

Wilson traces back to a company founded in 1853, and known for many years as Sulzberger and Sons Co. In 1916, this company was reorganized. To head the new firm Thos. Wilson was brought over from Morris and Co., where he had been president. The new company took the Wilson name.

Thos. Wilson (his name is Thomas, but he always signs it "Thos") is chairman of Wilson today while his son, Edward Foss Wilson, is president.

Wilson's earnings last year of $6,702,578 were the smallest since 1945 and compared with $15,448,823 the previous year. However, they compared favorably with pre-war years when sales were much smaller than now.

SELLS OTHER GOODS

The company did not break down earnings into meat and non-meat divisions. Wilson has a very large sporting goods business, and this division has been considered a good money maker.

Last of the big four is Cudahy. Around midway in the nineteenth century an Irishman and his wife came to Milwaukee from Callan, county, Kilkenny, bringing four young boys and a daughter. One boy went to work for John Plankinton. This was Michael Cudahy.

When Armour started up in Chicago, he made Michael Cudahy a partner. The two established the Armour-Cudahy Packing company of Omaha, taking a plant operated by Sir Thomas Lipton of tea and yacht fame. Armour then bought out Cudahy's interest in Chicago and Cudahy bought out Armour's interest in Omaha.

Michael's great contribution to the packing industry was the development of summer curing of meats under refrigeration.

The other Cudahy boys did all right, too. Edward became a partner of Michael in Omaha. The present president of the Cudahy Packing company is a son of this Edward. Patrick Cudahy succeeded to the business of Plankinton in Milwaukee. John established a packing firm in Chicago.

Cudahy last year earned $1,-012,737 compared with $7,121,-707 in 1947. Earnings were the smallest since 1939. The company said its meat operations, including utilizing all the by-products of meat, returned a net loss.

What happened to the packers last year?

Armour and Cudahy went to greatest lengths to explain to stockholders why returns for the year were disappointing. They listed this sequence of events:

A sharp drop in meat prices during February caused large inventory losses.

Then starting March 16 and running through May 22, the four companies were hit by a strike of the United Packinghouse Workers (CIO).

The strike was settled on terms offered workers before the strike began and a rush developed to get plants into operation. In order to get the necessary raw materials, packers pushed up the price of livestock. Meat prices, already high, could not be raised in proportion. The packers paid more for the livestock than they got for the meat.

Bucyrus Junior Sets Scholarship Test Pace

BUCYRUS — Fred Meck, Bucyrus high school senior and son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Meck, placed first in recent senior scholarship examinations conducted at the local high school. Twenty-six BHS seniors, 10 and 16 boys, took the tests.

High school Principal Edwin E. Gearhart reported young Meck rated among the upper one per cent of the 9,000 Ohio students taking the examination.

Doris Bergen finished second; Shirley McKinley, third; David Ashbaugh, fourth; Arden Linn, fifth; Richard Bumstead, sixth, and George Arnold, seventh. The first five will receive district and state scholarship certificates.

Crestline Historical Unit to Meet Monday

CRESTLINE — Ernest Wesson, director of the Midland Rare Book company of Mansfield, will speak on "You Meet Such Interesting People" when he addresses the 8 p. m Monday meeting of the Crestline Historical society in the mayor's office in the Municipal building.

Dr. Ernest G. Hesser, president of the society, promises a surprise announcement will be made. The meeting is open to the public.

Church Editor Slates Speeches In Ashland

ASHLAND — Dr. W. H. Leach, editor of Church Management magazine, will serve as special speaker for a religious emphasis week being sponsored by Ashland college and Ashland county pastors March 8-11.

Dr. Leach will address the student body of the college at the First Brethren church at chapel exercieses each morning at 10:30. Pastors of the county will sponsor a public service one evening during the week with Dr. Leach as speaker.

Afternoon workshops for discussion and work in special interests will be in charge of Rev. Kenneth Hulit, pastor of the Akron E.U.B. church and a graduate of the college and seminary.

Plymouth Seniors Set Class Play, Plan Trip

PLYMOUTH — The senior class of Plymouth high school have chosen "The Big Potato" for their class play, to be presented on April 1.

Twenty-six seniors are making plans for their annual trip to Washington, D. C., and two sponsors, Mrs. John Lanius, and Miss Fay Jeffrey, probably will make the trip with them. The trip is expected to be by bus, instead of train.

To Head Drive

PLYMOUTH — Mrs. Ray Johnson, of West Broadway, will head the local Red Cross fund campaign which gets under way Tuesday. Mrs. Roscoe Hutchinson will direct the township drive. Plymouth's quota is $658 and the township's is $166.

Ashland Vet Memorial Set

ASHLAND — A six-week fund campaign to finance a war veterans memorial at Ashland cemetery will open here April 15.

The campaign is to be conducted by the Veterans Monument association, an organization formed at a joint meeting of representatives from the Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion and Spanish-American war veterans. The campaign will close Memorial Day.

The monument will honor the 400 or more former servicemen of all wars buried in the cemetery. It will be the first such monument in the cemetery. It is planned to have the monument in place by V-J Day next September. Size of the memorial will be determined by the response to the fund campaign.

Shelby Scout Troop To Mark Anniversary

SHELBY — Boy Scouts of Troop No. 3 will take part in an anniversary church service at the Methodist church today at 10:00 a. m., as part of the observance of the 14th anniversary of the troop, which will be celebrated Monday with a birthday party at 7:00 p. m.

Hand-Me-Down Reckoner Is Prize Book of Tiro Farmer

TIRO — Richard Crouse, Auburn Township farmer living on State Route 98, has an old pocket edition of the Ready Reckoner which is a unique book. It has been used by three generations of member of the Crouse family and is in good condition today ready to compute the price of 10 dozen eggs or 1,000 bushels of corn.

The book was printed and published by G. S. Peters in Harrisburg, Pa., in 1829 thus it is 120 years old. The Ready Reckoner and Traders Companion originally was the property of the grandfather of the present owner. Later it became one of the cherished possessions of his son Joshua Crouse. He in turn handed the book down to his son Richard Crouse.

Crouse says he well remembers seeing his mother use the book often when selling eggs, butter or other produce and buying clothing or other household needs in the days before cash registers. Crouse says he and his sister Ethel still use the book on occassions.

The Ready Reckone. can be used to compute the amount of a transaction of any number of articles from one to 1,000 at any price from ¼ c to $12

The preface of the book states "The Ready Reckoner one view shows the wholesale or retail value of any number of yards, pounds, bushels, or any other commodity at one quarter of a cent and so up to $12, in so plain and easy a manner, that a person quite unacquainted with arithmetic may find the total value required. To those versed with figures it cannot fail to be equally useful, as it will serve to prove their own calculations".

Wolves' Tank Team Defeats Ohio Staters

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (AP) — Michigan's championship swimming team edged Ohio State 45-39 yesterday to add a chapter to the intense rivalry between the two schools.

The meet was nip and tuck down to the final three events when Michigan led by Bob Sohl finished one-two in the 200-yard breaststroke to seize a definite lead. Charlie Moss provided the valuable second in the event.

Bill Smith, Ohio State Olympic free style champion, added the 440 to his earlier 220 victory. But Michigan's Matt Mann and Gus Stager finished second and third to pick up needed points.

It was Michigan's sixteenth straight dual meet victory stretching over three seasons.

Buckeyes One Of Favorites In Track Meet

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO — (AP) — Defending Champion Ohio State and Michigan are slight favorites to emerge on top of a free-for-all title struggle in the 39th annual Big Nine indoor track meet at the University of Illinois Friday and Saturday.

Form charts give an edge to the two schools, but Illinois, Minnesota's 1948 NCAA winners; Wisconsin, Purdue and Indiana, all have possibilities. Only Northwestern and Iowa, lacking team strength, are ruled out of contention.

WAS A SURPRISE

Ohio State, the 1948 indoor surprise winner, has fine individual power in both hurdle events and the high jump. Michigan, a perennial favorite with a collection of 15 crowns, has better team balance.

Illinois, only three points behind the Buckeyes' victory bag of 43 last year, is undefeated this season and rates the darkhorse role. It has balance in field events and top strength in the two-mile run, where Vic Twomey and Walt Jewsbury rank 1-2 in the conference.

The Illini possibly would become title favorites if Dike Eddleman were available for the high jump. Busy with basketball, he will not compete.

NINE DEFENDING

Nine athletes out of a total of 275 in the meet are defending champions. However, most of them will be hard pressed to repeat.

In the 60-yard dash, Indiana's Charlie Peters faces stiff opposition from Northwestern's Jim Holland; Minnesota's Tom Mason and Clark Rice; Michigan's Art Henrie and Purdue's Hal Omer and Chuck May.

Cincy Slates COP Contest

CINCINNATI —(AP)— The university of Cincinnati has announced a home-and-home agreement with the gridders of the College of the Pacific, Stockton, Calif.

The series will begin this fall when the Bearcats, making their first appearance in California, meet the Tigers at Stockton, Oct. 1. The return game is slated for Sept. 23, 1950, at Cincinnati's Nippert stadium.

The Bearcats, still seeking an opponent for the Sept. 17 opener, have scheduled eight foes in addition to the College of the Pacific. They are: Hardin-Simmons at UC, Sept. 24; Western Michigan at UC, Oct. 8; Mississippi State at UC, Oct. 15; Western Reserve at UC, Oct. 22; Kentucky at Lexington, Ky., Oct. 29; Ohio university at Athens, O., Nov. 5; Xavier at UC, Nov. 12, and Miami (Ohio) at UC, Nov. 24.
